Supporting Child-initiated Learning Sally Featherstone,2013-06-20

Why is it that when children play some behave like butterflies flitting around among the flowers of the activities on offer landing for a moment before moving on to the next attractive flower activity while others behave with the single minded concentration of bees As children grow and learn they acquire skills through play and practical activities This recently acquired learning is tenuous and is secured through practice repeating the skills in different contexts with different people Only then will learning be hard wired for life It is now evident that where children are able to select resources play companions and activities for themselves they can practise emerging skills and concepts by selecting the resources they need and using them in ways which are unique to them This book written by a group of experts in early years practice explores the place and purpose of child initiated learning in high quality early years practice Child initiated learning is a key feature of the Early Years Foundation Stage

Early Childhood Curriculum in Chinese Societies Weipeng Yang,Hui Li,2019-03-13

Although Chinese societies have generally become striking as the classic over achievers in international measures of academic performance there has been no specialised publication exploring early childhood curriculum in Chinese contexts Through this book readers will learn more about how the Chinese context and culture collide with educators beliefs about the right activities for children and educators in early childhood settings This book will be the first one of its kind to focus on early childhood curriculum in Chinese societies from social context and culture to reforms and practices and finally to the lessons that researchers policymakers and practitioners could learn as well as future directions Is play valued Are young children schooled earlier in Chinese societies How do Chinese children learn in kindergartens What is valued by Chinese educators when they implement early childhood curricula How do Chinese teachers deliver early childhood curricula for their young children Why were Chinese early childhood curricula implemented in these ways Answers to these questions and more
