The Practice of Punishment Wesley Cragg, 2003-09-02 This study focuses on the practice of punishment as it is inflicted by the state The author's first hand experience with penal reform combined with philosophical reflection has led him to develop a theory of punishment that identifies the principles of sentencing and corrections on which modern correctional systems should be built This new theory of punishment is built on the view that the central function of the law is to reduce the need to use force in the resolution of disputes Professor Cragg argues that the proper role of sentencing and sentence administration is to sustain public confidence in the capacity of the law to fulfil that function Sentencing and corrections should therefore be guided by principles of restorative justice He points out that although punishment may be an inevitable concomitant of law enforcement in general and sentencing in particular inflicting punishment is not a legitimate objective of criminal justice The strength and appeal of this account is that it moves well beyond the boundaries of conventional discussions It examines punishment within the framework of policing and adjudication analyses the relationship between punishment and sentencing and provides a basis for evaluating correctional practices and such developments as electronic monitoring

The Individual in Political Theory and Practice Janet Coleman, 1996 One of the main achievements of the research programme has been to overcome the long established historiographical tendency to regard states mainly from the viewpoint of their twentieth century borders

Education in Theory and Practice Gilbert Haven Jones,1919 Islamic Public Law - Islamic Law in Theory and Practice Ahmed Akgunduz,2011-11-01 Islamic law contains explications and divisions that imply a classification in terms of public and private law In this book we will explain the outlines of Islamic public law e g First Chapter Islamic constitutional law al siy sah al shar iyyah and administrative law al siy sah al shar iyyah Second Chapter penal law al uq b t Third Chapter financial law zak t ushr ar j and other taxes Fourth Chapter trial law qa and Fifth Chapter international public law al siyar The fields of especially Islamic constitutional law administrative law financial law ta z r penalties and arrangements concerning military law based on the restricted legislative authority vested by Shar ah rules and those jurisprudential decrees based on secondary sources like customs and traditions and the public good maslahah all fell under what was variously called public law al siy sah al shar iyyah Shar ah policy q n n legal code q n nn mah orf uq q etc Since these laws could not go beyond Shar ah principles either at least in theory they should not be regarded as a legal system outside of Islamic law But Islamic penal law financial law trial law and international law depend mostly on rules that are based directly on the Qur an and the Sunnah and codified in books of fiqh Islamic law called Shar ah rules Shar i shar f or Shar ah law Such rules formed 85% of the legal system In this book we will focus on some controversial problems in the Muslim world today such as the form of government in Islamic law and the relation between Islam and democracy Islamic law does not stipulate a certain method of state government nonetheless we may say that the principles it decrees and its concept of sovereignty suggest a religious republic As a matter of fact ulaf al R shid n the Rightly Guided Caliphs were both caliphs and religious republican presidents We could say that this book has three main characteristics i We have tried to base our explanations directly on the primary Islamic law sources For example after reading some articles on the caliphate or t m r system in articles or books by some Western scholars and even by some Muslim scholars one might conclude that there are different views on these subjects among Muslim scholars This is not true Muslims have agreed on the basic rules on legal subjects but there are some conflicts regarding nuances and interpretations If one reads works by Im m Gazzali Ibn Taymiyyah al M wardi and al Farr one will not find any disagreement on the main rules but there are some different interpretations of some concepts We have tried to discover where they agreed and we have sometimes pointed to where they differed ii We have researched practices of Islamic law especially legal documents in the Ottoman archives For example we explain add i sariqa

but also mention some legal articles from the Ottoman legal codes qunn mes and some Shar ah court decisions like legal decrees i l m t i shar iyyah It is well known that nobody can understand any legal system without implementing and practicing it That also holds for Islamic law because theory alone does not yield a complete understanding of Shar ah rules iii We have worked hard to correct some misconceptions and misunderstandings about Islamic law That is why we appeal to the primary sources For example some scholars claim that the anaf jurist Im m Sara s did not accept the idea of punishment for apostasy We have studied his work al Mabs t and found this claim to be unfounded The comparison between t m r and fief is another example because the t m r system is different from the fief system Some scholars confuse the concept of sovereignty and governance The Islamic state is not a theocratic state in the sense in which Europeans understand the term

Retribution Thom Brooks, 2019-10-30 Retribution is perhaps the most popular contemporary theory about punishment and has enjoyed enduring appeal as the oldest even most venerable penal theory with its strong ancient roots Retribution is understood in many different ways but the standard view of retribution is that punishment is justified where it is deserved and an offender should be punished in proportion to his desert In this volume retributivism is examined from various critical perspectives including its diversity relation with desert the link between desert and proportionality retributivist emotions and the idea of mercy The theory of retribution has been the subject of a revival of interest in recent years and the essays selected for this volume are the leading works on retribution from the dominant international figures in the field
