

The background of the cover is a photograph of a rainforest. Large, vibrant green leaves, likely banana or similar tropical plants, are the primary focus, with their veins clearly visible. Sunlight filters through the canopy, creating a dappled light effect. A solid black horizontal band runs across the middle of the image, serving as a background for the text.

Rainforest Politics Ecological Destruction In South East Asia:

Rainforest Politics Philip Hurst, 1990 The Politics of Environment in Southeast Asia Philip Hirsch, Carol Warren, 2002-01-31 The environment in Southeast Asia is now a major issue of topical concern First book to give analysis in depth of the political processes involved in environmental disputes Provides a good selection of case studies in the region Questions the assumption that the middle classes are in the vanguard of the environmental movement Environmental Challenges in South-East Asia Victor T. King, 2013-01-11 This volume discusses environmental change natural resource exploitation and the prospect for ecological sustainability in Southeast Asia The contributors including sociologists geographers anthropologists economists political economists and historians presents the findings of recent archival and field research mainly from ongoing programmes of team research based in European universities and institutes Among the themes discussed are European and indigenous perceptions of the environment historical processes of environmental change the politics of resource use ecotourism and development deforestation and smallholding land use strategies migration and environmental degradation disease environment and human geography demography sustainability and resource exploitation

Environmental Change in South-East Asia Raymond Bryant, Michael Parnwell, 2005-08-03 Environmental Change in South East Asia brings together scholars journalists consultants and NGO activists to explore the interaction of people politics and ecology Ostensibly green activities plantation forestry eco tourism hydro electricity are revealed as guises used by elites to promote their own political and economic interests Highlighting fatal flaws in presently exclusive economic and ecological approaches the authors stress that neither the quest for sustainable development nor the process of environmental change itself can be understood without reference to political processes The Political Ecology of Tropical Forests in Southeast Asia Tuck-Po Lye, Ken-ichi Abe, Wil de Jong, 2003 Following an interdisciplinary approach to debates about the future of tropical forests in Southeast Asia the authors experts in their field unravel the extent to which the interests of local inhabitants nation states and international environmental movements are intertwined This volume a joint publication with Kyoto University Press examines the highly politicized context in which local forestry problems intersect with global market forces focusing on the social and economic diversity of different tropical forests and their specific historical background It emphasizes the importance of examining local issues in their own right Environmental Management in ASEAN Maria Seda, 1993 The problem of environmental degradation in the ASEAN region cannot be underestimated The articles in this book examine some of the common environmental issues faced by countries in the region They provide a brief overview of some major environmental problems such as fisheries management tropical deforestation and pollution in urban areas and highlight some of the research policy and institutional constraints in the region The Physical Geography of Southeast Asia Avijit Gupta, 2005-02-24 This will be the first comprehensive and detailed volume on the physical environment of Southeast Asia and will be essential reading for geographers ecologists and environmental managers As the definitive reference work on the region it will cover all aspects of the biophysical environment and its current environmental problems and management practices. The topics discussed range from a regional view of landforms and vegetation to specific cases including urban environments, coral reefs, volcanic hazards and the Mekong River Basin. The contributors are distinguished scholars and have a long association with Southeast Asia. This is the fourth volume to be published in the Oxford Regional Environment series.

Loggers and Degradation in the Asia-Pacific Peter Dauvergne, 2001-10-15 Corporate loggers have damaged much of the tropical forest throughout the Asia Pacific over the last four decades. Despite a steady rise in global and local concern, few firms have changed their practices. Loggers and Degradation in the Asia Pacific examines why and how loggers have resisted and ignored calls for environmental reforms. Concentrating on the period after 1990, the book explains what is happening on the ground and highlights the structures within which firms and governments operate. Within this broader context, the author considers a range of factors including the science of tropical forest management, the capacity of states to regulate and enforce rules, the relative power of environmental reformers and the 1997-9 Asian financial crisis. This is a constructive, insightful approach to a depressing yet urgent problem. It will be accessible to academic and student readers as well as those in corporations, government and NGOs.

The Political Ecology of Forestry in Burma, 1824-1994 Raymond L. Bryant, 1997-08-01 The author examines how the Burmese state has sought to control the country's forest activities and the ways in which groups relying on the forest for their livelihood—loggers, transnational corporations, cultivators, peasants—have fought such control.

Environmental Cooperation in Southeast Asia Paruadee Nguitragool, 2010-10-04 One of the most challenging environmental threats to the ten countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) has been the haze, the sickening and deadly cloud of smoky pollution caused by widespread burning of land and forests in Indonesia. This book examines both the threat and response to it by analysing environmental cooperation in Southeast Asia from an international regime perspective. Tracing the development of regional cooperation on the haze and evaluating the effectiveness of the cooperation, the author argues that the haze crisis combined with the economic crisis of 1997 has profoundly challenged the ASEAN modus operandi and resulted in ASEAN's efforts to establish an environmental regime to cope with environmental challenges. The emerging ASEAN haze regime is a unique case study of a regional environmental institution in multi-levelled global environmental governance. Based on in-depth original research, this case study is integrated into international relations, political science and comparative political analysis literatures and contributes to a better understanding of processes within the regional organisation.

The Politics of Power Denise Leith, 2002-10-31 Even as Major General Suharto consolidated his power in the bloodletting of the mid sixties, Freeport-McMoRan, the American transnational mining company, signed a contract with the new military regime, the first foreign company to do so. Today, in the isolated jungles of West Papua, a region that is increasingly restive under Indonesian rule, Freeport lays claim to the world's largest gold mine and one of its richest and most profitable copper mines. This volume is the first major analysis of the company's presence in Indonesia It takes a close and detailed look at the changing nature of power relations between Freeport and Suharto the Indonesian military the traditional landowners the Amungme and Kamoro and environmental and human rights groups It examines how and why an American company despite such rigorous home state laws was able to operate in West Papua with impunity for nearly thirty years and adapt to indeed thrive in a business culture anchored in corruption collusion and nepotism

Finding Their Voice Charles Keyes, 2014-01-05 The rural Lao speaking people of northeastern Thailand constitute over a third of the entire population of Thailand Over the last century this ethnically separate community has evolved from a traditional peasantry into cosmopolitan villagers who are actively shaping Thai politics Eminent anthropologist Charles Keyes traces this evolution in detail beginning with the failure of a Buddhist millenarian uprising in 1901 and concluding with the successful election of the Thai Rak Thai Pheu Thai Party in the 2000s In the intervening century rural northeasterners have become more educated and prosperous and they have gained a sophisticated understanding of the world and of their position in it as Thai citizens Although northeasterners have often been thwarted in their efforts to press government agencies to redress their grievances they have rejected radical revolutionary efforts to transform the Thai political system Instead they have looked to parliamentary democracy as the system in which they can make their voices heard As the country engages with the processes of democracy the Pheu Thai Party and the Red Shirt movement appear to have established the people of northeastern Thailand as an authentic voice in the nation's political landscape Highlights Traces the evolution of a marginalized peasantry into a significant political force in Thai society Examines the disjunction between the urban middle class negative perspectives on the northeastern Thai rural population and real characteristics of that population Highlights the different views of political authority and legitimacy in Thailand that have contributed to the twenty first century crisis in the Thai political order What Others Are Saying Finding Their Voice by anthropologist Charles Keyes is a culmination of decades of careful ethnography consistently combined with an astute political analysis and sense of history Reminiscent of Eugen Weber's classic Peasants into Frenchmen Keyes's book shows that the people of Isan have become the makers and undoers of governments and are more firmly wedded to the modern notion of parliamentary democracy than are the refined urban elites This book has as much to say about the polarized politics of Thailand as it does about the rich culture and history of Isan Philip Hirsch University of Sydney

Tropical Deforestation Leslie Elmer Sponsel, Thomas N. Headland, Robert Converse Bailey, 1996 The authors present fresh perspectives on the major global crisis of deforestation from a wide range of fields including biological ecology forest history conservation biology anthropology political economy and development economics

Southeast Asian Responses to Globalization Francis Loh Kok Wah, 2003-08-01 It is now apparent especially in the aftermath of the regional financial crisis of 1997 that globalization has been impacting upon the Southeast Asian economies and societies in new and harrowing ways a theme of many recent studies Inadvertently these studies of globalization have also highlighted that the 1980s and 1990s debate on democratization in the region which focused on the emergence of the middle classes the roles of new social movements NGOs and the changing relations between state and civil society might have been overly one dimensional This volume revisits the theme of democratization via the lenses of globalization understood economically politically and culturally Although globalization increasingly frames the processes of democracy and development nonetheless the governments and peoples of Southeast Asia have been able to determine the pace and character even the direction of these processes to a considerable extent This collection of essays by some distinguished senior scholars and other equally perceptive younger ones focuses on this globalization democratization nexus and shows empirically and analytically how governance is being restructured and democracy sometimes deepened in this new global era A historical review introduces the volume while an analytical assessment of the ten case studies concludes it Deforestation Ellen Kay Miller,1993 Third World Political Ecology Sinead Bailey,Raymond Bryant,2005-08-08 By drawing on examples from throughout the Third World Bryant and Bailey explain the development and characteristics of environmental problems that plague parts of Asia Africa and Latin America and their political and economic bases The End of the Peasantry in Southeast Asia R.E. Elson,2016-01-13 This book analyses the changing context and conditions of production and livelihood amongst Southeast Asia s peasants since the beginning of the nineteenth century It argues that with demographic growth and the nineteenth century development of great global markets based on small scale production the size and economic significance of peasantries throughout the region was magnified However such changes brought with them new forces stronger states more regular legal systems a revolution in communications intensive commercialisation which themselves worked to undermine the foundations of peasant society and eventually to transform peasants into farmers workers and citizens Civilizing the Margins Christopher R. Duncan,2008 Discusses the programs policies and laws that affect ethnic minorities in eight countries Burma Cambodia Indonesia Laos Malaysia the Philippines Thailand and Viet Nam Once targeted for intervention people such as the Orang Asli of Malaysia and the hill tribes of Thailand often become the subject of programs aimed at radically changing their lifestyles which the government views as backward or primitive Several chapters highlight the tragic consequences of forced resettlement a common result of these programs The Emergence Of Modern Southeast Asia Norman G. Owen,2005-01-01 The modern states of Indonesia Vietnam Thailand the Philippines Myanmar Malaysia Singapore Cambodia Laos Brunei and East Timor were once a tapestry of kingdoms colonies and smaller polities linked by sporadic trade and occasional war By the end of the nineteenth century however the United States and several European powers had come to control almost the entire region only to depart dramatically in the decades following World War II perspective on this complex region Although it does not neglect nation building the central theme of its popular and long lived predecessor In Search of Southeast Asia the present work focuses on economic and social history gender and ecology It describes the long term impact of global forces on the region and traces the spread and interplay of capitalism nationalism and socialism It acknowledges that modernization has produced substantial gains in such areas as life expectancy and education but has also spread dislocation and misery Organizationally the book shifts between thematic chapters that describe social economic and cultural change and country chapters emphasizing developments within specific areas will establish a new standard for the history of this dynamic and radically transformed region of the world Cultural Citizenship in Island Southeast Asia
