Resettled Community to the Newly-Built Environment A Study of the Nubian Experience in Egypt Wael Salah Fahmi, 2014-04-01 Generally construction of dams is regarded as means of economic progress in many countries Major consequences of such projects are the inundation of upstream areas and the resettlement of entire communities in newly built environments where they experience dramatic transformation in their lifestyles The present study takes the Nubian resettlement experience after the creation of Lake Nasser that submerged their old settlements along the river Nile Following their resettlement the design of the newly built environment disrupted the Nubian traditional lifestyles and patterns of privacy mechanisms territoriality and social interaction The inadequacy of the newly built environment was mainly attributed to the Nubians transfer from spacious homes in the old villages to compact contiguous houses in the new settlements The arrangement of these resettlement state built houses distributed on the basis of household size has further resulted in the fragmentation and the dispersion of traditional kinship based neighborhoods Within an interdisciplinary approach the study is based on theoretical historical and conceptual themes and on empirical research It sets out to examine the households responses towards and adaptation mechanisms with the newly built environment looking critically at the achievements of imposed top down planning in meeting the socio cultural and economic needs of those resettled

Systems thinking is an approach to problem solving that views problems as part of a wider dynamic system. It recognizes and prioritizes the understanding of linkages relationships interactions and interdependencies among the components of a system that give rise to the system's observed behaviour. Systems thinking is a philosophical frame and it can also be considered a method with its own tools. Identifying ways in the short and long term which strengthen health systems is critical and applied systems thinking offers opportunities to do this. Systems thinking is often considered to be a field a discipline a philosophical approach and a set of tools and methods and can be defined as a way to understand and improve complex issues and situations. Despite broad consensus that systems thinking is important in health systems strengthening it remains underutilized by researchers public health practitioners and health decision makers. Further a gap remains in the translation from concept to policy. Strategies for Team Science Success Kara L. Hall, Amanda L. Vogel, Robert T.
