The Most Difficult Journey Rick Newby, Andrea Pappas, Ben Mitchell, 2002 The Most Difficult Journey tells several important stories It traces the dispersion of visual modernism into the most distant reaches of the American West It provides fresh insights into the workings of a significant New York gallery during the 1950s 1960s and 1970s And it reveals as Andrea Pappas writes that the so called second generation of Abstract Expressionists far from being derivative artists lacking in creativity actually performed crucial and difficult work Montana born New York commodity broker George Poindexter befriended Franz Kline Jackson Pollock Willem de Kooning and other rising stars of Abstract Expressionism and bought their works His wife Elinor also became passionate about avant garde American art and in 1955 she opened the Poindexter Gallery on New York s West 56th Street Together George and Elinor Poindexter assembled an enviable collection of American modernist paintings Besides excellent examples by such luminaries as de Kooning Pollock Kline and Richard Diebenkorn the collection included works by many lesser known artists who nonetheless made significant contributions to modern painting in America In the early 1960s the Poindexters began donating a portion of their collection to the Montana Historical Society in honor of George s pioneer forebears Following George s death in 1974 Elinor created a second Poindexter Collection donating another sizable group of paintings and prints to the Yellowstone Art Museum in Billings Montana The Most Difficult Journey brings together 65 paintings from both collections An essay by poet and cultural historian Rick Newby traces the history of the Poindexter family the Poindexter Gallery and the creation of the Poindexter Collections A ground breaking assessment of the paintings by art historian Andrea Pappas is also included

The Oxford History of Western Art Martin Kemp, 2000 The Oxford History of Western Art is the new authority on the development of visual culture in the West over the last 2700 years from the classical period to the end of the twentieth century OHWA is an innovative and challenging reappraisal of how the history of art can be presented and understood None of the currently available general histories of art offers the wealth of perspectives and cross media references of this book Through a carefully devised modular structure readers are given insights not only into how and why works of art were created but also how works in different media relate to each other across time Here uniquely is not the simple linear story of art but a rich

series of stories told from varying viewpoints The founding principle of the book has been to use carefully selected groupings of pictures to give readers a sense of the visual texture of the various periods and episodes covered The 167 illustration groups supported by explanatory text and picture captions create a sequence of visual tours not merely a procession of individually great works viewed in isolation but juxtapositions of significant images that powerfully convey a sense of the visual environments in which works of art need to be viewed in order to be understood and appreciated The aim throughout has been to make the shape and nature of these visual presentations a stimulating and rewarding experience allowing readers to become active participants in the process of interpretation and synthesis Another key feature of the narrative is the redefinition of traditional period boundaries Rather than relying on conventional labels such as Medieval Renaissance Baroque etc five major phases of significant historical change are established that unlock longer and more meaningful continuities The art of classical antiquity from c 600 BC to the fall of Rome in AD 410 The establishment of visual culture in Europe from 410 to 1527 the sack of papal Rome European visual regimes from 1527 to 1770 The era of revolutions 1770 to 1914 Modernism and after 1914 to 2000 This new framework shows how the major religious and secular functions of art have been forged sustained transformed revived and revolutionized over the ages how the institutions of Church and State have consistently aspired to make art in their own image and how the rise of art history itself has come to provide the dominant conceptual framework within which artists create patrons patronize collectors collect galleries exhibit dealers deal and art historians write The text has been written by a team of 50 specialist authors working under the direction of Professor Martin Kemp one of the UK's most distinguished art historians Whilst bringing their own expertise and vision to their sections each author was also asked to relate their text to a number of unifying themes and issues including written evidence physical contexts patronage viewing and reception techniques gender and racial issues centres and peripheries media and condition the notion of art and current presentations Though the coverage of topics focuses on European notions of art and their transplantation and transformation in North America space is also given to cross fertilizations with other traditions including the art of Latin America the Soviet Union India Africa and Afro Caribbean Australia and Canada Professor Kemp and his team similarly deal generously with the applied arts and reproductive media such as photography and prints The result is a vibrant vigorous and revolutionary account of Western art serving both as an inspirational introduction for the general reader and an authoritative source of reference and guidance for students

Art Criticism and Modernism in the United States Stephen Moonie,2022-03-22 This study is an analysis of high and late modernist criticism in New York during the 1960s and early 1970s Through a close reading of a selection of key critics of the period which will expand the remit beyond the canonical texts the book examines the ways that modernist criticism's discourse remains of especial disciplinary interest Despite its alleged narrowness and exclusion the debates of the 1960s raised fundamental questions concerning the nature of art writing Those include arguments around the nature of value and judgement the relationship between art criticism and art history and the related problem of what we mean by the contemporary Stephen Moonie argues that within those often fractious debates there exists a shared discourse And further contrary to the current consensus that modernists were elitist dogmatic and irrelevant to contemporary debates on art the study shows that there is much that we can learn from reconsidering their writings The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history modern art art criticism and literary studies
