

Federalist Papers

- A series of 85 articles arguing for the ratification of the US Constitution
- Federalist judges use these papers as a primary source for interpreting the Constitution
- Provided the first specific mention found in political literature of the idea of checks and balances as a way of restricting governmental power
- Written by James Madison, Alexander Hamilton, John Jay
- The Federalist Papers project began by Hamilton in response to the many articles and public letters written by Anti-Federalists when the Constitution was sent to the states for ratification in September 1787
- The high demand for these essays led to their publication in a more permanent form after they first appeared in three New York newspapers: the Independent Journal, the New-York Packet and the Daily Advertiser on October 27, 1787
