Cold War literary studies which will appeal to all those working on literature of the 1945-1989 period including specialists in comparative literature, postcolonial literature, contemporary literature and regional literature. Teaching African Literature Today Ernest Emenyonu, 2011. Focuses on theoretical and pedagogical approaches to the teaching of African literature on both sides of the Atlantic and beyond. The publication of Chinua Achebe's Things Fall Apart in 1958 drew universal attention not only to contemporary African creative imagination but also established the art of the modern African novel. In 1986 Wole Soyinka became the first African to win the Nobel Prize for Literature and opened the gate for other African writers. By the close of the 20th century African literature had gained world wide acceptance and legitimacy in the academy and featured on the literature curriculum of schools and colleges across the globe. This special issue of African Literature Today examines the diverse experiences of teachers of African literature across regional, racial, cultural and national boundaries. It explores such issues as student responses, productive pedagogical innovations, the impact of modern technology, case studies of online teaching, teaching criticism of African literature and teaching African literature in an age of multiculturalism. It is intended as an invaluable teacher's handbook and essential student companion for the effective study of African literature. War in African Literature Today Ernest Emenyonu, 2008. This issue of African Literature Today is devoted to studies of how African writers as historical witnesses have handled the recreation of war as a cataclysmic phenomenon in various locations on the continent. The theoretical question is whether the fictionalized representation demonstrated equitable balance between socio-political messages, lessons of war and the sanctity of art aesthetics. Contributors have explored the subject from a variety of perspectives: panoramic, regional, national and through comparative studies. War has enriched contemporary African literature but at what price to human lives, peace and the environment. Publisher's description. ALA Bulletin African Literature Association, 1984. Speculative & Science Fiction Ernest N. Emenyonu, Chimalum Nwankwo, Louisa Uchum Egbunike, 2021. Over the past two decades there has been a resurgence in the writing of African and African diaspora speculative and science fiction writing. Discussions around the rise of science fiction and fantasy have led to a push back by writers and scholars who have suggested that this is not a new phenomenon in African literature. This collection focuses on the need to recalibrate ways of reading and categorising this genre of African writing through critical examinations both of classics such as Kofi Awoonor's Woman of the Aeroplanes 1988 and Ngũgĩ wa Thiong'o's oeuvre as well as more recent fiction from writers including Nnedi Okorafor, Namwali Serpell and Masande Ntshanga. Back cover. New Directions in African Literature Ernest Emenyonu, Patricia Thornton Emenyonu, F. D. Imbuga, 2006. Contributors to this volume ask what are the new directions of African literature. What should be the major concerns of writers, critics and teachers in the twenty-first century? What are the accomplishments and legacies? What gaps remain to be filled and what challenges are there to be addressed by publishers and the book industry? What are the implications for pedagogy in the new technological era? ERNEST EMENYONU is Professor of the Department of Africana Studies, University of Michigan, Flint, North America. Africa World Press, Nigeria.

Across the Lines ,2022-05-16 This third volume of ASNEL Papers covers a wide range of theoretical and thematic approaches to the subject of intertextuality Intertextual relations between oral and written versions of literature text and performance as well as problems emerging from media transitions regionally instructed forms of intertextuality and the works of individual authors are equally dealt with Intertextuality as both a creative and a critical practice frequently exposes the essential arbitrariness of literary and cultural manifestations that have become canonized The transformation and transfer of meanings which accompanies any crossing between texts rests not least on the nature of the artistic corpus embodied in the general framework of historically and socially determined cultural traditions Traditions however result from selective forms of perception they are as much inventions as they are based on exclusion Intertextuality leads to a constant reinforcement of tradition while at the same time intertextual relations between the new literatures and other English language literatures are all too obvious Despite the inevitable impact of tradition the new literatures tend to employ a dynamic reading of culture which fosters social process and transition thus promoting transcultural rather than intercultural modes of communication Writing and reading across borders becomes a dialogue which reveals both differences and similarities More than a decolonizing form of deconstruction intertextuality is a strategy for communicating meaning across cultural boundaries
