Gatt, Jan Peter Laurens Loovers, 2025-06-25 This book showcases the way a range of scholars have engaged with Tim Ingold's opus since the publication of his ground breaking The Perception of the Environment in 2000. Ingold's work has become key for a variety of disciplines ranging from anthropology, archaeology and human geography to art, architecture, design and studies of material and visual culture. As set out in The Perception of the Environment and subsequent publications, Ingold proposed an understanding of the world that placed sentient remembering and imagining organisms or inhabitants, some of them human, at the heart of an extensive field of socio-ecological relations. In this work, Ingold develops broad ranging analyses of personhood, knowledge and skills among many other topics. This volume sets out to synthesize critical scholarship drawing on Ingold's work to lay out its principles, methods and results and to demonstrate its contribution to reshaping both contemporary anthropology and wider intellectual terrains. By bringing together chapters from a variety of scholars, all critically furthering Ingold's proposals, the book advances a paradigm change occurring in various academic disciplines from fixist to emergence onto epistemologies.

The Songhai Empire rose to prominence and new city states arose in Hausaland, Yorubaland and Benin. One of the most significant developments, however, was European and Asian exploration of the continent and the rapid expansion of the slave trade. By the end of the century, African slaves could be found from India to the Indies and the foundation was laid for a peculiar institution that would last for over 400 years. From the time of the first European expeditions to Africa to the end of slavery in the United States, this work chronicles the most significant events in African, Pan-African and African American history. Many of the entries, e.g. Columbus' discovery of America and the death of Toussaint L. Overture, are supplemented by brief historical accounts that set the event in context. There are extensive see references to related happenings.
