Chances and challenges for the logistic hub*, 2020-09-03 Seminar paper from the year 2019 in the subject Asian studies grade 1 7 University of Duisburg Essen language English abstract This paper focuses on the economic outlook of the Port of Hamburg in general and challenges and chances presented by the Chinese Belt and Road Initiative BRI especially Leading research question is Is the Port of Hamburg profiting by the BRI or is it risking being left out by this century's major development program Hamburg is a traditional center of European Chinese trade since 1731 when the first ship arrived from Guangdong province delivering tea silk and porcelain Today 5 900 Chinese citizens are living in the Hanseatic city More than 550 Chinese companies have their seat in Hamburg most of them in the logistics aerospace and energy sector Amongst others the state-owned China Ocean Shipping Group Company COSCO the biggest Chinese shipping company has its European headquarter in Hamburg Only in North Rhine Westphalia 1 100 and Hesse 700 are more Chinese companies registered In 1986 Hamburg established a twinning agreement with Shanghai where Hamburg operates the Hamburg Liaison Office HLO In 2016 a second dependence opened in Beijing Furthermore the north German metropolis is staging the biennial high level conference The Hamburg Summit China meets Europe one of the most important fora of Sino European cooperation Economically or politically the Port of Hamburg is the transmitter of Hamburg's and Germany's close ties to China and dominated the EU China trade together with Dutch and Belgian ports for the last decades However changing geopolitical landscapes namely the introduction of the BRI challenge the former top dog The Port of Hamburg has to face ongoing pressure from inner German competitors like Duisburg and ports in the Mediterranean Sea The Port of Hamburg Edwin

J. Clapp, 2015-07-20 Excerpt from The Port of Hamburg With the presentation at this time of reports to the Legislatures of New York and New Jersey in regard to the proper development of New York Harbor it is to be hoped that there will be much more widespread and intelligent interest shown in the discussion of plans for the future of the Port of New York That this is not merely a local question but rather a problem of national and even international importance has been frequently urged This winter with the evident congestion of freight including supplies intended for shipment to our Allies and to our soldiers abroad the truth of this statement is more freely admitted If once it be generally conceded we can look forward to the preparation of plans based on the belief that it is of worldwide importance to have the Port of New York developed with a comprehensive understanding of world needs of the future and not merely with the desire to effect some relatively slight relief from present discomforts experienced by our own community In an effort to help members of the State Legislatures realize the magnitude of the problem and appreciate with what care and at what expense the Port of Hamburg for example has been developed the Yale University Press has recently distributed a number of copies of two volumes heretofore published by it under the titles of The Port of Hamburg and The Port of Boston and written by Edwin J Clapp Professor of Economics New York University About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Port of Hamburg Edwin Jones
