countries have been struggling constantly to find a workable balance between the need to strengthen the authority of state institutions and their citizens aspirations to have a real say in the decision making process This book looks at the contrasting ways in which both Brazil and Chile have been dealing with societal demands for participation during the last two decades The contributors to this volume highlight a series of historical and political factors that help to understand why Brazil has been able to introduce innovative democratizing policies while Chile has largely failed in the advancement of participatory schemes as its decision making process continues to be heavily top down and technocratic Contributors Rebecca N Abers Gianpaolo Baiocchi Adolfo Castillo D az Herwig Cleuren Gonzalo Delamaza Vicente Espinoza Joe Foweraker Marcus Klein Kees Koonings Adalmir Marquetti Patricio Navia William R Nylen Paul W Posner Patricio Silva and Brian Wampler

Handbook on Urban Social Policies Kazepov, Yuri, Barberis, Eduardo, Cucca, Roberta, Mocca, Elisabetta, 2022-07-22 The importance of subnational welfare measures and their complex embeddedness in wider multilevel governance systems has often been underplayed in both urban studies and social policy analysis This Handbook gives readers the analytical tools to understand urban social policies in context and bridges the gap in research The EU's Policy on the Integration of Migrants Pierre Georges Van Wolleghem, 2018-09-26 This book addresses a timely yet largely overlooked issue in political science the integration of migrants in a multilevel polity In a context characterised by the increasing salience of migration related questions and despite the gradual construction of a European Union immigration policy over the past two decades no competence was ever created on integration matters The emergence of a consistent ensemble of soft instruments in this policy realm in the 2000s unveiled an original pattern of EU policy formation Can there be Europeanization without an EU competence That is the question this original piece of research tackles It shows how the way in which the policy emerged at EU level affected policy outputs adopted thereafter throughout the policy cycle Mixing qualitative and quantitative methods it explains the development of the EU integration policy and examines its main policy device the European Integration Fund from negotiation to implementation The Oxford Handbook of Intergroup Conflict Linda Tropp, 2012-07-26 With insightful chapters from key social psychologists and peace scholars this handbook offers an integrative and extensive overview of critical questions issues processes and strategies relevant to understanding and addressing intergroup conflict

Transatlantic Regulation Susanne Lütz, 2016-03-16 The European and American economies are closely interlinked as mutually important investment and trading partners The growing intensity of economic interdependence has spurred the transatlantic coordination of rules and standards that can lead to the formation of non tariff barriers to transatlantic commerce But despite impressive government to government efforts to eliminate market barriers the E U and the U S have frequently clashed over each other s regulatory policies The aim of this book is to explore the domestic sources of cooperation or conflict in transatlantic regulation The book analyses the role of domestic factors through three theoretical lenses that are well established in the study of multilevel systems the principal agent approach the two level game metaphor and through a wider concept of institutionalism which emphasises the links between societal interests and regulatory ideas with institutional frameworks The book states that domestic factors embody more obstacles than opportunities for horizontal coordination It is argued that transatlantic relations will likely undergo a double movement of being simultaneously shifted upwards to become part of the global governance architecture and downwards towards broader involvement of legislators in regulatory matters Hence transatlantic regulation might in the near future be shaped more by political leaders rent seeking interest groups and legislators than by networks of technocrats This book was published as a special issue of the Review of International Political Economy

Participatory Budgeting in Brazil Brian Wampler, 2010-11 As Brazil and other countries in Latin America turned away from their authoritarian past and began the transition to democracy in the 1980s and 1990s interest in developing new institutions to bring the benefits of democracy to the citizens in the lower socioeconomic strata intensified and a number of experiments were undertaken Perhaps the one receiving the most attention has been Participatory Budgeting PB first launched in the southern Brazilian city of Porto Alegre in 1989 by a coalition of civil society activists and Workers Party officials PB quickly spread to more than 250 other municipalities in the country and it has since been adopted in more than twenty countries worldwide Most of the scholarly literature has focused on the successful case of Porto Alegre and has neglected to analyze how it fared elsewhere In this first rigorous comparative study of the phenomenon Brian Wampler draws evidence from eight municipalities in Brazil to show the varying degrees of success and failure PB has experienced He identifies why some PB programs have done better than others in achieving the twin goals of ensuring governmental accountability and empowering citizenship rights for the poor residents of these cities in the quest for greater social justice and a well functioning democracy Conducting extensive interviews applying a survey to 650 PB delegates doing detailed analysis of budgets and engaging in participant observation Wampler finds that the three most important factors explaining the variation are the incentives for mayoral administrations to delegate authority the way civil society organizations and citizens respond to the new institutions and the particular rule structure that is used to delegate authority to citizens

Zimbabwe's Fast Track Land Reform Prosper B. Matondi, 2012-11-08 The Fast Track Land Reform Programme in Zimbabwe has emerged as a highly contested reform process both nationally and internationally The image of it has all too often been that of the widespread displacement and subsequent replacement of various people agricultural related production systems facets and processes The reality however is altogether more complex Providing new and much needed empirical research this in depth book examines how processes such as land acquisition allocation transitional production outcomes social life gender and tenure have influenced and been influenced by the forces driving the programme It also explores the ways in which the land reform programme has created a new agrarian structure based on small to medium scale farmers In attempting to resolve the problematic issues the reforms have raised the author argues that it is this new agrarian formation which provides the greatest scope for improving Zimbabwe's agriculture and development Based on a broader geographical scope than any previous study carried out on the subject this is a landmark work on a subject of considerable controversy Acid Precipitation ,1992 Handbook of BRICS and Emerging Economies P. B. Anand,Shailaja Fennell,Flavio Comim,2021 Ever since Jim O Neill at Goldman Sachs coined the term BRICS in 2001 there have been many different assessments of these major emerging economies with some even proclaiming that the promise of the BRICS comprising Brazil Russia India China and South Africa is over However the so called arranged marriage still seems to be working well with the club having become a formal international forum with summit declarations ministerial meetings and numerous BRICS wide fora Is this euphoria misplaced Is there a BRICS model of economic and human development Are inequalities increasing and is this the denouncement of the economic successes The Handbook of BRICS and Emerging Economies presents a comprehensive and multi faceted analysis of the BRICS countries and other emerging economies exploring their economic social environmental and governance dimensions and other challenges It brings together multi disciplinary perspectives from more than fifty authors to examine how education contributed to the emergence of BRICS how BRICS are impacting African economies and how other emerging economies including Chile Mexico Turkey and others in Africa and Central Asia compare It observes the impact of governance challenges both within individual countries and in the forum for co operation amongst them what issues related to gender and identity based violence are prevalent and what the security implications are and the role of BRICS is in contributing to peace keeping operations
