

The background of the book cover is a watercolor painting. It depicts a dark, rusted car, possibly a Volkswagen Beetle, lying on its side in a snowy or sandy landscape. A long, thin wooden stick or branch leans against the car. In the background, there are bare, leafless trees and a pale, hazy sky. The overall tone is somber and wintry.

some zing to your paintings Of course the real learning happens by doing So you will apply all the techniques you learned so far in 10 step by step exercises A serene sunset The twin trees A still life painting An old wall covered with creeper plants vines Grass and the fence A waterfront house A rustic house Cabin in the snow Autumn tree near a lake The waterfall At the end of the book you will get links to video demonstrations for many of the paintings included in the book It s time to lose the fear of the watercolor and start enjoying it Happy painting

Why Art Cannot Be Taught James Elkins,2001-05-17 He also addresses the phenomenon of art critiques as a microcosm for teaching art as a whole and dissects real life critiques highlighting presuppositions and dynamics that make them confusing and suggesting ways to make them more helpful Elkins s no nonsense approach clears away the assumptions about art instruction that are not borne out by classroom practice For example he notes that despite much talk about instilling visual acuity and teaching technique in practice neither teachers nor students behave as if those were their principal goals He addresses the absurdity of pretending that sexual issues are absent from life drawing classes and questions the practice of holding up great masters and masterpieces as models for students capable of producing only mediocre art He also discusses types of art including art that takes time to complete and art that isn t serious that cannot be learned in studio art classes
