What Is Music? Philip Alperson, 2010-11-01

Etudes on the Philosophy of Music Juozas Rimantas, Juozas Rimantas Jr., 2024-09-13 Drawing on the author's four decades of experience as a concert oboist, this open access book studies a number of foundational issues in the philosophy of music such as musical meaning and expression, musical ontology and the existence of the musical work, the relation between music and language and the phenomenology of music. The book surveys the development of Western classical music from the Baroque era through to the 20th century, both from the perspective of contemporary Lithuanian philosophers such as Girnius Maceina, Liogeris and Jack Nas and 20th century European philosophy. In addition to discussing key questions in the philosophy of music, the book also analyses technical musical terms such as articulation, phrasing and rhythm.

Philosophers on Music Kathleen Stock, 2007-09-27

Philosophers on Music: Experience, Meaning and Work presents significant new contributions to central issues in the philosophy of music, written by leading philosophers working in the analytic tradition. Music is an increasingly popular object of reflection for professional philosophers, as it raises special questions not only of relevance to music practitioners, theorists and philosophers of art, but also of wider philosophical interest to those working in metaphysics, the philosophy of emotion and the philosophy of language among other areas. The wide range of contributors to this volume reflects this level of interest. It includes both well-known philosophers of music drawing on a wealth of reflection to produce new and often startling conclusions, and philosophers relatively new to the philosophy of music yet eminent in other philosophical fields who are able to bring a fresh perspective informed by that background to their topic of choice. The issues tackled in this volume include what sort of thing a work of music is, the nature of the relation between a musical work and versions of it, the nature of musical expression and its contribution to musical experience, the relation of music to metaphor, the nature of musical irony, the musical status of electro-sonic art and the nature of musical rhythm. Together these papers constitute some of the best new work in what is an exciting field of research and one which has much to engage philosophers, aestheticians and musicologists.

Philosophy of Music R.A. Sharpe, 2015-01-30 This lively and lucid introduction to the philosophy of music concentrates on the issues that illuminate musical listening and practice. It examines the conceptual debates relevant to the understanding and performing of music and grounds the philosophy in practical matters throughout. Ideal for a beginning readership with little philosophical background, the author provides an overview of the central debates enlivened by a real sense of enthusiasm for the subject and why it matters. The book begins by filling in the historical background and offers readers a succinct summary of philosophical thinking on music from the Ancient Greeks to Eduard Hanslick and Edmund

Gurney Chapter 2 explores two central questions what is it that makes music or to be precise some pieces of music works of art And what is the work of music per se Is it just what we hear the performance or is it something over and above that something we invent or discover Chapter 3 discusses a problem peculiar to music and one at the heart of philosophical discussion of it can music have a meaning And if so what can it be Chapter 4 considers whether music can have value Are there features about music that make it good features which can be specified in criteria Is a work good if and only if it meets with the approval of an ideally qualified listener How do we explain differences of opinion Indeed why do we need to make judgements of the relative value of pieces of music at all This engaging and stimulating book will be of interest to students of aesthetics musical practitioners and the general reader looking for a non technical treatment of the subject A Humanistic Philosophy of Music Edward A.
