Patterns of Contact with Relatives Sheila R. Klatzky, 1972 Patterns of Contact With Relatives, by Sheila R. Klatzky
Sheila R. Klatzky, 1972* The Logic of Social Research Arthur L. Stinchcombe, 2020-07-08 Arthur L Stinchcombe has earned a reputation as a leading practitioner of methodology in sociology and related disciplines Throughout his distinguished career he has championed the idea that to be an effective sociologist one must use many methods This incisive work introduces students to the logic of those methods The Logic of Social Research orients students to a set of logical problems that all methods must address to study social causation Almost all sociological theory asserts that some social conditions produce other social conditions but the theoretical links between causes and effects are not easily supported by observation Observations cannot directly show causation but they can reject or support causal theories with different degrees of credibility As a result sociologists have created four main types of methods that Stinchcombe terms quantitative historical ethnographic and experimental to support their theories Each method has value and each has its uses for different research purposes Accessible and astute The Logic of Social Research offers an image of what sociology is what it s all about and what the craft of the sociologist consists of Monographic Series Library of Congress, 1974 The Frequency of Contact Between Parents and Their Adult Children Carol Lynn Roan, 1994 Library of Congress Catalogs Library of Congress, 1976 Families in Later Life Lillian E. Troll, Sheila J. Miller, Robert C. Atchley, 1979 This book looks at the familial lives of older Americans including those who have never married or become parents Family Life and School Achievement Reginald M. Clark, 2015-07-31 Working mothers broken homes poverty racial or ethnic background poorly educated parents these are the usual reasons given for the academic problems of poor urban children Reginald M Clark contends however that such structural characteristics of families neither predict nor explain the wide variation in academic achievement among children He emphasizes instead the total family life stating that the most important indicators of academic potential are embedded in family culture To support his contentions Clark offers ten intimate portraits of Black families in Chicago Visiting the homes of poor one and two parent families of high and low achievers Clark made detailed observations on the quality of home life noting how family habits and interactions affect school success and what characteristics of family life provide children with school survival skills a complex of behaviors attitudes and knowledge that are the essential elements in academic success Clark s conclusions lead to exciting implications for educational policy If school achievement is not dependent on family structure or income parents can learn to inculcate school survival skills in their children Clark offers specific suggestions and strategies for use by teachers parents school administrators and social service policy makers but his work will also find an audience in urban anthropology family studies and Black studies A Comparative Study of Kinship Ulla Solveig Marianne Svensson, 1974 Grandparents Carol Ann Strauss, 1996 More than

1000 citations to books chapters journal articles theses and dissertations and selective newspaper articles on grandparental roles Strauss has searched the literature thoroughly and imaginatively The quality of the annotations is impressive also averaging half a page and written in a lucid English which clearly conveys the substance of the article chapter thesis or report REFERENCE REVIEWS Well organized thematically a rich quarry for researchers on aging AGEING AND SOCIETY
