However, with the introduction of new media, the nature of these campaigns has changed. Today's consumers have more awareness and diversified ways to obtain knowledge and through new media they can provide feedback. An understanding of how to utilize new media to promote and sustain the reputation of an organization is vital for its continued success. The Handbook of Research on New Media Applications in Public Relations and Advertising is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the application of new media tools for running successful public relations and advertising campaigns. While highlighting topics such as digital advertising, online behavior, and social networking, this book is ideally designed for public relations officers, advertisers, marketers, brand managers, communication directors, social media managers, IT consultants, researchers, academicians, students, and industry practitioners.

Public Relations Cases and Readings Daniel Moss, Barbara DeSanto, 2005-08-19 This unique collection of contemporary international public relations case studies gives readers in-depth insights into the effective use of public relations in a range of organizational contexts. The cases examined demonstrate the breadth of contemporary public relations practice and the increasing importance and sophistication of the public relations function in both public and private sector organizations. Cases from the UK, Norway, Spain, Sweden, South Africa, Canada, and the USA are featured. Offering valuable insights into the development of PR and communication strategies, the areas examined include corporate identity change and management, global reputation management, crisis management in the oil and shipping industries, exploiting strategic alliances between voluntary and private sector organizations, public relations support for international branding and market entry, the importance of internal communications during international mergers, the integration of public relations and marketing communications, business to business communications. The Global Foundations of Public Relations Robert E. Brown, Burton St. John III, Jenny Zhengye Hou, 2021-09-27 The Global Foundations of Public Relations: Humanism, China, and the West explores the growing humanistic turn in public relations processes and proposes that this has compelling parallels in the roots of Chinese philosophies. As the leader of growth and power across the Pacific Rim, public relations in China is not developing in isolation from the West but via mutual accommodations and culturally complex interactions. By collecting cases and reflections on PR practices from both Chinese and Western scholars, the chapters propose that Chinese philosophies are playing a role in the development of modern Chinese PR practices and focusing less on the obvious differences and contrasts seek to highlight their spiritual, philosophical, and political confluences. The conclusions drawn enhance and advance our understanding of public relations globally. This innovative work is of interest to educators and researchers in the fields of public relations, strategic communications, and
