Punishment Communication And Community:

Punishment, Communication, and Community Antony Duff, 2001 This text examines the main trends in penal theorising over the past three decades It asks what can justify criminal punishment and then explores the legitimacy of actual practices by examining what would count as adequate justification for them Punishment, Communication, and Community R. A. Duff, 2003-05-15 The question What can justify criminal punishment becomes especially insistent at times like our own of penal crisis when serious doubts are raised not only about the justice or efficacy of particular modes of punishment but about the very legitimacy of the whole penal system Recent theorizing about punishment offers a variety of answers to that question answers that try to make plausible sense of the idea that punishment is justified as being deserved for past crimes answers that try to identify some beneficial consequences in terms of which punishment might be justified as well as abolitionist answers telling us that we should seek to abolish rather than to justify criminal punishment This book begins with a critical survey of recent trends in penal theory but goes on to develop an original account based on Duff's earlier Trials and Punishments of criminal punishment as a mode of moral communication aimed at inducing repentance reform and reconciliation through reparation an account that undercuts the traditional controversies between consequentialist and retributivist penal theories and that shows how abolitionist concerns can properly be met by a system of communicative punishments In developing this account Duff articulates the liberal communitarian conception of political society and of the role of the criminal law on which it depends he discusses the meaning and role of different modes of punishment showing how they can constitute appropriate modes of moral communication between political community and its citizens and he identifies the essential preconditions for the justice of punishment as thus conceived preconditions whose non satisfaction makes our own system of criminal punishment morally problematic Punishment Communication and Community offers no easy answers but provides a rich and ambitious ideal of what criminal punishment could be an ideal of what criminal punishment could be and ideal that challenges existing penal theories as well as our existing penal theories as well as our existing penal practices Punishment, Communication, and Community Robin Antony Duff, 2023 This text examines the main trends in penal theorising over the past three decades It asks what can justify criminal punishment and then explores the legitimacy of actual practices by examining what would count as adequate justification for them

Punishment, Communication, and Community Antony Duff, 2003 Communication and Community William M. Berg, Robert Boguslaw, 1985 Alberta Law Review, 2010 The Criminal Law Quarterly, 2010 U.C. Davis Law Review University of California, Davis. School of Law, 2012 Social Theory and Practice, 2021 Restorative Justice and Criminal Justice Andrew Von Hirsch, 2004-07-31 This volume provides an analytic exploration of Restorative Justice and its potential advantages and disadvantages Buffalo Criminal Law Review, 2003 The Buffalo Criminal Law Review is a peer reviewed journal published by the Buffalo Criminal Law Center at the State University of New York at Buffalo School of Law

The Review pursues two interrelated objectives to integrate the study of criminal law by serving as an interdisciplinary and international forum for innovative scholarship on crime and punishment and to bridge the gap between criminal law scholarship and criminal justice policy by providing legislators judges and other criminal justice professionals with in depth analyses of topical issues in criminal law Punishment and Process in International Criminal Trials Ralph J.

Henham,2005 This book provides an integrated socio legal analysis of the law and process of international sentencing It considers the rationale and development of international sentencing structures and processes the nature and scope of legal and procedural constraints on decision making as well as access to justice and rights issues Five Ways Patricia Can Kill Her Husband Leo Zaibert,2005 Structured around a striking conceit the murder of a husband by his wife this provocative book explores the heady relationship between mental states such as desires beliefs emotions and above all intentions along with the normative assessment of wrongdoing Depending on Patricia s mental state and beliefs her degree of guilt for killing her husband will vary If for example she set fire to her apartment fully intending to kill her husband she would be deemed more blameworthy than if the fire was an unavoidable accident Culpability the author argues is commonly confused with other issues such as responsibility accountability and liability but it is really concerned exclusively with the intentional mental states that exist in the mind at the point of action Zaibert also offers a history of the theory of culpability and gives a fascinating analysis of the beliefs and emotions associated with blaming others The University of Chicago

Legal Forum ,2010 Criminal Justice Ethics Cyndi Banks,2004-03-19 This book is an overview of the need for and use of ethical behaviour by all players in the criminal justice system The book is organized in two Parts The first Part will cover ethical issues and dilemmas in the criminal justice system and the second Part will focus on the major philosophical theories of ethics Highly illustrative case studies are used throughout the book to demonstrate the ethical issues facing criminal justice professionals today in applied terms The future development of public policy related to the criminal justice system is also considered Communication and Community Ronald C. Arnett,1986 Martin Buber s work suggests that real life begins with two individuals engaged in dialogue not just taking care of one s own needs as described in social Darwinism Arnett argues that the end of the age of abundance demands that we give up the communicative strategies of the past and seek to work together in the midst of limited resources and an uncertain future Today s situation calls for an unwavering commitment to Buber s narrow ridge concern for both self and community Arnett illustrates the narrow ridge definition of interpersonal communication with rich examples His vignettes demonstrate effective and ineffective approaches to human community An effective approach he makes clear incorporates not only openness to others points of view but also a willingness to be persuaded Punishment and Political Theory Matt Matravers,1999 This book addresses the interdependence of the study of punishment and of political theory as well as specific issues that arise in both
