inception of the human rights movement at the end of World War II he crafts a bracing critique of these works from the hitherto underutilized perspective of the Global South Attention is focused on the deficits of the international order and how that order which is defined by multiple asymmetries defines human rights in a manner that exhibits normative gaps and cultural biases Mutua identifies areas of further norm development and concludes that norm creating processes must be inclusive and participatory to garner legitimacy across various cleavages and divides The result is the first truly comprehensive critical look at the making of human rights norms and standards and as such will be an invaluable resource for students scholars activists and policymakers interested in this important topic This book is freely available in an open access edition thanks to Knowledge Unlatched an initiative that provides libraries and institutions with a centralized platform to support OA collections and from leading publishing houses and OA initiatives Learn more at the Knowledge Unlatched website at <https://www.knowledgeunlatched.org> and access the book online at the SUNY Open Access Repository at <http://hdl.handle.net/20.500.12648/7133>

Negotiating Public Services in the Congo Tom De Herdt, Kristof Titeca, 2019-06-15 The Democratic Republic of Congo DRC has been widely derided as a failed state unable to meet the basic needs of its citizens But while state infrastructure continues to decay many essential services continue to be provided at the local level often through grassroots initiatives So while for example state funding for education is almost non-existent average school enrolment remains well above average for Sub-Saharan Africa This book addresses this paradox bringing together key scholars working on public services in the DRC to elucidate the evolving nature of governance in developing countries Its contributions encompass a wide range of public services including education justice transport and health Taking stock of what functions and why it contributes to the debate on public services in the context of real or hybrid governance beyond the state does the state still have a function or is it no longer useful and relevant Crucially how does international aid help or complicate this picture Rich in empirical detail the contributors provide a valuable work for students and scholars interested in the role played by non-state actors in organizing statehood a role too often neglected in debates on post-conflict reconstruction
