Anzia,2022-05-06 A policy focused approach to understanding the role of interest groups in US municipal governments Local politics in the United States once seemed tranquil compared to the divisiveness and dysfunction of the country's national politics. Those days have passed. As multiple wide-ranging crises have thrust America's local governments into the spotlight, they have also exposed policy failures and systemic problems that have mounted for years. While issues such as policing and the cost of housing are debated nationally, much of the policymaking surrounding these issues occurs locally. In Local Interests, Sarah F. Anzia explores how local governments and the interest groups that try to influence them create the policies that drive the national conversation: policing, economic development, housing, and challenges of taxing and spending. Anzia examines local interest groups in terms of the specific policies they pursue, including how these groups get active in politics and what impact they have. By offering new perspectives on these issues, Anzia contributes to our knowledge of how interest groups function and the significant role they play in shaping broader social outcomes.

These proceedings contain current research from industry, academia, and government organizations working on opaque and transparent ceramic armor. Papers on novel materials concepts for both vehicle and body armors are included, as well as papers that explore the relationship between computational modeling and property testing. These papers were presented at the Proceedings of the 30th International Conference on Advanced Ceramics and Composites, January 22-27, 2006, Cocoa Beach, Florida. Politics, Markets, and America's Schools John E. Chubb, Terry M. Moe, 2011-09-01. During the 1980s, widespread dissatisfaction with America's schools gave rise to a powerful movement for educational change, and the nation's political institutions responded with aggressive reforms. Chubb and Moe argue that these reforms are destined to fail because they do not get to the root of the problem. The fundamental causes of poor academic performance, they claim, are not to be found in the schools but rather in the institutions of direct democratic control by which the schools have traditionally been governed. Reformers fail to solve the problem when the institutions ARE the problem. The authors recommend a new system of public education built around parent/student choice and school competition that would promote school autonomy, thus providing a firm foundation for genuine school improvement and superior student achievement.

Black Americans and Organized Labor Paul D.

Moreno,2008-01-01 In Black Americans and Organized Labor Paul D Moreno offers a bold reinterpretation of the role of race and racial discrimination in the American labor movement Moreno applies insights of the law and economics movement to formulate a powerfully compelling labor race theorem of elegant simplicity White unionists found that race was a convenient basis on which to do what unions do control the labor supply Not racism pure and simple but the economics of discrimination explains historic black absence and under representation in unions Moreno s sweeping reexamination stretches from the antebellum period to the present integrating principal figures such as Frederick Douglass and Samuel Gompers Isaac Myers and Booker T Washington and W E B Du Bois and A Philip Randolph He traces changing attitudes and practices during the simultaneous black migration to the North and consolidation of organized labor s power through the confusing and conflicted post World War II period during the course of the civil rights movement and into the era of affirmative action Maneuvering across a wide span of time and a broad array of issues Moreno brings remarkable clarity to the question of the importance of race in unions He impressively weaves together labor policy and African American history into a cogent persuasive revisionist study that cannot be ignored

Challenge to American Schools John H. Bunzel,1987-12 In this provocative volume such noted authorities as Nathan Glazer Diane Ravitch Joseph Adelson Chester E Finn Jr and Martin Trow probe the troubling issues that have stirred a firestorm of controversy around our public school system These eleven original essays share the premise that past ideas particularly the notion that everyone should go to school to become good and productive citizens have not been proven wrong but are insufficient to the demands of the 1980s The contributors bring their diverse perspectives expertise to bear on such questions as How should we implement strategies for educational reform What should curriculums include and to whom should they be taught Are teachers unionism and high educational standards incompatible What does the growth of private schooling mean for education as a whole How has federal court intervention damaged or enhanced education What produces schools with good climates for learning What is the family s role in public education How have colleges and universities responded to the problem of underprepared students How should the issue of educational standards and ethnic racial factors be addressed Lucid and penetrating these reassessments contribute valuable new insights to a vitally important national debate
