Pathways to Literacy Michael R. Sampson, Mary Beth Sampson, Roach Van Allen, 1995 Pathways to Literacy, 2001

The Language Experience Approach to Literacy for Children Learning English Pamela J. T. Winsor, 2009 The instructional framework presented in this book is intended to help teachers provide all young children but especially English language learners with rich meaningful and interactive literacy instruction Referred to as LEALE the instruction is grounded in the traditional Language Experience Approach LEA It has been expanded to encompass principles and practices of research based early literacy instruction as understood and presented in current professional literature The approach is presented in an attractive easily understood style that invites both beginning and experienced teachers to engage their students in literacy The LEALE instructional framework presented here grew out of the many happy hours that the author spent working with children and their teachers over the years Included are pictures and examples of classroom materials chart stories and journals from children in Belize Central America and children in urban centres in Alberta Canada This title also features a brief history of LEA and its enduring merits an overview of the research that supports the enhancements of LEA included in LEALE a full description of LEALE with examples a guide for planning instruction including examples of unit topics and related resources descriptions of supplementary learning activities designed to enhance children s learnin recommended assessment procedures reproducible materials to aid teacher planning and record keeping Pathways to Literacy Trevor Cairney, 1995 This book recognizes that there is no simple way to develop literacy It begins with the central premise that literacy is not simply a cognitive process rather it is a set of social practices that are used in rich sociocultural contexts Literacy learners come to school with unique social histories that need to be recognized in the programmes devised to facilitate learning There are many forms of literacy each with its own specific purposes and contexts in which they are used Why is it that school literacy disempowers some and empowers others How must schools teachers and teaching change in order to ensure that literacy can be empowering for all What types of classroom environments permit children to gain access to the literacy practices which they need to take their place in the world Addressing these questions provides a refreshingly different look at the many practical classroom strategies and practices necessary to recognize multiple pathways to literacy

BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Learning Disabilities Pol Ghesquière, A. J. J. M. Ruijsenaars, 2005 Research on learning disabilities has known a tremendous growth the last 25 years Yet despite the progress that is made in diverse domains learning disabilities still stay a serious challenge to teaching and instruction In this book the authors try to link original research findings on learning disabilities with instructional methods and teaching practices The first part of the book brings together contributions about the cognitive metacognitive and socio emotional correlates of learning disabilities These factors generally form a core aspect of the challenge of learning disabilities to teaching and instruction The first three chapters concern the phenomenon of dyslexia Van den Broeck critically evaluates the disputable role of intelligence in the concept and definition of dyslexia Hutchinson Whiteley and Smith explore the role of cognitive linguistic skills in the early identification of reading problems in emergent bilingual children Van Ingelghem and colleagues study auditory temporal processing in children with dyslexia In chapter 4 Desoete and Roeyers summarize their research on metacognition in children with mathematics learning disabilities Finally Gadeyne Ghesqui re and Onghena explore the relationship between academic achievement and behaviour problems The second part of this book goes deeper into research on intervention and instruction methods The first three chapters focus on reading problems Whitely and her colleagues try to analyze why some children do not benefit from early phonologically based interventions leading to implications for the development of early screening tools and intervention schemes for these non beneficiaries Van Kraaenord Rohl and Rivalland report findings of an Australian study examining the programs and strategies used to teach and intervene in Australian classrooms for students with learning problems Bouwer and Jordaan argue for the use of imaging as a learning support technique for children with dyslexia The last two chapters explore the differential effect of direct and guided instruction for children with arithmetic learning problems Kroesbergen and Van Luit focus on the acquisition and use of multiplication strategies Milo and Ruijsenaars do the same for addition and subtraction up to 100 After reading this book not all challenges of learning disabilities to teaching and instruction will be tackled But it surely can offer some contribution in getting away from some of them The authors hope it gives a lot of inspiration to the diverse audience we had in mind practitioners as well as researchers of different disciplines

Keys to Educational Psychology Liesel Ebersöhn, 2004-06 If you are curious about Educational Psychology this book is for you You can read the chapters in any sequence or you can start at the beginning because this book provides myriad keys to the wonderful variety of themes in Educational Psychology today Written by leading psychologists researchers and practitioners this book focuses on all the positive constructs in Educational Psychology and reflects on the wide range of strengths assets and resources available to the educational psychologist Each chapter presents an integrated overview cutting edge definitions of key concepts quotations from professionals and students and reflective questions to guide your practice Written primarily by South Africans this book is particularly relevant to the local environment and presents practical application strategies Indigenous knowledge is infused with international perspectives and equal emphasis is placed on the learner and on the social context on assessment and intervention and on theory and practice The book is extremely accessible to students but will also be invaluable for teachers psychologists researchers and health professionals

Transaction Processing Jim Gray, Andreas Reuter, 1992-09-30 The key to client server computing Transaction processing techniques are deeply ingrained in the fields of databases and operating systems and are used to monitor control and update information in modern computer systems This book will show you how large distributed heterogeneous computer systems can be made to work reliably Using transactions as a unifying conceptual framework the authors show how to build high performance distributed systems and high availability applications with finite budgets and risk The authors provide detailed explanations of why various problems occur as well as practical usable techniques for their solution Throughout the book examples and techniques are drawn from the most successful commercial and research systems Extensive use of compilable C code fragments demonstrates the many transaction processing algorithms presented in the book The book will be valuable to anyone interested in implementing distributed systems or client server architectures
