Public Technology Procurement and Innovation Charles Edquist, Leif Hommen, Lena Tsipouri, 2012-12-06 Public Technology Procurement and Innovation studies public technology procurement as an instrument of innovation policy In the past few years public technology procurement has been a relatively neglected topic in the theoretical and research literature on the economics of innovation Similarly preoccupation with supply side measures has led policy makers to avoid making very extensive use of this important demand side instrument These trends have been especially pronounced in the European Union There as this book will argue existing legislation governing public procurement presents obstacles to the use of public technology procurement as a means of stimulating and supporting technological innovation Recently however there has been a gradual re awakening of practical interest in such measures among policy makers in the EU and elsewhere For these and other related measures this volume aims to contribute to a serious reconsideration of public technology procurement from the complementary standpoints of innovation theory and innovation policy diffusion of information technology and systems OECD Regional Development Studies Regions in Industrial Transition Policies for People and Places OECD,2019-11-14 This report offers guidance on how to manage industrial transition and is directed towards all policymakers seeking to improve the what and how of policies that promote industrial change It identifies how regions in industrial transition can become more competitive and more resilient in the context of major shifts brought about by globalisation decarbonisation and ongoing technological change OECD Science, Technology and Innovation Outlook 2016 OECD,2016-12-08 The fully revamped and re titled OECD Science Technology and Innovation Outlook is a biennial publication that aims to inform policy makers and analysts on recent and future changes in global science technology and innovation STI patterns and their potential implications Biomedical Scientists and Public Policy H. H. Fudenberg,2012-12-06 This volume brings together the views of authors involved in many aspects of biomedicine from research on basic biology to clinical investigation of the causes and treatment of human disease to hospital administration to health care planning on the state and Federal levels to Congressional legislation covering biomedical research medical education the development of medical technology and the delivery of health care The purpose is not to present a party line representing a consensus of these often divergent viewpoints and we do not suggest that we have found solutions to the many problems encountered in the interaction of scientists administrators legislators and the recipients of health care These articles are intended primarily to communicate to both biomedical scientists and intelligent laymen the processes social and political as well as scientific whereby biomedical science advances and the need for biomedical scientists to take an interest and initiative not only in scientific research but also in research on health care delivery and in related public issues before the legislative and administrative branches of government Innovation and Institutions Steven Casper,Frans van Waarden,2005-01-01 The idea behind this book is that institutions are important when it comes to explaining the specialisation and performance of national innovation systems The idea is not new But largely the institution concept has remained somewhat vague and unspecified in the literature This book is valuable since it succeeds in opening up the black box of institutions and organisations The distinction between institutions at different levels and how they link up and form a systemic whole is especially original and fruitful The interdisciplinary team behind the book has also produced a welcome antidote to the current tendency to benchmark innovation systems exclusively on the basis of quantitative indicators The analysis demonstrates that some national systems do better in some specific areas because of being supported by institutions that are sometimes deeply rooted in history and culture This is why imitating best practice across countries is not a straight forward thing to do Bengt ke Lundvall Aalborg University Denmark Innovation and Institutions is an extensive elaboration on the make up of systems of innovation It examines why some countries are more innovative than others why national styles of innovation differ and goes on to explore why some countries make radical innovations but fail to successfully market them whilst others making incremental innovations have more commercial success The book draws on a variety of different literatures and perspectives to illustrate the organizational and institutional dimensions of national innovation systems. Literatures discussed include the economics of innovation, organizational sociology, administrative science, institutional economics, organizational learning, network analysis, business systems, economic governance and regulation. This truly interdisciplinary book will be invaluable to academics and researchers focussing on innovation in a wide range of fields. It will also strongly appeal to practitioners and policymakers concerned with innovation.

Exploring Technology-Infused Education in the Post-Pandemic Era Tomei, Lawrence A., Carbonara, David D., 2024-08-05. In the aftermath of the 2020-2022 pandemic, educators find themselves grappling with the decision to revert to traditional instructional methods or embrace the transformative power of 21st century technologies. The swift integration of virtual classrooms, videoconferencing and social media during the pandemic has left teachers navigating uncharted territory. Many who once vehemently resisted technology now stand on the precipice of a digital revolution in education. This dichotomy poses a pressing problem: a dearth of documented research and guidance for educators seeking to measure the true value of these technologies in the post-pandemic era. Exploring Technology-Infused Education in the Post-Pandemic Era offers guidance and solutions to the challenges faced by educators. As teachers stand on the brink of a pivotal decision, the research community lags behind in providing the necessary insights to inform their choices The questions loom large What technologies emerged during the pandemic and have they proven effective in the classroom Can these innovations seamlessly coexist with traditional instructional methods The void in documented research leaves educators in a quandary lacking the evidence needed to make informed decisions about the integration of technology into their teaching practices This critical gap impedes progress and hinders the unleashing of the full potential of 21st century educational tools

The Social and Economic

Impact of New Technology 1978-84: A Select Bibliography Leslie Grayson, 2012-12-06 Silicon chip technology microprocessor technology information technology or quite simply new technology These are some of the names representing the microelectronics revolution depending upon the audience being addressed by speaker or writer No previous new industrial development has caused such widespread publicity and discussion amongst users and researchers as the new technology Concern is being expressed about the effects of new technology on employment job satisfaction social life leisure activities and the economics of commerce and industry The late 70s saw many doom laden predictions of those effects but by 1983 both management and trade unions were taking a more objective view of the social and economic impacts and many correspondents now see the new technology as a means of opening up new industries and overcoming the effects of world recessions The chip has involved the factory floor the office the supermarket and the home Electronic funds transfer electronic shopping microelectronic domestic appliances word processors and microprocessor controlled machinery mean that the new technology has pervaded all aspects of social and economic life and the developed countries are now coming to accept it as part of society as a whole Inevitably the flood of literature on the social and economic impacts of new technology has been overwhelming Unfortunately the quality of information and arguments propagated at conferences in journal papers and research reports has indicated that there has been little quantifiable evidence available on the effects of these impacts
