The Blue Horse Philip Miller, 2015-03-09 Recently bereaved George Newhouse is an art historian and newly appointed curator at the National Gallery who becomes increasingly obsessed with a lost minor Dutch masterpiece The Blue Horse by Van Doelenstraat The painting's provenance is disputed and many doubt its existence at all But Newhouse has uncovered a letter by Rembrandt where the master states That damned painting vexes my mind's eye As Newhouse struggles with his grief his grip of reality slowly loosening he embarks on surreal journey of loss and self discovery fuelled by alcohol drugs and self destructive behaviour As the lines between reality and imagination blur will George lose himself in his obsession or return from the brink of destruction in time Highly atmospheric and exploiting many of the tropes of art appreciation this is a compelling literary noir and remarkable debut by one of Scotland's leading art correspondents There were times in Philip Miller's The Blue Horse when I had to look away from the twilight art world his lyrical prose so effectively eviscerates There is a tremendous sense of darkness here And yet his strength as a storyteller his ability to create multiple narratives of greed and grief of blurred desire pulled me back There is an intoxication about this writing a narcotic lure to its descriptions of ambition and decline but it never strays far from the simple art of a good story well told Toni Davidson author of Scar Culture and My Gun Was As Tall As Me I was disturbed interesting and convincing Alasdair Gray Blue Horse Orleta

Slick, 2015-09-29 A story told about Navajo children during a traumatic period in history when their people were captured marched hundreds of miles and were imprisoned in a camp for four years Their strong foundation is what kept them going and helped some of them survive The story concentrates on a clan whose youngest being a three month old baby and the oldest a sixteen year old The children endured the harshness of the elements and the US government The children created a bond that would last forever with an elderly Navajo woman who became their anchor when they could not find their loving parents While the children were held captive they carried on the legacies of their clans Some reunited with their parents and returned to their homeland With promises of better lives the Navajo people were released to a land reserved within the four sacred mountains They were forced to lead a different lifestyle less flourishing than before but they kept their families together and continued their traditional ways of life This included the introduction of a formal education Navajo leaders figured that acquiring an education would place them at an equal advantage of the dominant society The children however had a different experience In the end most of them found balance in their lives back on their homeland Blueboy: Horse from Another Era Judy White, 2005-07-01 Horse Color Explained Jeanette Gower, 2021-10-18 Few people are more
