Painting As A Pastime:

Painting As a Pastime Winston Churchill, 2026-05-05 Painting is a companion with whom one may hope to walk a great part of life's journey. Though obviously best known as a political leader, Winston Churchill was also a keen and much admired painter as well as a Nobel Laureate author. He took up painting in 1915 and carried on with it until his death in 1965. His works are found in various collections around the world as well as at his house in Chartwell, Kent. In 1932 he published this essay about the joys and reward he gets from painting. He wrote it in order to share the thrill and delight of a joy ride in a paint box and also in a very contemporary spirit to share his thoughts on remedies for the avoidance of worry and mental overstrain by people who have to bear exceptional responsibilities and discharge duties. Painting was in essence his mindfulness practice. It tells at first hand his experience of first taking up the paint brush in 1915 when he had been cast into the political wilderness and when he had great anxiety and no means of relieving it and his desire to share this astonishing and enriching experience.

Painting As a Pastime Winston S. Churchill, 2021-02-04 The perfect antidote to his Black Dog, a depression that blighted his working life, Churchill took to painting with gusto. Picking up a paintbrush for the first time at the age of forty, Winston Churchill found in painting a passion that was to remain his constant companion. This glorious essay exudes his compulsion for a hobby that allowed him peace during his dark days and richly rewarded a nation with a treasure trove of work.
