Public Works In Seattle:

Public Works in Seattle Myra L. Phelps, Roy W. Morse, 1978 Planner's Guide to Facilities Layout and Design for the Defense Communications System Physical Plant, 1985 Electrical West, 1911 Water Resources Data, 1998

Ferro-cement Construction Panels H. H. Haynes, G. S. Guthrie, 1974 Bridges of Seattle Maureen R.

Elenga, 2020-01-27 Seattle is situated in a region of outstanding scenic beauty but the forested hills and numerous bodies of water that characterize the city were formidable obstacles to connecting its communities as it grew out from the historic center. Between 1896 and 1930 the city undertook massive landscape regrades, landfills, and waterway cuts to ease movement by land and water. The completion of these efforts allowed for the construction of Seattle's first permanent steel bridges. Beginning in 1910, nine bridges included in this book are listed in the National Register of Historic Places. They include Washington's oldest steel arch bridge, the 1911 Twelfth Avenue South Bridge, the 1913 Ravenna Park Bridge, all four of the Lake Washington Ship Canal bascules constructed between 1917 and 1924, and the Depression era Aurora Cowen Park and Schmitz Park bridges. Bridges of Seattle explores the history of the spans that are a quintessential part of the Seattle experience.

Polymer-strengthened Concrete for Military Facilities John R. Keeton, Robert L. Alumbaugh, 1973

Mixtures of polymer cement mortar and polymer cement concrete were formulated with 1 epoxy polyester and epoxy acrylate resins, 2 acrylic vinylacetate styrene butadiene and polyvinylidene chloride latices in varying proportions in relation to the weight of the cement. Both Type III Portland and Regulated Set Cements were used. Curing methods included low pressure steam, high pressure steam, dry heat, and ambient laboratory air. Highest ratios of compressive strengths of polymer cement mixtures to similar mixtures without the polymer control were 3.0 for mortar and 3.5 for concrete, both at a test age of 1 day. Highest compressive strengths obtained for mortar were 10,740 psi at a test age of 7 days and for concrete 11,170 psi at a test age of 28 days. Control strengths for these ages were 4,490 psi and 5,080 psi respectively. Page ii Engineering and

Contracting, 1912 Annual Report John Crerar Library, 1912 Publication, 1987 Shared Governance for Sustainable Working Landscapes Timothy M. Gieseke, 2016-08-05

Sustaining our agricultural landscapes is no longer just a technical, scientific, or even political problem; but it has evolved into a socially complex, so-called wicked problem of conflicting social governance and economics. This creates an extreme economic obstacle where the value of ecosystem services remains low and diffuse, and the transactions costs remain high and multiple. Using Uber-like business platform technology and a shared governance model a symbiotic demand for environmental benefits is created Enabling multi sector transactions for environmental benefits this platform innovation would remedy the tragedy of the commons the economic nemesis to achieving landscape sustainability In a nutshell to sustain our agricultural landscapes a transdisciplinary approach supported by a shared governance model housed within a multi sided platform is needed This book introduces an assessment framework identifying governance actors styles and ratios for socio ecological systems The assessment uses a new governance compass to identify the types of actors completing which tasks and identifies the styles of governance used to complete the tasks It is aimed to anyone involved in sustainability science agricultural policy planning or integrated landscape design

Resisting Garbage Lily Baum Pollans, 2021-11-02 Resisting Garbage presents a new approach to understanding practices of waste removal and recycling in American cities one that is grounded in the close observation of case studies while being broadly applicable to many American cities today Most current waste practices in the United States Lily Baum Pollans argues prioritize sanitation and efficiency while allowing limited post consumer recycling as a way to quell consumers environmental anxiety After setting out the contours of this weak recycling waste regime Pollans zooms in on the very different waste management stories of Seattle and Boston over the last forty years While Boston's local politics resulted in a waste export program with minimal recycling Seattle created new frameworks for thinking about consumption disposal and the roles that local governments and ordinary people can play as partners in a project of resource stewardship By exploring how these two approaches have played out at the national level Resisting Garbage provides new avenues for evaluating municipal action and fostering practices that will create environmentally meaningful change
