from each other Bronwen Low builds a surprising argument the very reasons teachers might resist the introduction of hip hop into the planned curriculum are what make hip hop so pedagogically vital Class discussions on topics such as what one can and cannot say in the school auditorium or who can use the N word raised pressing and difficult questions about language culture and identity As she reveals an innovative student centered pedagogy based on spoken word curriculum that is willing to tolerate conflict as well as ambivalence has the potential to air tensions and lead to new insights and understandings for both teachers and students   Curriculum Histories in Place, in Person, in Practice Petra Hendry,Molly Quinn,Roland Mitchell,Jacqueline Bach,2023-03-10 This book situates the Curriculum Theory Project at Louisiana State University within a larger historical framework of curriculum work examining the practices which have sustained this type of curricular vitality over the lifetime of the field s existence Divided into seven parts the authors illuminate seven practices which have sustained the scholarship graduate programs mentorship and networking that have been critical to maintaining a web of international relationships This exploration and coming together of intergenerational stories reveals a more complete and nuanced narrative of the development of curriculum theory over the last 60 years Crucially the project exemplifies the continuing resilience of curriculum theory despite ongoing neo liberal aspirations to reframe education as a business Reflecting upon the lived experiences and articulated memories of those who have participated in the project and analysis of documents collected over its 25 year history it considers curriculum history ies writ large through and from this lens of practice As such it opens up fresh insights for cultivating the vitality and vigor of curriculum theory more broadly on an international scale and with a view to future directions for the field It will appeal to both new and experienced scholars working across education foundations urban education philosophy of education and higher education and researchers from across history sociology anthropology ethnic studies and gender studies   Jewish Intellectuals and the University M.
