Participation in Palliative Care Barbara Monroe, David Oliviere, 2003 Patient participation and user involvement are central to current thinking about the effective delivery of desired healthcare outcomes Working with the person who lies behind every patient is core to palliative care A voice can only become significant when it is listened to and acted upon With palliative care increasingly addressing the needs of people with a variety of conditions in a range of settings as well as with advances in research technology and information the challenge to be a voice for the voiceless is greater than ever This book addresses key aspects in the provision of patient centred palliative care and tracks significant developments in user involvement It sets the philosophy within the cultural social and political context of modern healthcare particularly addressing issues of quality standards education and bereavement A key component in the delivery of high quality palliative care is the multi professional team Following a discussion of teamwork five core professions present a critical analysis of their working practices The book concludes with a commentary from a palliative care user and a bereaved carer It is often somewhat glibly asserted that the patient is or should be at the centre of care There have been few attempts to examine how to keep him or her there without professional needs and protocols crowding him or her out This book asks how we listen and why we listen The book focuses on the challenges of how professionals can keep the needs of the patient central in clinical care and how the patient can influence the direction of that care The SAGE Handbook of Health Care Ethics Ruth professional cultures and bedside or patient focused clinical practice interact within a single UK institution While the findings of this study are time and context specific the events and social processes being described may nonetheless resonate closely with the experience of healthcare practitioners at other hospices both within and without the UK The work examines themes and ideas that hospice and palliative care practitioners as well as those involved or interested more broadly in end of life issues may find relevant It is argued that differential morphogenesis can be identified between structures social and cultural and agents individual and group at an independent healthcare charity in southern England A Hospice in Change connects theory and philosophy with concrete research practice to provide a worked example of Margaret Archer's realist social theory

From the Preface Cicely Saunders and Total Pain Joe Wood, 2024-11-30 Introduced in 1964 Cicely Saunders' term total pain has come to epitomise the holistic ethos of hospice and palliative care It communicates how a dying person's pain can be a whole overwhelming experience not only physical but also psychological social and spiritual Total pain clearly summarises Saunders' whole person multidisciplinary outlook but is it a phenomenon an intervention framework a care approach or something else This book disregards the idea that Saunders' phrase has one coherent meaning and instead explores the multiple interpretations now current in contemporary professional discourse Using close reading of Saunders' extensive publications as well as archival evidence and Saunders' own personal library it situates the current usage of total pain in wider histories of clinical holism questions its similarity to later ideas of narrative medicine and explores how it might express the ambiguities of bearing witness to pain and vulnerability when someone is dying

Innovations in Cancer and Palliative Care Education Lorna Foyle, Janis Hostad, 2017-10-03 This work includes Foreword by Nigel Sykes Medical Director St Christopher's Hospice London This practical evidence based guide has been specifically designed for teachers in cancer and palliative care It is completely up to date and covers the recent complex changes in cancer and palliative care delivery offering a range of different creative approaches Ideal for training the text includes highlighted key points self help questions for reflection and references where applicable It provides invaluable guidance for all healthcare professionals with palliative care teaching responsibilities including undergraduate and postgraduate healthcare educators and Macmillan lecturers This book gives us a three dimensional view of how to respond to the demands on cancer and palliative care education today set particularly in a British context but of course capable of extrapolation to other settings These three dimensions of innovation can be summarised as What do you teach How do you teach it To whom do you teach it Innovation in all three aspects simultaneously may be difficult to achieve but all who have a responsibility for education are faced with the challenges of making their teaching more effective and demonstrating that they have done so keeping abreast of advancing knowledge and clinical practice and of reaching out to groups of learners who hitherto have been neglected Of significant help to anyone in this field whose concern is the delivery of effective and appropriate education Nigel Sykes in the Foreword
