Anatomists of Empire Ross L Jones, 2020-04-17 The 20th century anatomists Grafton Elliot Smith Frederic Wood Jones and Arthur Keith travelled the globe collecting cataloguing and constructing morphologies of the biological world with the aim of weaving these into a new vision of bio ecology that links humans to their deep past as well as their evolutionary niche They dissected human bodies and scrutinised the living explaining for the first time the intricacies of human biology They placed the body in its environment and gave it a history thus creating an ecological synthesis in striking contrast to the model of humanity that they inherited as students Their version of human development and history profoundly influenced public opinion as they wrote prolifically for the press they published bestsellers on human origins and evolution they spoke eloquently at public meetings and on the radio They wanted their anatomical insight to shape public policy And by changing popular views of race and environment they moulded attitudes as to what it meant to be human in a post Darwinian world thus providing a potent critique of racism

Journal of the Historical Society of South Australia Historical Society of South Australia,2000 A Brief History of Slavery Jeremy Black,2011-08-18 A thought provoking and important book that raises essential issues crucial not only for understanding our past but also the present day In this panoramic history Jeremy Black tells how slavery was first developed in the ancient world and reaches all the way to the present in the form of contemporary crimes such as trafficking and bonded labour He shows how slavery has taken many forms throughout history and across the world from the uprising of Spartacus the plantations of the West Indies and the murderous forced labour of the gulags and concentration camps Slavery helped to consolidate transoceanic empires and helped mould new world societies such as America and Brazil Black charts the long fight for abolition in the nineteenth century looking at both the campaigners as well as the harrowing accounts of the enslaved themselves Slavery is still with us today and coerced labour can be found closer to home than one might expect

A History of Criminal Law in New South Wales Gregory D. Woods,2002 New South Wales is that rare political creation a state founded for and upon the criminal law The history of its criminal law from settlement to Federation is uniquely fascinating Drawing on his range of experience as a university scholar a criminal law QC and a judge the author explains how Britain s criminal laws were established and developed in its arguably most successful colony There are three themes the horror and savagery of the criminal law transported to Australia and imposed there the constitutional importance of basic criminal law rules requiring certainty of proof the corrupt but necessary role of mercy in the administration of the law There are several genuinely remarkable features of this book One is that the author draws upon a vast body of material recently brought to light by Bruce Kercher in his massive disinterment of early colonial case law to explain in detail the actual working of the New South Wales criminal courts Another is that the core of the book is an analysis of New South Wales parliamentary debates between 1871 and 1883 on criminal law illuminating the history of the law and its future Yet the most remarkable thing of all about this book is its rarity In the many places where the British Empire imposed its laws there are hundreds of universities and centres of legal study Histories of the criminal law or studies which can be so described are rare or invisible This admirable study will become a classic in its field required reading by legal scholars historians of colony and empire and by astute legal practitioners making arguments for contemporary submissions or judgments The second volume Woods 2018 continues the still fascinating story from 1901 when the colony became a state through until mid 20th century when the death penalty was effectively abolished Ginger for Pluck Jennifer M. T. Carter, Roger Cross, 2013 Sydney geologist Georgina King 1845 1932 gave her life to science and was rewarded with every kind of skullduggery to prevent her success The tall red haired unmarried Miss King was excluded by the professionals the all male Royal Society of New South Wales Famous scientific worthies quite likely stole her work Her denunciations were loud Through determination and persistence Georgina King acquired an honourable place in the history of science and the women s place in it This book tells her intriguing tale Fate Knows No Tears Mary Talbot Cross, 2008-11-15 Author Mary Talbot Cross recreates the life of poet Violet Nicolson a courageous and outspoken woman who found fame in 1901 writing under the pseudonym Laurence Hope Nicolson s three volumes of poetry in which she evoked echoes of India s fascinating past and her passionate accounts of forbidden liaisons and sensuous jasmine laden nights sent shock waves through the polite Edwardian society of the day
