Patterns Of Change In Developing Regions:

Patterns Of Change In Developing Rural Regions Dafna Schwartz,Raphael Bar-El,Avrom Bendavid-Val,Gerald Karaska,2019-07-11 Development specialists often overlook the fact that the towns of a rural region play as essential a role in the region's economy as does agriculture and they design and implement broad strategies without due recognition of the unique and dynamic character of each individual region Proper analysis requires consideration of the changing nature of rural regions and the principal agents of change The contributors to this volume argue that development strategists should focus on processes rather than on products by taking the nonfarm aspects as well as the farm aspects of rural development into account and by recognizing that land labor water and technology do not alone lead to balanced regional and agricultural development The analytical approaches presented in this book incorporate wide ranging variables from the urban space of rural regions markets towns service industries and organizations that have major impacts on the rural regional economy These methodologies aim at improving rural regional development processes

Climate Change and Developing Countries Nijavalli H. Ravindranath,Jayant A. Sathaye,2005-12-16 Among global environmental issues climate change has received the largest attention of national and global policy makers researchers industry multilateral banks and NGOs Climate change is one of the most important global environmental problems with unique characteristics It is global long term up to several centuries and involves complex interactions between climatic environmental economic political institutional and technological pressures It is of great significance to developing countries as all the available knowledge suggests that they and particularly their poorer inhabitants are highly vulnerable to climate impacts The projected warming of 1.4 to 5.8 C by 2100 and the related changes in rainfall pattern rise in sea level and increased frequency of extreme events such as drought hurricanes and storms are likely to threaten food security increase fresh water scarcity lead to decline in biodiversity increase occurrence of vector borne diseases cause flooding of coastal settlements etc Recognizing the potential threat of severe disruptions the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development was organized in 1992 in Rio de Janeiro Brazil to begin to address ways to reduce these impacts which led to the formulation of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change This Convention and the subsequent Kyoto Protocol recognize the common but differentiated responsibility of developing and industrialized countries in addressing climate change Developing countries thus have a unique role to play in formulating a sound reasoned and well informed response to the threat of climate change Routledge Handbook of Industry and Development John Weiss, Michael Tribe, 2015-09-16 The Routledge Handbook of Industry and Development is a global overview of industrialisation Each chapter will provide readers with contemporary insights into this this essential aspect of economic development Industrialisation has been at the forefront of discussion on economic development since the earliest days of development economics But over the last fifty years the manufacturing sectors of different countries and regions have grown at strikingly different rates In 1960 developing countries took a very small share of global manufacturing production Today the position had changed radically with fast growth of manufacturing in many parts of what was originally the developing world particularly in China and the rest of East Asia On the other hand countries in Africa and parts of Latin America have been largely left behind by this process of industrialisation This volume aims to illuminate this uneven development and takes stock of the current issues that hinder and support industrialisation in low and middle income economies This Handbook is a collection of chapters on different aspects of industrialisation experience in a range of countries Key themes include the role of manufacturing in growth the nature of structural change at different stages of development the role of manufacturing in employment creation alternative options for trade and industrial policy the key role of technology and technical change and the impact of globalisation and the spread of global value chains and foreign direct investment on prospects for industrialisation Several chapters discuss individual country experiences with examples from India Mexico South Africa and Tanzania as well as an overview of African industrialisation This authoritative Handbook will be a key reference source for those studying or wishing to understand contemporary economic development Offering inspiration and direction for future research this landmark volume will be of crucial importance to all development economics scholars and researchers Politics and Change in Developing Countries Colin Leys, 2011-02-03 This 1969 work gathers together essays on Third World development by nine social scientists with diverse academic interests These contributions are united by a relative uncertainty in relation to development derived from the contemporary critical reappraisal of the area together with a need to create fresh methodologies for the advancement of their respective fields New Patterns Michael Carr, 1997 This text introduces modern geographical theory in an accessible format and reflects the changing nature of the subject The in depth analysis of topics consolidated by extensive reference to case study material makes this textbook an essential

Moving Health Sovereignty in Africa Andrew F. Cooper,Hany Besada,2016-04-15 Today s era of intense globalization has unleashed dynamic movements of people pathogens and pests that overwhelm the static territorial jurisdictions on which the governance provided by sovereign states and their formal intergovernmental institutions is based This world of movement calls for new ideas and institutions to govern people s health above all in Africa where the movements and health challenges are the most acute This book insightfully explores these challenges in ways that put the perspectives of Africans themselves at centre stage It begins with the long central and still compelling African health challenge of combating the pandemic of HIV AIDS It then examines the global governance responses by the major multilateral organizations of the World Bank and the World Trade Organization and the newer informal flexible democratically oriented ones of the Group of Eight It also addresses the compounding health challenge created by climate change to assess both its intensifying impact on Africa and how all international institutions have largely failed to link climate and health in their governance response It concludes with several recommendations about the innovative ideas and institutions that offer a way to closing the great global governance gaps and thus improving Africans health and that of citizens beyond

Community Nutrition for Developing Countries Norman J. Temple ,Nelia Steyn,2016-03-31

Nutrition textbooks used by universities and colleges in developing countries have very often been written by scholars who live and work in North America or the United Kingdom And while the research and information they present is sound the nutrition related health challenges with which developing countries must grapple differ considerably from those found in highly industrialized Western nations The primary aim of Community Nutrition for Developing Countries is to provide a book that meets the needs of nutritionists and other health professionals living and working in developing countries Written by both scholars and practitioners the volume draws on their wealth of knowledge experience and understanding of nutrition in developing countries to provide nutrition professionals with all the information they require Each chapter addresses a specific nutrition challenge currently faced by developing countries such as food security food safety disease prevention maternal health and effective nutrition policy In addition the volume serves as an invaluable resource for those developing and implementing nutrition education programmes With an emphasis on nutritional education as a means to prevent disease and effectively manage health disorders it is the hope of the nearly three dozen contributors to this work that it will enhance the health and well being of low income populations throughout the world

The Climate Change Convention and Developing Countries J. Gupta,2013-03-09 The climate change problem can only be effectively dealt with if global anthropogenic greenhouse gas GHG emissions can be reduced substantially Since the emission of such gases is closely related to the economic growth of countries a critical problem to be addressed by the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change FCCC is how will the permissible emission levels be shared between industrialised ICs and developing countries DCs The thesis of this book is that the long term effectiveness of the FCCC runs the risk of a horizontal negotiation deadlock between countries and the risk of vertical standstill within countries if there is little domestic support for the domestic implementation of measures being announced in international negotiations The research question is Can one observe trends towards horizontal deadlock and vertical standstill and if yes how can the treaty design be improved so as to avoid such potential future bottlenecks The research focuses on the perspectives of domestic actors on the climate convention and related issues in four developing countries India Indonesia Kenya and Brazil The following key findings emerge from the research 1 Handicapped negotiating power The common theme of the foreign policy of DCs is that ICs are responsible for the bulk of the GHG emissions and need to take appropriate domestic action

Livestock in a Changing Landscape, Volume 1 Henning Steinfeld,Harold A. Mooney,Fritz Schneider,Laurie E. Neville,2013-03-06 The rapidly changing nature of animal production systems especially increasing intensification and globalization is playing out in complex ways around the world Over the last century livestock keeping evolved from a means of harnessing marginal resources to produce items for local consumption to a key component of global food chains Livestock in a Changing Landscape offers a comprehensive examination of these important and far reaching trends The books are an outgrowth of a collaborative effort involving international nongovernmental organizations including the United Nations Food and

Agriculture Organization UN FAO the International Livestock Research Institute ILRI the Swiss College of Agriculture SHL the French Agricultural Research Centre for International Development CIRAD and the Scientific Committee for Problems of the Environment SCOPE Volume 1 examines the forces shaping change in livestock production and management the resulting impacts on landscapes land use and social systems and potential policy and management responses Volume 2 explores needs and draws experience from region specific contexts and detailed case studies The case studies describe how drivers and consequences of change play out in specific geographical areas and how public and private responses are shaped and implemented Together the volumes present new sustainable approaches to the challenges created by fundamental shifts in livestock management and production and represent an essential resource for policy makers industry managers and academics involved with this issue

Classroom Change in Developing Countries Gerard Guthrie,2018-04-09 Progressive Education derived mainly from Anglo American culture has been the primary frame of reference for student centered classroom change in developing countries for over 50 years Yet in many developing countries strong evidence shows that progressivism has not replaced teacher centered formalistic classroom practice Classroom Change in Developing Countries From Progressive Cage to Formalistic Frame presents a robust case for why formalism should be the primary frame of reference for upgrading classroom teaching in developing countries Theoretically rich yet grounded in practice the book draws on case studies from Africa China and Papua New Guinea to show how culturally intuitive formalistic teaching styles can induce positive classroom change Synthesising research and evaluation literature on classroom change in developing countries Guthrie examines some of the methodological flaws in the literature The book considers the progressive cage and looks at Confucian influences on teaching in China progressive reform failures in both Sub Saharan Africa and Papua New Guinea as well as offering a critical take on some failings in comparative education It examines the formalistic frame addresses methodological issues in culturally grounded research and offers a model of teaching styles for basic classroom research The book concludes by returning the focus back to teachers and considers the so called teacher resistance to change The book will be an essential purchase for academics and research students engaged in the fields of classroom teaching teacher education and curriculum and will also be of interest to academics aid officials and decision makers in developing countries

Climate Smart Agriculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-06-12 The book expands and formalizes the conceptual foundations of Climate Smart Agriculture drawing upon theory and concepts from agricultural development institutional and resource economics The book uses economic lens to identify the main features of CSA its likely impact and the challenges associated with its implementation It is a product of the EPIC team in the ESA division and contributes to SO2 OO2 Climate Smart Agriculture CSA is a concept that calls for integration of the need for adaptation and the possibility of mitigation in agricultural growth strategies to support food security Several countries around the world have expressed intent to adopt CSA approach to managing their agricultural sectors However there is considerable confusion about what the CSA concept and approach actually involve and wide variation in how the term is used It is critical to build a more formal basis for the CSA concept and methodology and at the same time providing illustrations of how the concept can be applied across a range of conditions
