Smart Urban Development Vito Bobek, 2020-02-19 Debates about the future of urban development in many countries have been increasingly influenced by discussions of smart cities Despite numerous examples of this urban labelling phenomenon we know surprisingly little about so called smart cities This book provides a preliminary critical discussion of some of the more important aspects of smart cities Its primary focus is on the experience of some designated smart cities with a view to problematizing a range of elements that supposedly characterize this new urban form It also questions some of the underlying assumptions and contradictions hidden within the concept

Cities and Services Steven Pinch, 2012-12-06

Caught between the twin pressures of rising public expectations and falling resources public services have become the subject of intense academic scrutiny and public debate Much of this controversy has been fuelled by a growing realisation that where people live has an important influence upon their access to services The so called postcode lottery The first part of this book considers what is meant by the term collective consumption and discusses the main differences between the British and American local government systems It examines various geographical schools of analysis which focus on jurisdictional partitioning locational efficiency externalities and locational conflict Subsequent chapters explore the relevance of public choice neo Weberian and neo Marxist theories for an understanding of collective consumption The final section looks at ways in which spatial perspectives can be linked with broader theoretical approaches in the context of modern developments This book was first published in its current form in 1985

The New Urban Economics H.W. Richardson, 2013-04-15 This book was first published in 1977 Urban economics is a relatively young field of economics hardly existing except perhaps in real estate and land economics curricula before the 1960s Within the last few years especially after 1971 there has been a growth of interest in urban economic theory strong enough even to attract the attention of general economic theorists These new theoretical writings have been named the New Urban Economics NUE for short The aim of this monograph is to survey and assess NUE to evaluate its contribution to urban economics to offer a few extensions and to say something about the future direction of the subfield

Decentralizing Urban Development Programs Dennis A. Rondinelli, 1989 Urban Governance in Transition Hongshan Yang, 2020-09-19 This book offers readers a comprehensive introduction to the functions of the government in contemporary China Further it creates a framework to describe urban governance in today's China which consists of four basic modes the omnipotent government mode autonomous governance mode integrated governance mode and cooperative governance mode The book defines a city as a gathering place for high quality public service resources and the basic task of urban governance is to provide high quality public services and maintain the sustainability of fiscal revenues By focusing on current hot topics in urban governance in China including the institutional development of urban governance model interpretation city county relationship cross border governance cross sectoral coordination street management community service provision and municipal performance evaluation it clarifies a number of common misunderstandings in the field of urban management and practice Lastly the book analyses the current integrated governance model used in Chinese cities which relies on the authority of the government and integrates the market and social subjects across borders by means of qualification identification resource support elite absorption party group embeddedness and project cooperation However this model is currently facing several problems In order to address the potential risks of integrated governance the book argues that we need to develop new institutional arrangements based on collaborative governance Annual Report on Urban Development of China 2013 Jiahua Pan,Houkai Wei,2015-04-14 This book focuses on China s urban development In China the process of allowing more rural migrants to become registered city residents in urban areas remains stagnant despite its importance to the Chinese government and the existence of a national consensus about it Cities can compulsorily purchase land from farmers at low or even no costs and most farmers whose families have relied on the land to make a living for generations do not profit from increases in land value Breaking down the established distributive system of rights and privileges requires legislation and law enforcement To this end we need to break through the current pattern of interests and respect the citizenization relevant rights of rural migrant workers OECD Urban Studies National Urban Policy Review of Colombia OECD,2022-05-27 This OECD National Urban Policy Review of Colombia provides a comprehensive assessment of the country s national urban policy the System of Cities and of different sectoral policies that affect urban life transport housing land use and digitalisation Colombia has entered the 2020s facing five intertwined crises the COVID 19 pandemic rising levels of poverty and inequality a wave of mass international migration the peace process consolidation and the climate emergency Managing Smart Cities Anna Visvizi,Orlando Troisi,2022-02-01 This book adopts the managerial perspective to the study of smart cities As such this book is a necessary addition to the existing body of literature on smart cities The chapters included in this book prove the case that transformation of cities to smart cities is a function of effective and efficient management practices implemented at diverse levels of smart cities While advances in information and communication technology ICT are crucial it is the ability to apply ICT consciously and efficiently that drives the transformation of cities to smart cities in a manner conducive to cities sustainability and resilience The book covers three sets of interconnected topics Management and decision making for urban design and infrastructure development Management and decision making in context of smart cities development Ways of promoting and ensuring participation representation and co creation in smart cities These three groups of topics offer a great opportunity to acquire a clear direct and practice driven knowledge and understanding of how effective management allows ICT enhanced tools and applications
