Portraits Of Africa:

Likeness and Beyond Jean Borgatti, Richard Brilliant, 1990 Portraits of Africa Mohamed Amin, Peter Moll, 1983

Portraiture and Photography in Africa John Pepper, Elisabeth L. Cameron, 2013-07-24 Beautifully illustrated Portrait Photography in Africa offers new interpretations of the cultural and historical roles of photography in Africa Twelve leading scholars look at early photographs important photographers studios the uses of portraiture in the 19th century and the current passion for portraits in Africa They review a variety of topics including what defines a common culture of photography the social and political implications of changing technologies for portraiture and the lasting effects of culture on the idea of the person depicted in the photographic image Hector Acebes Hector Acebes, Isolde Brielmaier, Ed Marquand, 2004 This book presents the exquisite work of Hector Acebes for the first time in monograph form Over ninety striking images are richly reproduced in duotone Ed Marquand director of the Hector Acebes Archive introduces Acebes in a brief biography Isolde Brielmaier a noted art historian of African photography places Acebes s African work in the context of other photographers shooting in Africa at the time She also discusses the qualities of Acebes s work that distinguish his photographs today Google Books viewed 9 8 2020 Faces of Africa , 2021 Stunning photo portraits and landscapes capture Africa s ethnic and cultural diversity Expressive photo art over 220 color and black and white pictures from among others Ethiopia Kenya Sudan and Tanzania A new book from award winning photographer Mario Marino following museum and gallery exhibitions around the globe I try to read people s lives says photographer Mario Marino In this new photo book the Austrian born camera artist presents over 220 color and black and white photographs from some of the most remote areas of Ethiopia Tanzania Sudan and Kenya Stunning landscapes combine with powerful portraiture capturing in particular remote communities whose heritage and ways of life are threatened by the combined forces of tourism technology and globalization With his subjects illuminated by the sunlight alone particular attention is given to traditional markers upon the body face paint hair styles and jewelry Beyond simple reportage or documentation Faces of Africa strives to create a timeless portrait that speaks to the deep geographical and cultural roots of each individual Text in English and German Little Portraits of Africa William Edward Burghardt Du Bois, 1924 Portraits of Africa Marc Champagne, 2015-05-23 A series of portraits photographed in Senegal Africa bringing awareness to positive change Help support the great work being done in Senegal to provide access to clean drinking water and improved sanitation Every cent of profit from this book will be donated to Water Charity an organization that is run by truly remarkable people that make a difference each day But funding is key We can all make a difference in the lives of others and every dollar can go further than you think You may be surprised to learn that only a few hundred dollars can support the construction of an entire water well which provides clean drinking water for a village Portraits of African Writers George Hallett, 2006 A chronological arrangement of the lives of writers from the 1960s to the present This is a stunning collection of more than 100 portraits in black and white of writers from

Africa and in particular South Africa The chronological arrangement reveals the changing conditions and roles of writers from the 1960s to the present While the early pictures were mostly taken in exile there is a distinct shift as writers came back to South Africa in the early nineties The most recent photographs were taken after the Pretoria Writers Conference in 2002 which provided landmark debates around the identity and role of writers currently living in South Africa A foreword by Keorapetse Willie Kgotsitsile reflects on the early times while short texts by some of the more recent writers reflect the diversity of views held by writers living in contemporary South Africa

Photography in Africa Richard Vokes, 2012 Gives an ethnographic account of the complexities of the use of photography in Africa both historically and in contemporary practice This collection of studies in African photography examines through a series of empirically rich historical and ethnographic cases the variety of ways in which photographs are produced circulated and engaged across a range of social contexts In so doing it elucidates the distinctive characteristics of African photographic practices and cultures vis vis those of other forms of vernacular photography worldwide In addition these studies develop a reflexive turn examining the history of academic engagement with these African photographic cultures and reflecting on the distinctive qualities of the ethnographic method as a means for studying such phenomena The volume critically engages current debates in African photography and visual anthropology First it extends our understanding of the variety of ways in which both colonial and post colonial states in Africa have used photography as a means for establishing and projecting their authority Second it moves discussion of African photography away from an exclusive focus on the role of the studio and looks at the circulations through which the studio's products the photographs themselves later pass as artefacts of material culture Last it makes an important contribution to our understanding of the relationship between photography and ethnographic research methods as these have been employed in Africa RICHARD VOKES is Senior Lecturer in Anthropology and Development Studies at the University of Adelaide Australia and author of Ghosts of Kanungu

Portraits from Africa, 2018

The Portrait and the Colonial Imaginary Simon Dell, 2020-02-26 French colonisers of the Third Republic claimed not to oppress but to liberate imagining they were spreading republican ideals to the colonies to make a Greater France In this book Simon Dell explores the various roles played by portraiture in this colonial imaginary Anyone interested in the history of colonial Africa will have encountered innumerable portraits of African elites produced during the first half of the twentieth century yet no book to date has focused on these ubiquitous images Dell analyses the production and dissemination of such portraits and situates them in a complex and conflicted field of representations Moving between European and African perspectives The Portrait and the Colonial Imaginary blends history with art history to provide insights into the larger processes that were transforming the French metropole and colonies during the early twentieth century This publication is GPRC labeled

Women and Photography in Apartheid South Africa Marie

Meyerding, 2025-04-29 Tracing the lives and works of five women in four case studies author Marie Meyerding examines the representation of women in the field of photography in South Africa in the second half of the twentieth century All of them are critically understudied with no existing scholarship dedicated exclusively to their photographic contributions Focusing on the representation of women on two different levels as agents behind the camera and as subjects in photographs it showcases women photographers portraying their female contemporaries and analyses to what extent they adhered to or subverted common forms of gender representation In recuperating their forgotten archives the book argues that none of these women are marginal figures but rather that each of them played a leading role in the field of photography in their own time The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history history of photography gender studies intersectionality and African studies

The Expanded Subject Joshua I. Cohen, Sandrine Colard, Giulia Paoletti, 2016 From 19th century studio practice through the independence era African photography has best been known for modes of portraiture that crystallize the sitter's identity and social milieu Even portraits by contemporary artists are often interpreted as windows into African realities This exhibition reconsiders African contemporary photographic portraiture by presenting four practitioners whose concerns range well beyond questions of social identity Sammy Baloji Mohamed Camara Sa dou Dicko and George Osodi expand their subjects interpretive possibilities exemplifying a new creativity and versatility in portrait making While each artist employs different strategies they all challenge the assumption that photographic portraits serve as mirrors of the self Baloji's montages dislocate the subject historically Camara probes the boundaries of the portrait genre Dicko expresses uncertainty at the possibility of representation and Osodi engages his subjects as platforms for political commentary The four artists enlist portraiture as a point of departure for exploring subjectivity history and photographic form The Expanded Subject offers new insights into the expressive and conceptual range of African photo portraiture today

Postcolonial Subjectivities in Africa Pnina Werbner, 2002 This is the third volume in a trilogy on identity memory and subjectivity Contributors to the book share an ambition to combine personal political and existential dimensions in detailed evocations of the ambitions and vulnerabilities of contemporary Africans Their essays aim to forge alliances between patient local scholarship and adventurous theoretical speculation that should inspire new research and caution against bland generalizations about African marginality

Photography in and Out of Africa Kylie Thomas, Louise Green, 2018-09-04 This book offers a range of perspectives on photography in Africa bringing research on South African photography into conversation with work from several other places on the continent including Angola the DRC Kenya Mali Morocco Nigeria Ethiopia and Eritrea The collection engages with the history of photography and its role in colonial regulatory regimes with social documentary photography and practices of self representation and with the place of portraits in the production of subjectivities as well as contemporary and experimental photographic practices

Through detailed analyses of particular photographs and photographic archives the chapters in this book trace how photographs have been used both to affirm colonial worldviews and to disrupt and critique such forms of power This book was originally published as a special issue of Social Dynamics Portraits of the African Wild Gerald S. Cubitt,1993
