Purchase Of Service Contracting:

Purchase of Service Contracting in Human Services Peter M. Kettner, Lawrence L. Martin, 1987-05 Purchase of service contracting POSC has changed the way that human services are structured and delivered in the United States Most private companies now have contracts with the government and many public social service professionals have responsibility for contracts However few human service professionals have had any formal education or training in the philosophy concepts issues and technology involved This book presents a basic conceptual framework and step by step guide for POSC system design and practice Proceedings of the National Institute on Purchase of Service Contracting Kenneth R.

Wedel, Arthur J. Katz, Ann Weick, 1978 The Tools of Government Odus V. Elliott, 2002-02-22 The new tools of public action have come to rely heavily on third parties private businesses nonprofit organisations and other levels of government for their operation The Tools of Government is a comprehensive guide to the operation of these tools and to the management accountability policy and theoretical issues they pose Purchase of Service Contracting Barbara Jean Peat, 1997

Human Services Contracting Robert A. Shick, Lawrence Martin, 2019-12-10 In the last 35 years governments around the globe have increasingly contracted with nonprofit and for profit entities designed to provide a portion of the public sector's portfolio of goods and services This trend can be traced to a variety of factors including perceived or actual economic efficiencies in outsourcing goods and services values concerning the role and size of government in society and the financial and organizational constraints of many government entities In the United States child welfare services adopted a pro contracting approach early and a variety of other human services have followed suit including mental health care job training homeless services and others Although there is strong evidence to suggest that human service contracting is growing over time scholarship continues to lag on topics related to human service contract management policy implementation and innovation performance based contracting and evaluation This new volume in the Public Solutions Handbook series is the first volume length treatment of human services contracting issues integrating both policy and practice and exploring a broad range of issues that includes the fields of history growth innovations results and outcomes best practices and the future of government human service contracting Chapters in this book examine specific human service contracts both in the U S and abroad geared to practitioners in the public sector from local government service contractors to municipal employees as well as MPA students and those enrolled in courses on intergovernmental relations and nonprofit management

Demone, Margaret Gibelman, 2013-11-09 No reader of professional journals agency reports or the daily press needs to be told that Professors Gibelman and Demone have assembled a volume of contributions to a very lively debate The two words highlighted privatization and contracting sum up the prescriptions of many for social service reform and the anxieties of others who question the new strategies. The pace and scale of developments over the past 2 decades sometimes allows us to forget that the subject has a long history. Privatization may be thought of as involving public turnover to the private sector of responsibility for services it has been delivering. Or it may be the public sector arranging for the private sector to take on new services that the public wishes to encourage or for which it accepts responsibility. The transaction usually involves public funds. The historical story however is not one of public temporal primacy. Purchase of Service Contracting for Human

Peter Dobkin Hall, Program on Non-Profit Organizations, Yale Divinity School. A remarkable book. Robert Putnam, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University. One to come from John Simon School of Law, Yale University. By Jan 13th and others are being solicited. Unique among nations, America conducts almost all of its formally organized religious activity and many cultural arts, human service, educational, and research activities through private nonprofit organizations. Though partially funded by government as well as by fees and donations, American nonprofits have pursued their missions with considerable independence. Many have amassed remarkable resources and acquired some of the most impressive hospital, university, performing arts, and museum facilities in the world. While some have amassed large endowments, many that surpass one billion dollars, there are also hundreds of thousands of small nonprofits, most with no tangible resources at all. How did the United States come to rely so heavily on nonprofits? Why has it continued to do so? What purposes do Americans seek to advance through nonprofits? How have Americans sought to control them? How have nonprofits been effected by the growth of government in the twentieth century These questions suggest the complexity of the history of nonprofits in the United States To help explore that history this reader presents some of the classic documents in the development of the nonprofit sector along with important interpretations by recent scholars The selections can be considered a representative part of a single extended conversation by the men and women who have taken part in the effort to define America and the American dream even as they shaped what we now call the nonprofit sector The statements by participants in the growth and development of the nonprofit sector are accompanied by essays written by historians and social scientists that provide concise surveys of important issues and periods The essays give voice to those whose contributions to the American debate about voluntary associations and private institutions would otherwise be difficult to find or comprehend The selections can be considered a representative part of a single extended conversation by the men and women who have taken part in the effort to define America and the American dream even as they shaped what we now call the nonprofit sector The statements by participants in the growth and development of the nonprofit sector are accompanied by essays written by historians and social scientists that provide concise surveys of important issues and periods The essays give voice to those whose contributions to the American debate about voluntary associations and private institutions would otherwise be difficult to find or comprehend Each selection has been chosen to define or illuminate important questions in the development of the nonprofit sector in the United States Many include criticisms of particular nonprofit efforts or of nonprofit activity in general The intention is to provoke thought not to establish an official list of readings Though not every point of view could be included the reader does reflect a general understanding of the nature of the nonprofit sector and its significance in the development of the United States Philanthropic Studies Dwight F Burlingame and David C Hammack general editors
