Biomedical Index to PHS-supported Research: pt. A. Subject access A-H ,1992 Theory-Based Assessment, Treatment, and Prevention of Sexual Aggression Gordon C. Nagayama Hall,1996-02-29 Sexual aggression is a pervasive societal problem with devastating and sometimes permanent effects on its victims Approximately one in four adults has been either a victim or perpetrator of sexually aggressive behavior Until now a disproportionate amount of attention has been paid to victim based methods of prevention with a corresponding lack of emphasis on the perpetrators of sexual aggression whose rate of recidivism is quite high As psychologists and mental health professionals turn their attention to the assessment and treatment of sexual offenders the need for practical scientifically based information on sexual aggression has become clear In this book Gordon Hall offers suggestions based on state of the science theory and research Using the Quadripartite Model of sexual aggression to provide a framework for causes and possible solutions it breaks new ground by proposing preventive intervention with potential perpetrators It is a valuable resource for anyone involved in mental health criminology and the judicial system Psychology and Mental Health Nursing David Milne,1993-03-09 Derek Milne presents a practical introduction to the psychology of mental health nursing for student nurses and qualified staff The book is structured to reflect a problem solving approach to mental health nursing The recurring theme is that the major challenges of nursing can be reduced to manageable steps by the use of a systematic strategy The four main elements of the approach form the basis of the book namely assessment planning implementation and evaluation Each chapter is supplemented by case study material and exercises which both illustrate the theory and provide an opportunity for readers to test some of it out for themselves The result is a blend of theory research and practical guidelines intended to provide some basic guidance but more importantly to foster an educated thinking approach The Oxford Handbook of the Five Factor Model Thomas A. Widiger,2017 There is a vast body of research supporting the Five Factor Model as the predominant model of general personality structure within the field of social psychology The Oxford Handbook of the Five Factor Model is dedicated to this model of research Behavioral Models in Stress Research Allan V. Kalueff,Justin L. LaPorte,2008 Stress is an adaptive response that has developed throughout evolution and is associated with multiple changes in the biochemistry histology and physiology of an organism As stress may induce or contribute to multiple neuropsychiatric disorders the rigorous investigation of the neural substrates of stress has become a critical endeavour of contemporary biomedical science This book explores the physiological responses that researchers have attempted to assess in stress evoked behavioural changes using both human and animal experimental models in clinical and non clinical research Though all aspects of the field have their challenges animal experimental research of stress is a particularly difficult but meaningful task This book provides succinct and relevant summaries of progress in the area of assessing stress response and the conditions contributing to it

Models Of Psychopathology Davies, Dilys,Bhugra, Dinesh,2004-05-01 Annotation States of Consciousness Andrzej Kokoszka,2007-10-25 Consciousness has always been a particularly elusive concept and one vigorously argued in the scientific community This new volume takes on the task of defining normal and altered consciousness in their most relevant clinical terms In States of Consciousness Andrzej Kokoszka expands on the pioneering work of J H Jackson offering contemporary models for studying consciousness as it applies to both pathology and normal altered states e g relaxation sleep meditation and hypnosis He makes clear distinctions between the neuroscientific and psychiatric components of consciousness at the same time his theories are rooted firmly in the biopsychosocial approach Highlights of the coverage Historical overview of studies of consciousness and its altered states Evolutionary dynamic model of consciousness and information processing based on the structure and principles of cell behavior Comparison of altered states of consciousness in healthy persons and patients with schizophrenia New perspectives on the role of consciousness in pathology Case illustration of altered states in a patient with Posttraumatic Stress Disorder integrating neurobiological cognitive behavioral and psychodynamic data Applications of the model in clinical practice States of Consciousness lends itself to theoretical and practical research and classroom use It is relevant to a range of scientists and practitioners in cognition clinical psychology social psychology and neuropsychology The book s scope and the author s attention to detail make it a work of great versatility much like consciousness itself

Comprehensive Textbook of Psychiatry/III Harold I. Kaplan,Alfred M. Freedman,Benjamin J. Sadock,1980 Animal Models of Depression KOOB,EHLERS,KUPFER,2012-12-06 Animal models represent experimental investigations developed in one species for the purpose of studying phenomena in another species and provide numerous advantages for preclinical research They allow scientists greater control and isolation of important experimental variables Animal models are safe reproducible strategies by which to evaluate and design new pharmacological treatment strategies while also allowing direct central nervous system intervention to alter the course of the aberrant behavior Animal models have been developed for a number of mental illnesses in this particular domain they hold the promise to shed light on the still obscure etiologies of these illnesses and ultimately to facilitate the development and testing of cures Yet true models of mental illness are difficult to develop because mental illness may be a uniquely human phenomenon It was based on these considerations that the MacArthur Foundation Research Network on the Psychobiology of Depression set out to sponsor a conference to review the status problems promises and relevance of animal models to the clinical conditions of affective disorders The conference was held in September 1986 and included participants from both within the Network as well as scientists and scholars from various disciplines relevant to the concerns of the conference. After the conference was held it became clear to the organizers that the material presented could be helpful to a broader field of investigators since a significant portion of the information has not been presented elsewhere or in the unified context of a monograph.
