Modernist Anthropology From Fieldwork To Text:

Modernist Anthropology Marc Manganaro, 2014-07-14 Recent insights into the nature of representation and power relations have signaled an important shift in perspective on anthropology from a fieldwork based science of culture to an interpretive activity bound to the discursive and ideological process called text making This collection of essays reflects the ongoing cross fertilization between literary criticism and anthropology Focusing on texts written or influenced by anthropologists between 1900 and 1945 the work relates current perspectives on anthropology s discursive nature to the literary period known as Modernism The essays each demonstrating anthropology s profound influence on this important cultural movement are organized according to discourse type from the comparativist text of Frazer to the ethnographies of Boas Benedict Mead and Hurston and on to the surrealist experiments of the College de Sociologie Meanwhile the book s orientation shifts from essays that approach anthropology from the vantage points of literariness and textual power to those that contemplate what bearing the junction of cultural theory and anthropology can have upon present and future social institutions In addition to the editor contributors include Vincent Crapanzano Deborah Gordon Richard Handler Arnold Krupat Francesco Loriggio Michele Richman Marty Roth Marilyn Strathern Robert Sullivan John B Vickery and Steven Webster Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Demands of the Day Paul Rabinow, Anthony Stavrianakis, 2024-05-31 Demands of the Day asks about the logical standards and forms that should guide ethical and experimental anthropology in the twenty first century Anthropologists Paul Rabinow and Anthony Stavrianakis do so by taking up Max Weber's notion of the demands of the day Just as the demand of the day for anthropology decades ago consisted of thinking about fieldwork today they argue the demand is to examine what happens after how the experiences of fieldwork are gathered curated narrated and ultimately made available for an anthropological practice that moves beyond mere ethnographic description Rabinow and Stavrianakis draw on experiences from an innovative set of anthropological experiments that investigated how and whether the human and biological sciences could be brought into a mutually enriching relationship Conceptualizing the anthropological and philosophic ramifications of these inquiries they offer a bold challenge to contemporary anthropology to undertake a more rigorous examination of its own practices blind spots and capacities in order to meet the demands of our day Little Tools of Knowledge Peter Becker, William Clark, 2025-10-01 Scrutinizes the procedures and protocols that establish authority and objectivity

Sciences of Modernism Paul Peppis, 2014-02-28 Sciences of Modernism examines key points of contact between British literature and the human sciences of ethnography sexology and psychology at the dawn of the twentieth century The book is divided into sections that pair exemplary scientific texts from the period with literary ones charting numerous collaborations and competitions occurring between science and early modernist literature Paul Peppis investigates this exchange through close readings of literary works by Claude McKay E M Forster Mina Loy Rebecca West and Wilfred Owen alongside science books by Alfred Haddon Havelock Ellis Marie Stopes Bernard Hart and William Brown In so doing Peppis shows how these competing disciplines participated in the formation and consolidation of modernism as a broad cultural movement across a range of critical discourses His study will interest students and scholars of the history of science literary modernism and English literature more broadly Modern Women, Modern Work Francesca Sawaya, 2013-04-19 Focusing on literary authors social reformers journalists and anthropologists Francesca Sawaya demonstrates how women intellectuals in early twentieth century America combined and criticized ideas from both the Victorian cult of domesticity and the modern culture of professionalism to shape new kinds of writing and new kinds of work for themselves Sawaya challenges our long standing histories of modern professional work by elucidating the multiple ways domestic discourse framed professional culture Modernist views of professionalism typically told a racialized story of a historical break between the primitive feminine and domestic work of the Victorian past and the modern masculine professional expertise of the present Modern Women Modern Work historicizes this discourse about the primitive labor of women and racial others and demonstrates how it has been adopted uncritically in contemporary accounts of professionalism modernism and modernity Seeking to recuperate black and white women s contestations of the modern professions Sawaya pairs selected novels with a broad range of nonfiction writings to show how differing narratives about the transition to modernity authorized women s professionalism in a variety of fields Among the figures considered are Jane Addams Ruth Benedict Willa Cather Pauline Hopkins Zora Neale Hurston Sarah Orne Jewett Josephine St Pierre Ruffin and Ida Tarbell In mapping out the constraints women faced in their writings and their work and in tracing the slippery compromises they embraced and the brilliant adaptations they made Modern Women Modern Work boldly reenvisions the history of modern professionalism in the United States Writing the New
