Public Policy And Global Technological Integration:

International Economic Law and Governance Julien Chaisse, Tsai-yu Lin, 2016-08-11 Nation states have long and successfully claimed to be the proper and sovereign forum for determining a country's international economic policies. Increasingly however, supranational and non-governmental actors are moving to the front of the stage. New forms of multilateral and global policy making have emerged including states and national administrations, key international organizations, international conferences, multinational enterprises and a wide range of transnational pressure groups and NGOs that all claim their share in exercising power and influence on international and domestic policy making. In honour of Professor Mitsuo Matsushita's intellectual contributions to the field of international economic law, this volume reflects on the current state and the future of international economic law. The book addresses a broad spectrum of themes in contemporary international economic regulations and focuses specifically on the significant areas of Professor Matsushita's scholarship including the rise of the soft law mechanism in international economic regulation, the role of the WTO and dispute settlement and specific areas such as competition, subsidies, anti-dumping, intellectual property and natural resources. Part one of the volume provides a comprehensive and critical analysis of the rule-based international dispute settlement mechanisms. Part two investigates the normative influences to and from WTO law and Part three focuses on policy and law making issues.

Research Handbook in International Economic Law Andrew T. Guzman, A. O. Sykes, 2008-01-01 This major new work consists of carefully commissioned original and incisive contributions from leading scholars in the field of international economic law. In particular, the work discusses how certain negotiation strategies may optimally deal with such barriers and lead to more effective institutional arrangements in the current global geography of technological development.

Africa's trade facilitation preparedness & ethical property rights Gbadebo Odularu, Bamidele Adekunle, Caiphaz Chekwoti, 2024-05-01 With the AfCFTA in force and several regional integration initiatives ongoing in Africa, effective implementation promises an economic growth and development trajectory that defines the Africa we want as posited by the African policymakers within the context of the African Union's Agenda 2063. This is more evident with emerging dynamics characterised by unprecedented shocks and fast-paced evolution in the digital space. The implications of these dynamics beckon a rethinking of the strategies for riding on and above the wave. This book delves into some of the policy intricacies and generates both insights on emerging shocks, digitalisation, intellectual property rights and raises interesting issues for further reflection It is a great read that illuminates critical trade issues with important policy implications

Global Competition David Gerber, 2012-01-26 Global competition now shapes economies and societies in ways unimaginable only a few years ago and competition or antitrust law is a key component of the legal framework for global competition These laws are intended to protect competition from distortion and restraint and on the national level they reflect the relationships between markets their participants and those affected by them The current legal framework for the global economy is provided however by national laws and institutions This means that those few governments that have sufficient power to apply their laws to conduct outside their own territory provide the norms of global competition This has long meant that the US and more recently the EU structure global competition but China and other countries are increasingly using their economic and political leverage to apply their own competition laws to global markets The result is increasing uncertainty costs and conflicts that burden global economic development This book examines competition law on the global level and reveals its often complex and little understood dynamics It focuses on the interactions between national and international legal regimes that are central to these dynamics and a key to understanding them Part I examines the evolution of the current global system the factors that have shaped it how it operates today and recent efforts to alter that system e g by including competition law in the WTO Part II focuses on national competition law systems revealing how national laws and experiences shape global competition law dynamics and how global factors in turn shape national laws and experiences It examines the central roles of US and European law and experience and it also pays close attention to countries such as China that are playing increasingly important roles in the global competition law arena Part III analyzes current strategies for improving the legal framework for global competition and identifies the factors that may contribute to a system that more effectively supports global economic and political development This analysis also suggests a pathway for moving toward that goal

The European Union and the New Trade Politics JOHN PETERSON, Alasdair Young, 2013-10-18 The politics of international trade have changed dramatically over the past 20 years Advances in technology have spurred a new kind of trade involving transfers of components and materials across borders but within firms Trade in services foreign direct investment and sales by affiliates of foreign owned companies have grown more rapidly than trade in goods making national rules and regulations more significant barriers to trade The effects of non trade policies on trade have engaged new actors in trade politics not least in the European Union EU The emergence of a more active bloc of developing countries alongside a vibrant international civil society including environmental and consumer groups and ministries have made trade politics increasingly lively complex and challenging for the EU Meanwhile the World Trade Organization has become not only a primary focus for EU trade policy but also a lightning rod for protest a powerful legaliser of trade diplomacy and an arena where it is often difficult even impossible to separate private from public interests The European Union and the New Trade Politics provides a state of the art analysis of how the EU shapes and is shaped by the new trade politics This book was previously published as a special issue of The Journal of European Public Policy

The Routledge Handbook of European Integrations Thomas Hoerber, Gabriel Weber, Ignazio Cabras, 2022-02-27 The Routledge Handbook of European Integrations fills a significant gap in the European studies literature by providing crucial and groundbreaking coverage of several key areas that are usually neglected or excluded in European integration collections Whilst still examining the largest and most influential institutions bodies and highly funded policy areas as acknowledged dominant topics in European studies it crucially does so with much greater balance by devoting equal billing to areas such as culture in European integration or new technologies and their impact on the EU Organised around three main sections culture technology and tangibles the book offers an authoritative encyclopaedia to alternative areas in European integration from media football Erasmus and tourism to transport space AI and energy retains coverage of the dominant topics in European studies such as the Eurozone the Common Internal Market or European law but in balance with other areas of interest and provides an essential companion to existing scholarship in European studies The Routledge Handbook of European Integrations is essential reading and an authoritative reference for scholars students researchers and practitioners involved in and actively concerned about research in the study of European integration studies The Open Access version of Chapter 14 in this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
