Goździak, 2018-01-12 This book approaches Australo German relations from comparative and interdisciplinary perspectives It maps new pathways into the rich landscape of the Australo German transnational encounter which is characterized by dense and interwoven cultural historical and political terrains Surveying an astonishingly wide range of sites from literary translations to film festivals Aboriginal art to education systems the contributions offer a uniquely expansive dossier on the migrations of people ideas technologies money and culture between the two countries The links between Australia and Germany are explored from a variety of new interdisciplinary perspectives and situated within key debates in literary and cultural studies critical theory politics linguistics and transnational studies The book gathers unique contributions that span the areas of migration aboriginality popular culture music media and institutional structures to create a dynamic portrait of the exchanges between these two nations over time Australo German relations have emerged from intersecting histories of colonialism migration communication tourism and socio cultural representation into the dramatically changed twenty first century where traditional channels of connection between nations in the Western hemisphere have come undone but new channels ensure cross fertilization between newly constituted borders

North American Women Artists of the Twentieth Century Jules Heller, Nancy G. Heller, 2013-12-19 First Published in 1997 North American Women Artists of the Twentieth Century A Biographical Dictionary was created to fill a gap of there being a comprehensive reference work like this available even though the bibliography in English on various aspects of the history of women artists has grown exponentially during the past ten years As researchers the editors have been frustrated many times by being unable to locate basic information about many of the artists included in this volume especially those working outside the United States This leads directly to another reason for producing this particular kind of reference book to try and create a better understanding between and among the artists and art audiences in these countries

Sacred Places K. S. Inglis, Jan Brazier, 2008 Memorials to Australian participation in wars abound in our landscape From Melbourne's huge Shrine of Remembrance to the modest marble soldier obelisk or memorial hall in suburb and country town they mourn and honour Australians who have served and died for their country Surprisingly they have largely escaped scrutiny Ken Inglis argues that the imagery rituals and rhetoric generated around memorials constitute a civil religion a cult of ANZAC Sacred Places traces three elements which converged to create the cult the special place of war in the European mind when nationalism was at its zenith the colonial condition and the death of so many young men in distant battle which impelled the bereaved to make substitutes for the graves of which history had deprived them The war memorial movement attracted conflict as well as commitment Inglis looks at uneasy acceptance even rejection of the cult by socialists pacifists feminists and some Christians and at its virtual exclusion of Aborigines He suggests that between 1918 and 1939 the making dedication and use of memorials enhanced the power of the right in Australian public life Finally he examines a paradox Why as Australia's wars recede in public and private memory and as a once British Australia becomes multicultural have the memorials and what they stand for become more cherished than ever Sacred Places spans war religion politics language and the visual arts Ken Inglis has distilled new cultural understandings from a familiar landscape

Writing the Australian Beach Elizabeth Ellison, Donna Lee Brien, 2020-03-02 Writing the Australian Beach is the first book in fifteen years to explore creative and cultural representations of this iconic landscape and how writers and scholars have attempted to understand and depict it Although the content chiefly focuses on Australia the beach as both a location and idea resonates deeply with readers around the world This edited collection includes three sections Forms of Beach Writing examines the history of beach writing in Australia and in a number of forms screenwriting social media writing and food writing In turn Multiplicities of Australian Beach Writing examines how forms of writing poetry travel writing horror film and memoir engage with some specific beaches in Australia And finally Reading the Beach as a Text considers how the beach itself functions in cultural narratives how we walk the beach the revealing story of beach soccer and the design and use of ocean baths Given its scope the collection offers a unique resource for scholars of Australian culture and creative writing and for all those interested in Australian beaches

New Directions in Copyright Law Fiona Macmillan, Kathy Bowrey, 2006-08-29 This book the third in the series follows the themes considered in the first two volumes and brings together perspectives on copyright from law politics economics cultural studies and social theory in an effort to forge a truly coherent and meaningful agenda for the future of copyright It comprises thoughtful critical and often challenging contributions from an international multidisciplinary network of scholars

Contemporary Public Sculpture Harriet Senie, 1992 In the twentieth century public sculpture has changed almost beyond recognition Works inspired by classical and Renaissance traditions imposing equestrian monuments and triumphal arches have been replaced by works such as Claes Oldenburg's Clothespin and Christo's Running Fence This break from tradition has led to radically different approaches to public sculpture but not without bitter controversy within both the art community and the general public Contemporary Public Sculpture offers the first comprehensive look at this highly diverse and often controversial branch of modern art Beginning with the revival of public sculpture in the 1960s with the work of Picasso Calder Moore Nevelson and others Senie traces the developments that defined a new civic art one which substituted the artist's fame for public content and sparked debates about cost the role of government and the place of public art in a democratic society She shows how the growing irrelevance of traditional memorials resulted in a new approach to the genre defined by Maya Lin's Vietnam Veterans Memorial which set out to heal a nation rather than glorify a military event by honoring victims rather than heroes and how dissatisfaction with modern glass box architecture and its surrounding barren urban spaces led architectural firms like Skidmore Owings and she explores works by George Sugarman and Scott Burton that combine sculpture and furniture changing the very idea of public art by creating a stage for public life Finally she examines the controversies that arise when citizens including the press and politicians confront publicly funded work such as Joel Shapiro's Headless Gumby or Serra's Tilted Arc that defies their sense of what public sculpture should be Illustrated with over one hundred halftones this overview of contemporary public sculpture provides a clear understanding of why it is there why it looks the way it does and what is really at stake in the continuing public art controversy
