Documenting Endangered Languages Geoffrey Haig, Nicole Nau, Stefan Schnell, Claudia Wegener, 2011-11-30 The rapid decline in the world's linguistic diversity has prompted the emergence of documentary linguistics While documentary linguistics aims primarily at creating a durable accessible and comprehensive record of languages it has also been a driving force in developing language annotation and analysis software archiving architecture improved fieldwork methodologies and new standards in data accountability and accessibility More recently researchers have begun to recognize the immense potential available in the archived data as a source for linguistic analysis so that the field has become of increasing importance for typologists but also for neighbouring disciplines The present volume contains contributions by practitioners of language documentation most of whom have been involved in the Volkswagen Foundation's DoBeS programme Dokumentation Bedrohter Sprachen The topics covered in the volume reflect a field that has matured over the last decade and includes both retrospective accounts as well as those that address new

The Linguistics of Eating and Drinking John Newman, 2009-03-11 This volume reviews a range of fascinating linguistic facts about ingestive predicates in the world's languages The highly multifaceted nature of eat and drink events gives rise to interesting clausal properties of these predicates such as the atypicality of transitive constructions involving eat and drink in some languages The two verbs are also sources for a large number of figurative uses across languages with meanings such as destroy and savour as well as participating in a great variety of idioms which can be quite opaque semantically Grammaticalized extensions of these predicates also occur such as the quantificational use of Hausa shaa drink meaning roughly do X frequently regularly Specialists discuss details of the use of these verbs in a variety of languages and language families Australian languages Papuan languages Athapaskan languages Japanese Korean Hausa Amharic Hindi Urdu and Marathi

Music, Lapita, and the Problem of Polynesian Origins Mervyn McLean, 2014-01-01 For more than twenty years the standard view among anthropologists has been that Polynesians evolved from a group of settlers known as Lapita people whose characteristically dentate stamped pottery has been found on numerous mostly Melanesian sites and who entered Fiji more than 3000 years ago from a starting point in the Bismarck Archipelago An alternative view that champions Micronesia as a primary area of origin for Polynesians has been in limbo as a result of the prevailing theory but is reappraised in the present book and found once again to be in contention The book takes an historical view of theories of origin and provides some account of methodologies used by scholarly disciplines which have been brought to bear on the subject including evidence from music and dance which forms the core of the book Vernacular Language Symposium on New & Developing Orthographies in Micronesia, 1989, Guam Mary L. and remember Why said the Dodo the best way to explain it is to do it Alice in Wonderland Lewis Carroll Under Heaven's Brow Ward Hunt Goodenough, 2002 For the people of Chuuk and for students of religion and Micronesian culture this book pulls together and makes available in English the somewhat scattered published accounts largely in German along with Goodenough's own as yet unpublished information about religious beliefs and ritual practices in pre-Christian Chuuk The materials are presented in a way that seeks to document and illustrate a particular approach a functional one to understanding the kinds of human concerns that give rise to religious behavior Simply to describe traditional beliefs and rituals without the relevant social background information leaves the reader without any feeling for what were the emotional concerns engendered by life in Chuukese society that ritual practices helped people address Ward Goodenough offers a theoretical introduction the necessary background information about Chuuk and the ways in which members of Chuukese society experienced themselves and their fellows the world view and overall set of beliefs providing the intellectual framework within which ritual practices were formulated and understood and the various bodies of ritual practices He concludes the book with a summary that pulls together how the rituals described appear to relate to the emotional concerns that growing up and living in Chuuk tended to create Summoning the Powers Beyond Jay Dobbin, Francis X. Hezel, 2011-09-30 Summoning the Powers Beyond collects and reconstructs the old religions of preindustrial Micronesia It draws mostly from written sources from the turn of the nineteenth century and the period immediately after World War II reports of the Hamburg South Sea Expedition of 1908-1910 articles by German Roman Catholic missionaries in Micronesia included in the journal Anthropos and reports by the Coordinated Investigation of Micronesian Anthropology CIMA and the American Board of Commissioners of the Foreign Missions ABCFM A detailed introduction and an overview of Micronesian religion are followed by separate chapters detailing religion in the Chuukic speaking islands Pohnpei Kosrae the Marshall Islands Yap Palau Kiribati and Nauru The Chamorro speaking group of the Marianas is omitted because lengthy periods of intense military and missionary activity eradicated most of the local religion The Polynesian outliers Nukunono and Kapingamarangi are discussed at the end primarily to underscore the contrasts between Polynesian and Micronesian religion In a concluding chapter the author highlights the similarities and differences between the areas within Micronesia and then attempts an appreciation or evaluation of Micronesian religion Finally he addresses the evidence of a tentative hypothesis that Micronesian religion is sufficiently different from that of Polynesia and Melanesia to justify the continued claim of a separate Micronesian religion
