Hutchcroft, 2019-04-15 In the early postwar years the Philippines seemed poised for long term economic success within the region only Japan had a higher standard of living By the early 1990s however the country was dismissed as a perennial aspirant to the ranks of newly industrializing economies unable to convert its substantial developmental assets into developmental success Major reforms of the mid 1990s bring new hope explains Paul D Hutchcroft but accompanying economic gains remain relatively modest and short lived What has gone wrong The Philippines should have all the ingredients for developmental success tremendous entrepreneurial talents a well educated and anglophone workforce a rich endowment of natural resources a vibrant community of economists and development specialists and abundant overseas assistance Hutchcroft attributes the laggard economic performance to long standing deficiencies in the Philippine political sphere The country s experience he asserts illuminates the relationship between political and economic development in the modern Third World Through careful examination of interactions between the state and the major families of the oligarchy in the banking sector since 1960 Hutchcroft shows the political obstacles to Philippine development Booty capitalism he explains emerged from relations between a patrimonial state and a predatory oligarchy Hutchcroft concludes by examining the capacity of recent reform efforts to encourage transformation toward a political economic order more responsive to the developmental needs of the Philippine nation as a whole

AccessAsia ,1997      Region, Nation and Homeland Miriam Coronel Ferrer, 2020-01-20 Movements tell stories of oppression and liberation They critique the power relations that exist They offer alternative visions of the homeland they hope to build This volume looks at the Moro and Cordillera movements as told in their own words Within and among these movement organizations in the Philippines their constructed identities and claims for demanding the right to self determination differed and evolved over time The author shows the significant intertextuality in the discourse of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front which broke away from the Moro National Liberation Front She traces the drift to heightened ethnonationalism in the case of the Cordillera Peoples Liberation Army when it split from the national democratic Cordillera People s Democratic Front She reflects on where these mobilizations are now and the strands of discourses that have remained salient in current times      Philippine Studies ,2008      The Economy of the Philippines Peter Krinks, 2003-09-02 In the late 1950s the Filipino economy could reasonably have been described as more advanced than those of its South Asian neighbours Ever since then however it has consistently lagged behind and only really started to grow strongly in the mid 1990s and even then it failed to achieve the growth rates of the rest of Southeast Asia ten years earlier

Aguilar Jr.,2014-04-11 Since the 1960s overseas migration had become a major factor in the economy of the Philippines It has also profoundly influenced the sense of nationhood of both migrants and nonmigrants Migrant workers learned to view their home country as part of a plural world of nations and they shaped a new sort of Filipino identity while appropriating the modernity of the outside world where at least for a while they operated as insiders The global nomadism of Filipino workers brought about some fundamental reorientations It revolutionized Philippine society reignited a sense of nationhood imposed new demands on the state reconfigured the class structure and transnationalized class and other social relations even as it deterritorialized the state and impacted the destinations of migrant workers Philippine foreign policy now takes surprising turns in consideration of migrant workers and Filipinos living abroad Many tertiary education institutions aim deliberately at the overseas employability of local graduates And the Fil foreign offspring of unions with partners from other nationalities add a new inflection to Filipino identity
