Jazz Griots Jean-Philippe Marcoux, 2012-06-27 This book studies how four representative African American poets of the 1960s Langston Hughes Umbra s David Henderson and the Black Arts Movement s Sonia Sanchez and Amiri Baraka engage in the tradition of griots in poetic dialogues with aesthetics music politics and Black History In so doing they narrate using jazz as meta language genealogies etymologies cultural legacies and Black hi stories In intersecting and complementary ways Hughes Henderson Sanchez and Baraka fashioned their griotism from theorizations of artistry as political engagement and in turn formulated a Black aesthetic based on jazz performativity on a series of jazz infused iterations that form a complex pattern of literary musical historical and political moments in constant cross fertilizing dialogues with one another This form of poetic call and response becomes a definitional literary template for these poets as it allows both the possibility of intergenerational dialogues between poets and musicians and dialogic potential between song and politics between Africa and Black America between vernacular continuums in their poems CliffsNotes on American Poets of the 20th

New Thoughts on the Black Arts Movement Lisa Gail Collins, Margo Natalie Crawford, 2006-05-16 During the 1960s and 1970s a cadre of poets playwrights visual artists musicians and other visionaries came together to create a renaissance in African American literature and art This charged chapter in the history of African American culture which came to be known as the Black Arts Movement has remained largely neglected by subsequent generations of critics New Thoughts on the Black Arts Movement includes essays that reexamine well known figures such as Amiri Baraka Larry Neal Gwendolyn Brooks Sonia Sanchez Betye Saar Jeff Donaldson and Haki Madhubuti In addition the anthology expands the scope of the movement by offering essays that explore the racial and sexual politics of the era links with other period cultural movements

the arts in prison the role of Black colleges and universities gender politics and the rise of feminism color fetishism photography music and more An invigorating look at a movement that has long begged for reexamination this collection lucidly interprets the complex debates that surround this tumultuous era and demonstrates that the celebration of this movement need not be separated from its critique

The Theater of Black Americans Errol Hill, 1987 Applause Books

From the origins of the Negro spiritual and the birth of the Harlem Renaissance to the emergence of a national black theatre movement The Theatre of Black Americans offers a penetrating look at a black art form that has exploded into an American cultural institution Among the essays James Hatch Some African Influences on the Afro American Theatre Shelby Steele Notes on Ritual in the New Black Theatre Sister M Francesca Thompson OSF The Lafayette Players Ronald Ross The Role of Blacks in the Federal Theatre

We Are an African People Russell Rickford, 2016-01-14

During the height of the Black Power movement of the late 1960s and 1970s dozens of Pan African nationalist private schools from preschools to post secondary ventures appeared in urban settings across the United States The small independent enterprises were often accused of teaching hate and were routinely harassed by authorities Yet these institutions served as critical mechanisms for transmitting black consciousness Founded by activist intellectuals and other radicalized veterans of the civil rights movement the schools strove not simply to bolster the academic skills and self esteem of inner city African American youth but also to decolonize minds and foster a vigorous and regenerative sense of African identity In We Are An African People historian Russell Rickford traces the intellectual lives of these autonomous black institutions established dedicated to pursuing the self determination that the integrationist civil rights movement had failed to provide Influenced by Third World theorists and anticolonial campaigns organizers of the schools saw formal education as a means of creating a vanguard of young activists devoted to the struggle for black political sovereignty throughout the world Most of the institutions were short lived and they offered only modest numbers of children a genuine alternative to substandard inner city public schools Yet their stories reveal much about Pan Africanism as a social and intellectual movement and as a key part of an indigenous black nationalism Rickford uses this largely forgotten movement to explore a particularly fertile period of political cultural and social revitalization that strove to revolutionize African American life and envision an alternate society Reframing the post civil rights era as a period of innovative organizing he depicts the prelude to the modern Afrocentric movement and contributes to the ongoing conversation about urban educational reform race and identity

Paracritical Hinge Nathaniel Mackey, 2018-03-15

Paracritical Hinge is a collection of varied yet interrelated pieces highlighting Nathaniel Mackey's multifaceted work as writer and critic It embraces topics ranging from Walt Whitman's interest in phrenology to the marginalization of African American experimental writing from Kamau Brathwaite's calibanistic language practices to Federico Garcia Lorca's flamenco aesthetic of duende and its continuing repercussions from H D's desert measure and coastal way of knowing to the altered spatial disposition of Miles Davis's trumpet sound from Robert Duncan's serial poetics to diasporic syncretism from the lyric poem's present day predicaments to gnosticism. Offering illuminating commentary on these and other artists including Amiri Baraka, Mississippi Fred McDowell, Wilson Harris, Jack Spicer, John Coltrane, Jay Wright and Bob Kaufman, Paracritical Hinge also sheds light on Mackey's own work as a poet, fiction writer and editor. New Day in Babylon William L. Van Deburg, 1993-09-01 The most comprehensive account available of the rise and fall of the Black Power Movement and of its dramatic transformation of both African American and larger American culture. With a gift for storytelling and an ear for street talk, William Van Deburg chronicles a decade of deep change from the armed struggles of the Black Panther party to the cultural nationalism of artists and writers creating a new aesthetic. Van Deburg contends that although its tactical gains were sometimes short-lived, the Black Power movement did succeed in making a revolution, one in culture and consciousness that has changed the context of race in America. New Day in Babylon is an extremely intelligent synthesis, a densely textured evocation of one of American history's most revolutionary transformations in ethnic group consciousness. Bob Blauner, New York Times Winner of the Gustavus Myers Center Outstanding Book Award 1993. Digital Black Feminism Catherine Knight Steele, 2021-10-26 Winner Diamond Anniversary Book Award awarded by the National Communication Association, Winner 2022 Nancy Baym Book Award given by the Association of Internet Researchers. Traces the longstanding relationship between technology and Black feminist thought. Black women are at the forefront of some of this century's most important discussions about technology, trolling, online harassment, algorithmic bias, and influencer culture. But Catherine Knight Steele argues that Black women's relationship to technology began long before the advent of Twitter or Instagram. To truly listen to Black women, Steele points to the history of Black feminist technoculture in the United States and its ability to decenter white supremacy and patriarchy in a conversation about the future of technology. Using the virtual beauty shop as a metaphor, Digital Black Feminism walks readers through the technical skill, communicative expertise, and entrepreneurial acumen of Black women's labor, born of survival strategies and economic necessity, both on and offline. Positioning Black women at the center of our discourse about the past, present, and future of technology, Steele offers a through line from the writing of early twentieth-century Black women to the bloggers and social media mavens of the twenty-first century. She makes connections among the letters, news articles, and essays of Black feminist writers of the past and a digital archive of blog posts, tweets, and Instagram stories of some of the most well-known Black feminist writers of our time. Linking narratives and existing literature about Black women's technology use in the nineteenth, twentieth, and twenty-first centuries, Digital Black Feminism traverses the bounds between historical and archival analysis and empirical internet studies, forcing a reconciliation between fields and methods that are not always in conversation. As the work of Black feminist writers now reaches its widest audience online, Steele offers both hopefulness and caution on the implications of Black feminism becoming a digital product. Shaping the Digital Dissertation Virginia Kuhn, Anke Finger, 2021-05-04 This volume is a timely intervention that not only helps demystify the idea of a digital dissertation for students and their advisors but will be broadly applicable to the work of librarians administrators and anyone else concerned with the future of graduate study in the humanities and digital scholarly publishing Roxanne Shirazi The City University of New York Digital dissertations have been a part of academic research for years now yet there are still many questions surrounding their processes Are interactive dissertations significantly different from their paper based counterparts What are the effects of digital projects on doctoral education How does one choose and defend a digital dissertation This book explores the wider implications of digital scholarship across institutional geographic and disciplinary divides The volume is arranged in two sections the first written by senior scholars addresses conceptual concerns regarding the direction and assessment of digital dissertations in the broader context of doctoral education The second section consists of case studies by PhD students whose research resulted in a natively digital dissertation that they have successfully defended These early career researchers have been selected to represent a range of disciplines and institutions Despite the profound effect of incorporated digital tools on dissertations the literature concerning them is limited This volume aims to provide a fresh up to date view on the digital dissertation considering the newest technological advances It is especially relevant in the European context where digital dissertations mostly in arts based research are more popular Shaping the Digital Dissertation aims to provide insights precedents and best practices to graduate students doctoral advisors institutional agents and dissertation committees As digital dissertations have a potential impact on the state of research as a whole this edited collection will be a useful resource for the wider academic community and anyone interested in the future of doctoral studies

Amiri Baraka and the Congress of African People M. Simanga, 2015-02-11 This important look at CAP combines historical research and analysis with the author's first hand experience with the organization providing the first historical narrative of a consequential player in the Black Power Movement

Waiting 'Til the Midnight Hour Peniel E. Joseph, 2007-07-10 A history of the Black Power movement in the United States traces the origins and evolution of the influential movement and examines the ways in which Black Power redefined racial identity and culture With the rallying cry of Black Power in 1966 a group of black activists including Stokely Carmichael and Huey P Newton turned their backs on Martin Luther King's pacifism and building on Malcolm X's legacy pioneered a radical new approach to the fight for equality This book is a history of the Black Power movement that storied group of men and women who would become American icons of the struggle for racial equality In the book the author traces the history of the men and women of the movement many of them famous or infamous others forgotten It begins in Harlem in the 1950s where despite the Cold War's hostile climate black writers artists and activists built a new urban militancy that was the movement's earliest incarnation In a series of character driven chapters we witness the rise of Black Power groups such as the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and the Black Panthers and with them on both coasts of the country a fundamental change in the way Americans understood the unfinished business of racial equality and integration The book invokes the way in which Black Power redefined black identity and culture and in the process redrew the landscape of American race relations
