Economic and Social Factors Affecting the Health of Older Adults Colette Joy Browning,Katherine Henrietta Leith,Shane Andrew Thomas,2023-12-11 In 2020 over 1 billion of the world's population were over the age of 60 years old and it is expected to double by 2050 according to WHO. Due to the growing population of older adults there is a focus on healthy aging that will benefit the individuals and the wider communities as older adults will be able to support family members and partake in paid or voluntary work for a longer period of time. Currently a large number of older adults are unable to work increasing the likelihood of economic instability with fewer streams of income. Economic instability has been proven to have health impacts including declining mental wellbeing, malnutrition and the inability to afford prescribed medications. Social isolation proves to be another important factor in the overall health of older adults. The CDC reports that poor social interactions have been linked to a higher risk of developing multiple serious medical conditions.

OECD Rural Studies Delivering Quality Education and Health Care to All Preparing Regions for Demographic Change OECD, 2021-03-05. COVID 19 has put renewed focus on the importance of addressing longstanding challenges that OECD governments face in delivering public services especially in regions with people spread over a wider area where economies of scale are more difficult to achieve. The physical infrastructure needed to provide good quality education and health services can be more complex and expensive in rural and remote regions that also struggle to attract and retain education and health care professionals.

OECD Health Policy Studies Is Care Affordable for Older People? OECD, 2024-10-29. With population ageing the demand for helping older people with daily activities so called long term care is set to increase across OECD countries by more than one third by 2050. Older people with long term care needs are more likely to be women 80 years old and above live in single households and have lower incomes than the average. Currently across OECD countries publicly funded long term care systems still leave almost half of older people with care needs at risk of poverty particularly those with severe care needs and low income. Out of pocket costs represent on average 70% of an older person's median income across the OECD. This report suggests avenues to improve funding to make long term care systems better able to meet the demand for their services and suggests policy options to improve the targeting of benefits and seek efficiency gains to contain the costs of long term care.
