Sell, 2001 In the twentieth century literature was under threat Not only was there the challenge of new forms of oral and visual culture Even literary education and literary criticism could sometimes actually distance novels poems and plays from their potential audience This is the trend which Roger D Sell now seeks to reverse Arguing that literature can still be a significant and democratic channel of human interactivity he sees the most helpful role of teachers and critics as one of mediation Through their own example they can encourage readers to empathize with otherness to recognize the historical achievement of significant acts of writing and to respond to literary authors own faith in communication itself By way of illustration he offers major reassessments of five canonical figures Vaughan Fielding Dickens T S Eliot and Frost and of two fascinating twentieth century writers who were somewhat misunderstood the novelist William Gerhardie and the poet Andrew Young Late Modernism and the Avant-garde British Novel Julia Jordan, 2020 A study of the experimental novel of the postwar period in Britain that rethinks the resurgence of the literary avant garde that occurred in these decades and explains its implications for the history of the novel and late modernism more broadly Faith and Fiction of Muriel Spark Ruth Whittaker, 1984-06-18 Travel, Modernism and Modernity Robert Burden, 2016-03-09 Focusing on the significance of travel in Joseph Conrad E M Forster D H Lawrence Henry James and Edith Wharton Robert Burden shows how travel enabled a new consciousness of mobility and borders during the modernist period For these authors Burden suggests travel becomes a narrative paradigm and dominant trope by which they explore questions of identity and otherness related to deep seated concerns with the crisis of national cultural identity He pays particular attention to the important distinction between travel and tourism at the same time that he attends to the slippage between seeing and sightseeing between the local character and the stereotype between art and kitsch and between older and newer ways of storytelling in the representational crisis of modernism Burden argues that the greater awareness of cultural difference that characterizes both the travel writing and fiction of these expatriate writers became a defining feature of literary modernism resulting in a consciousness of cultural difference that challenged the ethnographic project of empire Considering Children's Literature Andrea Schwenke Wyile,Teya
