Malone,George Shadbolt,J. Traill Taylor,William Blanchard Bolton,Thomas Bedding,1905 The Amateur Photographer & Photographer ,1926 Like Love Maggie Nelson,2024-04-02 A career spanning collection of inspiring revelrous essays about art and artists Like Love is a momentous raucous collection of essays drawn from twenty years of Maggie Nelson s brilliant work These profiles reviews remembrances tributes and critical essays as well as several conversations with friends and idols

bring to life Nelson's passion for dialogue and dissent. The range of subjects is wide from Prince to Carolee Schneemann to Matthew Barney to Lhasa de Sela to Kara Walker but certain themes recur: intergenerational exchange, love and friendship, feminist and queer issues especially as they shift over time, subversion, transgression and perversity, the roles of the critic and of language in relation to visual and performance arts, forces that feed or impede certain bodies and creators, and the fruits and follies of a life spent devoted to making. Arranged chronologically, Like Love shows the writing, thinking, feeling, reading, looking and conversing that occupied Nelson while writing iconic books such as Bluets and The Argonauts. As such, it is a portrait of a time, an anarchic party rich with wild guests, a window into Nelson's own development and a testament to the profound sustenance offered by art and artists.

Reading Cavell's The World Viewed William Rothman, Marian Keane, 2000-11-01 In their thoughtful study of one of Stanley Cavell's greatest yet most neglected books, William Rothman and Marian Keane address this eminent philosopher's many readers from a variety of disciplines who have neither understood why he has given film so much attention nor grasped the place of The World Viewed within the totality of his writings about film. Rothman and Keane also reintroduce The World Viewed to the field of film studies. When the new field entered universities in the late 1960s, it predicated its legitimacy on the conviction that the medium's artistic achievements called for serious criticism and on the corollary conviction that no existing field was capable of the criticism film called for. The study of film needed to found itself intellectually upon a philosophical investigation of the conditions of the medium and art of film. Such was the challenge The World Viewed took upon itself. However, film studies opted to embrace theory as a higher authority than our experiences of movies, divorcing itself from the philosophical perspective of self-reflection apart from which The World Viewed teaches we cannot know what movies mean or what they are. Rothman and Keane now argue that the poststructuralist theories that dominated film studies for a quarter of a century no longer compel conviction. Cavell's brilliant and beautiful book can provide a sense of liberation to a field that has forsaken its original calling, read in a way that acknowledges its philosophical achievement. The World Viewed can show the field a way to move forward by rediscovering its passion for the art of film. Reading Cavell's The World Viewed will prove invaluable to scholars and students of film and philosophy and to those in other fields such as literary studies and American studies who have found Cavell's work provocative and fruitful.

Photo-era, 1920 Photo-era Magazine, 1921 Contemporary Photography in France Olga Smith, 2022-10-19 This compelling publication traces the broad arc of photography's development in France from the 1970s to the present day. A decade-by-decade account reveals unexpected points of convergence between practices that are not usually considered in a comparative perspective. These include photographic practices in contemporary art, documentary, photojournalism and fashion. Author Olga Smith sets these practices in dialogue with French philosophy, the writings of Roland Barthes, Jean Baudrillard and Jacques Rancière to produce an innovative study of the intersections between the photographic image, text, practice and theory. This analysis is guided by an understanding of photography as deeply engaged with historical cultural and intellectual events that defined French national experience in the contemporary period Landscape provides a particular focus to study issues of key significance including national identification colonial past legacies of modernization and environmental breakdown Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature ,1923
