Bangladesh Cinema and National Identity Zakir Hossain Raju, 2014-12-17 Throughout the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries, cinema has been adopted as a popular cultural institution in Bangladesh. At the same time, this has been the period for the articulation of modern nationhood and cultural identity of Bengali Muslims in Bangladesh. This book analyses the relationship between cinema and modernity in Bangladesh, providing a narrative of the uneven process that produced the idea of Bangladesh cinema. This book investigates the roles of a non-Western national film industry in Asia in constructing nationhood and identity within colonial and postcolonial predicaments. Drawing on the idea of cinema as public sphere and the postcolonial notion of formation of the Bangladesh nation, interactions between cinema and middle-class Bengali Muslims in different social and political matrices are analyzed. The author explores how the conflict among different social groups turned Bangladesh cinema into a site of contesting identities. In particular, he illustrates the connections between film production and reception in Bangladesh and a variety of nationalist constructions of Bengali Muslim identity. Questioning and debunking the usual notions of Bangladesh and cinema, this book positions the cinema of Bangladesh within a transnational frame. Starting with how to locate the beginning of the second Bengali language cinema in colonial Bengal, the author completes the investigation by identifying a global Bangladeshi cinema in the early twenty-first century. The first major academic study on this large and vibrant national cinema, this book demonstrates that Bangladesh cinema worked as different public spheres for different publics throughout the twentieth century and beyond. Filling a niche in Global Film and Media Studies and South Asian Studies, it will be of interest to scholars and students of these disciplines.

Chowdhury, 2024-11-14 This book focuses on the activities of the government of Canada Canadian NGOs Canadian media and the people of Canada during the War of Liberation of Bangladesh in 1971 It outlines Canada s assistance to the victims of the military crackdown as well as Canada s mediatory role Having no strong ties of strategic interests in Pakistan or India Canada had a sympathetic understanding of the two main parties involved the military government of President Yahya Khan and the democratic rights of the people of Pakistan represented by Sheikh Mujibur Rahman prime minister designate While the Nixon administration openly favoured Pakistan Canada s foreign policy constrained Canada The government was barraged with endless questions Was the military take over and crackdown a violation of the democratic rights of the people of Pakistan Should the process of democracy be upheld under all circumstances Should President Yahya continue his military reprisals in East Pakistan since the integrity of Pakistan was at stake What was India s role Was India dragged into the situation due to the influx of refugees What role should Canada play as a senior member of the Commonwealth There were no clear answers to these questions The declaration of independence for Bangladesh by the rebel forces and the formation of the Provisional Government of Bangladesh in India had already created another new twist on the complex issue Throughout the nine long months of the struggle for Bangladesh s independence Canada maintained its neutrality Yet it will be seen how Canada chose not to be a spectator but a player doing her best while still adhering to its foreign policy of non intervention
