What to the Puerto Rican is American Citizenship? Briana D. Hyman, 2023 This project seeks to explore why Puerto Rican Americans are denied federal level autonomy via presidential voting rights and congressional representation Puerto Rico is not a state and therefore is not afforded these rights by the U S Constitution but why is Puerto Rico not a state In order to explore this this project tests whether or not the race of Puerto Ricans is behind their unincorporated territorial status which legalizes their disenfranchisement This project analyzes the debates surrounding the administration of marginal jurisdictions of Puerto Rico Hawaii and the Philippines in order to see if race was the reason these locations ended up with different levels of federal autonomy Through factors discovered through congressional debates federal admiration policies and U S Supreme Court decisions it is determined that the racial makeup of these locations did play a considerable factor in U S political leaders initial debates on whether or not to annex these locations but race alone cannot explain this phenomenon nor can race alone explain the continued disenfranchisement Puerto Rican Americans face Therefore this project proposes a new theory that would merge political leaders considerations discovered in this work to explain this continued lack of federal level autonomy for Puerto Rican Americans
