Solving Problems in Technical Communication Johndan Johnson-Eilola, Stuart A. Selber, 2024-05-31

The field of technical communication is rapidly expanding in both the academic world and the private sector, yet a problematic divide remains between theory and practice. Here, Stuart A. Selber and Johndan Johnson-Eilola, both respected scholars and teachers of technical communication, effectively bridge that gap. Solving Problems in Technical Communication collects the latest research and theory in the field and applies it to real-world problems faced by practitioners: problems involving ethics, intercultural communication, new media, and other areas that determine the boundaries of the discipline. The book is structured in four parts, offering an overview of the field, situating it historically and culturally, reviewing various theoretical approaches to technical communication, and examining how the field can be advanced by drawing on diverse perspectives. Timely, informed, and practical, Solving Problems in Technical Communication will be an essential tool for undergraduates and graduate students as they begin the transition from classroom to career.

Institutional Literacies Stuart A. Selber, 2020-09-04 Information technologies have become an integral part of writing and communication courses shaping the ways students and teachers think about and do their work But too often teachers and other educational stakeholders take a passive or simply reactive role in institutional approaches to technologies and this means they are missing out on the chance to make positive changes in their departments and on campus Institutional Literacies argues that writing and communication teachers and program directors should collaborate more closely and engage more deeply with IT staff as technology projects are planned implemented and expanded Teachers need to both analyze how their institutions approach information technologies and intervene in productive ways as active university citizens with relevant expertise To help them do so the book offers a three part heuristic reflecting the reality that academic IT units are complex and multilayered with historical spatial and textual dimensions It discusses six ways teachers can intervene in the academic IT work of their own institutions maintaining awareness using systems and services mediating for audiences participating as user advocates working as designers and partnering as researchers With these strategies in hand
