Eating and Believing David Grumett, Rachel Muers, 2011-11-03 What are the links between people's beliefs and the foods they choose to eat In the modern Western world dietary choices are a topic of ethical and political debate but how can centuries of Christian thought and practice also inform them And how do reasons for abstaining from particular foods in the modern world compare with earlier ones This book will shed new light on modern vegetarianism and related forms of dietary choice by situating them in the context of historic Christian practice It will show how the theological significance of embodied practice may be retrieved and reconceived in the present day Food and diet is a neglected area of Christian theology and Christianity is conspicuous among the modern world's religions in having few dietary rules or customs Yet historically food and the practices surrounding it have significantly shaped Christian lives and identities This collection prepared collaboratively includes contributions on the relationship between Christian beliefs and food practices in specific historical contexts It considers the relationship between eating and believing from non Christian perspectives that have in turn shaped Christian attitudes and practices It also examines ethical arguments about vegetarianism and their significance for emerging Christian theologies of food

The Publishers Weekly, 2003

Food contamination Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2013-07-16 The Committee agrees that Ministers must be responsible for policy but there was confusion about where responsibility lay for responding to the horse meat discovery and urges the Government to reconsider the machinery of government changes it made in 2010 and make the

FSA one step removed from the Government departments it reports to Those responsible for the horsemeat scandal must be identified and prosecuted in order to restore consumer confidence in the UK s frozen meat sector There was also surprise at the comparatively large number of horse carcasses from the UK which tested positive for the veterinary drug bute A newly introduced system for testing horses for bute before they are released to the food system must continue with government and industry sharing the cost The Committee also recommends the Food Standards Agency must be more effective and given powers to compel industry to carry out food testing when needed large retailers must carry out regular DNA testing of meat ingredients for frozen and processed meat products with the costs borne by industry all test results must be submitted to the FSA and a summary published on the retailers website the present system for issuing horse passports must change and a single national database be established in all EU Member States the FSA should have powers to ensure all local authorities carry out some food sampling each year local authorities should adopt targeted sampling without requiring intelligence to support it the Government should ensure there are sufficient properly trained public analysts in the UK

Brooks, 2017-05-15 Why did some countries grow rich while others remained poor Human history unfolded differently across the globe The world is separated in to places of poverty and prosperity Tracing the long arc of human history from hunter gatherer societies to the early twenty first century in an argument grounded in a deep understanding of geography Andrew Brooks rejects popular explanations for the divergence of nations This accessible and illuminating volume shows how the wealth of the West and poverty of the rest stem not from environmental factors or some unique European cultural social or technological qualities but from the expansion of colonialism and the rise of America Brooks puts the case that international inequality was moulded by capitalist development over the last 500 years After the Second World War international aid projects failed to close the gap between developed and developing nations and millions remain impoverished Rather than address the root causes of inequality overseas development assistance exacerbate the problems of an uneven world by imposing crippling debts and destructive neoliberal policies on poor countries But this flawed form of development is now coming to an end as the emerging economies of Asia and Africa begin to assert themselves on the world stage The End of Development provides a compelling account of how human history unfolded differently in varied regions of the world Brooks argues that we must now seize the opportunity afforded by today s changing economic geography to transform attitudes towards inequality and to develop radical new approaches to addressing global poverty as the alternative is to accept that impoverishment is somehow part of the natural order of things

Feeding Britain Tim Lang, 2020-03-26 How does Britain get its food Why is our current system at breaking point How can we fix it before it is too late British food has changed remarkably in the last half century As we have become wealthier and more discerning our food has Europeanized pizza is children s favourite food and internationalized we eat the world s cuisines yet our food culture remains fragmented a mix of mass ultra processed substances alongside food as varied and good as anywhere else on the planet This book takes stock of the UK food system where it comes from what we eat its impact fragilities and strengths It is a book on the politics of food It argues that the Brexit vote will force us to review our food system Such an opportunity is sorely needed After a brief frenzy of concern following the financial shock of 2008 the UK government has slumped once more into a vague hope that the food system will keep going on as before Food they said just required a burst of agri technology and more exports to pay for our massive imports Feeding Britain argues that this and other approaches are short sighted against the public interest and possibly even strategic folly Setting a new course for UK food is no easy task but it is a process this book urges that needs to begin now Tim Lang has performed a public service Simon Jenkins Sunday Times
