Public Schools by Choice Joe Nathan,1989 Regional Strategy Meetings on Choice in Education ,1989 Choice and Control in American Education John F. Witte,William H. Clune,1990 Progress, Problems, and Prospects of State Educational Choice Plans Joe Nathan,1989 Public Schools by Choice Joe Nathan,1989 The Urban School System of the Future Andy Smarick,2012-10-12 For more than two generations the traditional urban school system the district has utterly failed to do its job prepare its students for a lifetime of success Millions and millions of boys and girls have suffered the grievous consequences The district is irreparably broken For the sake of today s and tomorrow s inner city kids it must be replaced The Urban School System of the Future argues that vastly better results can be realized through the creation of a new type of organization that properly manages a city s portfolio of schools using the revolutionary principles of chartering It will ensure that new schools are regularly created that great schools are expanded and replicated that persistently failing schools are closed and that families have access to an array of high quality options This new entity will focus exclusively on school performance meaning among other things our cities can thoughtfully integrate their traditional public charter public and private schools into a single high functioning k 12 system For decades the district has produced the most heartbreaking results for already at risk kids The Urban School System of the Future explains how we can finally turn the tide and create dynamic responsive high performing self improving urban school systems that fulfill the promise of public education Educational Innovation in Multiracial Contexts Lauri Steel,Roger Levine,1994 Getting Started ,1992 Outcomes of a series of meetings held in 1990 by the Office of Educational Research and Improvement OERI Roundtable on Public School Choice are summarized in this document s six chapters Chapter 1 discusses the components including motivations vision formation leadership the design process and the types of choice available involved in creating distinctive schools Chapter 2 presents strategies for information gathering and outreach efforts Student assignment policies and procedures are described in the third chapter with attention to equity concerns Chapter 4 offers ideas for developing a safe efficient and fair transportation system Strategies for financing choice programs which include keeping plans within funding limits maintaining equity and designing funding as an incentive are highlighted in the fifth chapter Chapter 6 describes specific benefits and new roles associated with school choice Recommendations are offered in the final section which concludes that choice offers an opportunity for systemic change Appendices include information about the OERI Roundtable on Public School Choice the Roundtable choice programs OERI publications on choice selected recent publications on choice selected sources of information acknowledgments and a choice program implementation checklist for communities LMI

Making Schools Work Eric A. Hanushek,2010-12-01 Educational reform is a big business in the United States Parents educators and policymakers generally agree that something must be done to improve schools but the consensus ends there The myriad of reform documents and policy discussions that have appeared over the past decade have not helped to pinpoint exactly what should be done The case for investment in education is an economic one schooling improves the productivity and earnings of individuals and promotes stronger economic growth and better functioning of society Recent trends in schooling have however lessened the value of society's investments as costs have risen dramatically while student performance has stayed flat or even fallen The task is to improve performance while controlling costs This book is the culmination of extensive discussions among a panel of economists led by Eric Hanushek They conclude that economic considerations have been entirely absent from the development of educational policies and that economic reality is sorely needed in discussions of new policies The book outlines an improvement plan that emphasizes changing incentives in schools and gathering information about effective approaches Available research and analysis demonstrates that current central decisionmaking has worked poorly Concentrating on inputs such as pupil teacher ratios or teacher graduate degrees appears quite inferior to systems that directly reward performance Nonetheless since experience with such alternatives is very limited a program of extensive evaluation appears to be in order Attempts to institute radical change on the basis of currently available information involve substantial risks of failure Many people today find proposals such as charter schools expanded use of merit pay or educational vouchers to be appealing Yet there is little evidence of their effectiveness and widespread adoption of these proposals is sure to run into substantial problems of im

Beyond Rhetoric DIANE Publishing Company,1995-07 Presents the Commission's findings conclusions and recommendations Part 1 focuses on the crisis facing the nation's children and families Part 2 presents the Commission's agenda for the 1990's organized into chapters focused on the broad policy areas that are most vital to children and families Part 3 summarizes the Commission's vision for a better society and their recommendations for building the necessary commitment to achieve it Photos and graphs

Families and Schools in a Pluralistic Society Nancy Feyl Chavkin,1993-02-02 Recent research identifies increased parent involvement in education as a promising method to bolster student achievement Statistics show that while many traditional white middle class families have found ways to be involved with their children's schooling our nation now needs to find ways to include more minority parents in their children's education Most educators and parents would agree that minority parent involvement in education is essential the mechanics of developing sensitive realistic and workable home school relationships are more elusive It requires a concerted effort by all involved to understand more about the complex parent school relationship and to develop specific plans to help families This comprehensive volume features substantial material from the nation's most renowned research projects on parent involvement Stanford University's Center for the Study of Families Children and Youth the Johns Hopkins University's Center for Research on Elementary and Middle Schools the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory and the National Catholic Education Association In addition to a section on research the book includes a section on practice that presents research tested strategies on working with minority parents Asian American Indian Hispanic African American and other minority groups The book concludes with a section on future challenges that educators must confront and appendices on promising national programs and helpful resource materials

Reinventing Public Education Paul Hill, Lawrence C. Pierce, James W. Guthrie, 2009-02-15 A heated debate is raging over our nation's public schools and how they should be reformed with proposals ranging from imposing national standards to replacing public education altogether with a voucher system for private schools Combining decades of experience in education the authors propose an innovative approach to solving the problems of our school system and find a middle ground between these extremes Reinventing Public Education shows how contracting would radically change the way we operate our schools while keeping them public and accessible to all and making them better able to meet standards of achievement and equity Using public funds local school boards would select private providers to operate individual schools under formal contracts specifying the type and quality of instruction In a hands on concrete fashion the authors provide a thorough explanation of the pros and cons of school contracting and how it would work in practice They show how contracting would free local school boards from operating schools so they can focus on improving educational policy how it would allow parents to choose the best school for their children and finally how it would ensure that schools are held accountable and academic standards are met While retaining a strong public role in education contracting enables schools to be more imaginative adaptable and suited to the needs of children and families In presenting an alternative vision for America's schools Reinventing Public Education is too important to be ignored Choosing Homes, Choosing Schools Annette

Lareau, Kimberly Goyette, 2014-03-31 A series of policy shifts over the past decade promises to change how Americans decide where to send their children to school In theory the boom in standardized test scores and charter schools will allow parents to evaluate their assigned neighborhood school or move in search of a better option But what kind of data do parents actually use while choosing schools Are there differences among suburban and urban families How do parents' choices influence school and residential segregation in America Choosing Homes Choosing Schools presents a breakthrough analysis of the new era of school choice and what it portends for American neighborhoods The distinguished contributors to Choosing Homes Choosing Schools investigate the complex relationship between education neighborhood social networks and larger patterns of inequality Paul Jargowsky reviews recent trends in segregation by race and class His analysis shows that segregation between blacks and whites has declined since 1970 but remains extremely high Moreover white families with children are less likely than childless whites to live in neighborhoods with more minority residents In her chapter Annette Lareau draws on interviews with parents in three suburban neighborhoods to analyze school choice decisions Surprisingly she finds that middle and upper class parents do not rely on active research such as school tours or test scores Instead most simply trust advice from friends and other people in their network Their decision making process was largely informal and passive Eliot Weinginer complements this research when he draws from his data on urban parents He finds that these families worry endlessly about the selection of a school and that parents of all backgrounds actively consider alternatives including charter schools Middle and upper class parents relied more on federally mandated report cards district websites and online forums while working class parents use network contacts to gain information on school quality Little previous research has explored what role school concerns play in the preferences of white and minority parents for particular neighborhoods Featuring innovative work from more than a dozen scholars Choosing Homes Choosing Schools adroitly addresses this gap and provides a firmer understanding of how Americans choose where to live and send their children to school Beyond Rhetoric United States. National Commission on Children,1991 Hearing on Charter Schools

Public Schools in the United States, Indian Country, and US Territories Philip Westbrook,Eric A. Houck,R. Craig Wood,David C. Thompson,2023-05-01 The National Education Finance Academy has once again convened university faculty members state level administrators officials from state level chapters of the Association of School Business Officials and others to provide a single volume reference of school funding mechanisms for each of the states the District of Columbia Indian Country and the US territories This volume supplements the annual state of the state profiles produced by the National Education Finance Academy so that educators policymakers and researchers can have access to accurate and concise information on how K12 education functions are supported across multiple jurisdictions In addition each profile addresses state level efforts to provide education funding to support schools during the COVID 19 pandemic The second edition expands upon groundbreaking work in the first edition which for the first time reported comprehensively on the multiple jurisdictions and mechanisms impacting funding for Native American students by also reporting on policies and funding mechanisms for public schools in US Territories The School Choice Roadmap Andrew Campanella, 2020-01-21

WINNER OF THE 2020 FOREWORD INDIES GOLD AWARD IN EDUCATION WINNER OF THE SILVER IPPY AWARD FOR BEST EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES You want your children to benefit from a great education But every student is unique One type of school might be a great fit for your neighbor's child but it might not work for your son or daughter Across the country many parents today have more choices for their children's education than ever before If you are starting the process of finding your child's first school or if you want to choose a new learning environment The School Choice Roadmap is for you This first of its kind book offers a practical jargon free overview of school choice policies from public school open enrollment to private school scholarships and more It breaks down the similarities and differences between traditional public schools public charter schools public magnet schools online public schools private schools and homeschooling Most importantly The School Choice Roadmap offers a seven step process that will help you harness the power of your own intuition and your own expertise about your child's uniqueness to help you find a school that reflects your family's goals values and priorities Filled with sage advice from dozens of other parents who have pursued the school search process and interviews with school leaders and teachers The School Choice Roadmap is an optimistic empowering book that cuts through the confusion in K 12 education so that you can give your children every opportunity to succeed in school and in life Towards a Brighter Tomorrow Walter R. Allen, Erin Kimura-Walsh, Kimberly A. Griffin, 2009-09-01 The book aims to develop a clearer understanding of the influence of social dynamics on the educational opportunities of high school students of color in the urban setting of California's Los Angeles area Specifically we examine how students' backgrounds high school experiences and own agency shape their college preparation processes and postsecondary aspirations While some research has been done on high school students' college choice process this book is unique in its broad and comparative approach It examines the experiences of students across 10 schools identifying broad themes that are illustrated through specific case studies This approach allows readers to understand the broader issues that face students from underserved backgrounds as they pursue college while illuminating how these issues uniquely manifest themselves in individual school contexts
