Mother Person:

The Mother Person Virginia Barber, Merrill Maguire Skaggs, 1975 Agency, Contingency and Census Process Frances Morphy, 2007-12-01 The Indigenous Enumeration Strategy IES of the Australian National Census of Population and Housing has evolved over the years in response to the perceived difference of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander populations Its defining characteristics are the use of locally recruited mostly Indigenous collector interviewers and the administration of a modified collection instrument in discrete Indigenous communities mostly in remote Australia The research reported here is unique The authors with the assistance of the Australian Bureau of Statistics were able to follow the workings of the IES in the 2006 Census from the design of the collection instrument to the training of temporary census field staff at the Northern Territory s Census Management Unit in Darwin to the enumeration in four remote locations through to the processing stage at the Data Processing Centre in Melbourne This allowed the tracking of data from collection to processing and an assessment of the effects of information flows on the quality of the data both as input and output This study of the enumeration involved four very different locations a group of small outstation communities Arnhem Land a large Aboriginal township Wadeye an open town with a majority Aboriginal population Fitzroy Crossing and the minority Aboriginal population of a major regional centre Alice Springs A comparison between these contexts reveals differences that reflect the diversity of remote Aboriginal Australia but also commonalities that exert a powerful influence on the effectiveness of the IES in particular very high levels of short term mobility The selection of sites also allowed a comparison between the enumeration process in the Northern Territory where a time extended rolling count was explicitly planned for and Western Australia where a modified form of the standard count had been envisaged The findings suggest that the IES has reached a point in its development where the injection of ever increasing resources into essentially the same generic set and structure of activities may be producing diminishing returns There is a need for a new kind of engagement between the Australian Bureau of Statistics and local government and Indigenous community sector organisations in remote Australia The agency and local knowledge of Indigenous people could be harnessed more effectively through an ongoing relationship with such organisations to better address the complex contingencies confronting the census process in remote Indigenous Australia

Happy Single? Arnaud van der Veere, 2021-02-07 All over the world the number of singles is increasing With the rise of the economy people are able to keep a form of independence Education and economic status promote individuality The need to commit yourself to another person becomes less important In many countries women get more space to have their own career and education The male dominance is fading increasingly everywhere One of the most important facts in history is the decrease of religious practice promoting male dominance with a following obedient female Since only around 50 years women begin to develop a strong sense of independence and are able to get a social position The social stigma of a single woman is disappearing One important reason why women more often chose for a single live position is due to the lack of good suitable men Men have built philosophies religions and believe that women should be followers and obedient to men When they designed these moral repressive ideas they did not consider the fact that women could develop above their level Now many men get hit by their own ancestors It is an ironical faith

Freud and Modern Psychology Helen Block Lewis, 2012-12-06 Freud s discovery of an emotional basis for mental illness led him to pursue the emotional basis of human behavior in general This pursuit led him to undertake observational studies of dreams 1900 everyday mistakes 1901 sexuality 1905b character formation 1908 1931 jokes 1905a and the origin of guilt 1913 Volume 2 of Freud and Modern Psychology examines the texts of each of these major writings in general psychology continuing to explore the contradiction between Freud's observations about the power of emotions and his narrow theoretical formulations about human behavior Volume 2 also reviews the remarkable power of the uniquely moral emotions of shame and guilt not only to create psychiatric symptoms as discussed in Volume 1 but to infiltrate our nightly dreams create everyday parapraxes influence the development of sexuality specify the emotional release in jokes shape personality and create human culture As we saw in Volume 1 we shall see again in Volume 2 that Freud's theoretical difficulties arose from the absence of a viable theory of human nature as cultural that is social by biological origin In a theoretical framework based on the cultural nature of human nature the emotions and the social cohesion are reciprocally related to each other The emotions are the means of the social cohesion which in turn is the means by which the emotions including shame and guilt are formed in infancy Sucking Up Yellow Jackets Jeanne Denault, 2010-10-12 Not being able to grasp what other people are thinking wreaks havoc on a kind child and people around him Lady Rum-Di-Doodle-Dum's

Bits of Life Anneke M. Smelik, Nina Lykke, 2010-07-01 Since World War II the biological and technological have been fusing and merging in new ways resulting in the loss of a clear distinction between the two This entanglement of biology with technology isn't new but the pervasiveness of that integration is staggering as is the speed at which the two have been merging in recent decades As this process permeates more of everyday life the urgent necessity arises to rethink both biology and technology Indeed the human body can no longer be regarded either as a bounded entity or as a naturally given and distinct part of an unquestioned whole Bits of Life assumes a posthuman definition of the body It is grounded in questions about today's biocultures which pertain neither to humanist bodily integrity nor to the anthropological assumption that human bodies are the only ones that matter Editors Anneke Smelik and Nina Lykke aid in mapping changes and transformations and in striking a middle road between the metaphor and the material In exploring current reconfigurations of bodies and embodied subjects the contributors pursue a technophilic yet critical path while articulating new and thoroughly appraised ethical standards Enhancing Healthcare and Rehabilitation Christopher M.
