Rhythms On The Work Translation And Psychoanalysis Meridian Crossing Aesthetics:

Rhythms Nicolas Abraham, Nicholas Thomas Rand, Maria Torok, 1995 Despite Nicolas Abraham's fame as a psychoanalyst and philosopher few people are aware of the direct relevance of his work to issues of poetics and literary theory The fourth volume of his posthumous publication Rhythms explores the relationship between the interpretation of texts and psychoanalysis The three essays offer a new approach to the problem of literary creation and a psychoanalytic definition of temporality In contradistinction to both Husserl and Heidegger in the German tradition and Sartre and Merleau-Ponty in France Abraham links the emergence of human time to a form of poetic creation He identifies in rhythm a previously unexplored mode of inquiry elicited by poetry and by what may be called one's life as a work of art In Rhythms Abraham develops a systematic theory of the poetic position of writers, readers and psychoanalysts

World in Fragments Cornelius Castoriadis, David Ames Curtis, 1997 This collection presents a broad and compelling overview of the most recent work in philosophy, politics and psychoanalysis by a world renowned figure in contemporary thought

The Muses Jean-Luc Nancy, 1996 Jean-Luc Nancy's probing analysis of art and the sensible presentation of an idea examines why there are several arts and not just one He uses Hegel's conclusions in Aesthetics and the Phenomenology of Spirit as support for his theory

Psychoanalyzing Serge Leclaire, 1998 Scarcely any theoretical discourse has had greater impact on literary and cultural studies than psychoanalysis and yet hardly any theoretical discourse is more widely misunderstood and abused In Psychoanalyzing Serge Leclaire offers a thorough and lucid exposition of the psychoanalysis that has emerged from the French return to Freud, unfolding and elaborating the often enigmatic pronouncements of Jacques Lacan and patiently working through the central tenets of the Ecole freudienne As a concise but nuanced introduction to the subject Psychoanalyzing will prove indispensable to anyone interested in psychoanalysis especially those curious about its Lacanian reconceptualization and the linguistic theory of the unconscious and its effects Leclaire's study is particularly valuable for the way its author links theoretical issues to psychoanalytic practice The opening chapter on listening highlights the necessity and the impossibility of the floating attention required from the analyst while preparing the reader for the following chapters which deal with such topics as unconscious desire, how to speak of the body and the intrication of the object and the letter, i.e. the signifier, the material support that concrete discourse borrows from language The final chapter on transference shows how the analytical dialogue differs from other dialogues Despite the intricacy of its subject matter the book takes very little for granted It does not simplify the issues it presents but does not assume a reader familiar with the concepts of psychoanalysis let alone a reader acquainted with its French inflection Each basic concept and term is carefully explained so that the reader knows the meaning of transference or primal scene before proceeding to more advanced elements of psychoanalysis Leclaire's text is not intended merely to be user friendly its purpose is to clarify and advance rather than to impress or convert has been an extraordinarily influential figure on the French literary and cultural scene. He is arguably the key figure after Sartre in exploring the relation between literature and philosophy. This collection of 29 critical essays and reviews on art, politics, literature and philosophy documents the wide range of Blanchot's interests from the enigmatic paintings in the Lascaux caves to the atomic era. Essays are devoted to works of fiction: Louis Ren des For ts, Pierre Klossowski, Roger Laporte, Marguerite Duras to autobiographies or testimonies: Michel Leiris, Robert Antelme, Andr Gorz, Franz Kafka, or to authors who are more than ever contemporary: Jean Paulhan, Albert Camus. Several essays focus on questions of Judaism as expressed in the works of Edmond Jabès, Emmanuel, Levinas and Martin Buber. Among the other topics covered are Andr Malraux's imaginary museum, the Pl iade Encyclopedia project of Raymond Queneau, paperback publishing the work of Claude L vi Strauss, Benjamin's Task of the Translator, Marx and communism, writings on the Holocaust and the difference between art and writing. The book concludes with an eloquent invocation to friendship on the occasion of the death of Georges Bataille.

The Little Book of Unsuspected Subversion Edmond Jabès, Rosmarie Waldrop, 1996. The late Edmond Jabès was a major voice in French poetry in the latter half of this century. An Egyptian Jew, he was haunted by the question of place and the loss of place in relation to writing. He focused on the space of the book, seeing it as the true space in which exile and the promised land meet in poetry and in question. Jabès's mode of expression has been variously described: a new and mysterious kind of literary work as dazzling as it is difficult to define; cascading aphorisms; a theater of voices in a labyrinth of forms. The manner of his writing embodies the meaning of his writing. Jabès's book is a manifesto not only of his own poetry but of the most advanced critical poetry written during this century, one in which he engages in dialogue with some of its outstanding philosophers: Blanchot, Levinas and Derrida.

Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1991 Sound Figures Theodor W. Adorno, 1999-06-03. Theodor Adorno is one of this century's most influential thinkers in the areas of social theory, philosophy, aesthetics and music. Throughout the essays in this book, all of which concern musical matters, he displays an astonishing range of cultural reference, demonstrating that music is invariably social, political, even ethical. Adorno's insistence on the social character of aesthetic works will come as no surprise to those familiar with his writings, although many may be surprised by the volume's somewhat colloquial tone. This colloquialism in dialogue with Adorno's unceasing rigor stems from the occasional sources of many of the essays: mainly public lectures and radio addresses. As such, this volume represents an important and, for English language readers, largely unfamiliar side to Adorno. His arguments move more quickly than in his more formal and extended musicological works, and the writing is much more accessible and generous than his usually dense and frequently opaque prose. This volume includes essays on prominent figures in music: Alban Berg, Anton von Webern, Arturo Toscanini; compositional technique: the prehistory of the twelve-tone row, the function of counterpoint in new music; and the larger questions of musical sociology for which Adorno is most famous, including the relation of interpretation to audience, the ideological function of opera, and the historical meaning of musical technique. The essay on the sociology of music for example represents an early statement of what would soon become trademark principles of his mode of musical analysis serving as a catalyst for his famous study Introduction to the Sociology of Music Some forty years after most of these essays were written they remain fresh and relevant In part this is because Adorno's method has only recently begun to make substantial inroads into Anglo American musicology And the interdisciplinary nature of his thought provides a precursor for today's interdisciplinary studies

Posthumous People Massimo Cacciari, 1996 Cacciari discusses Vienna at a crucial turning point in Western thinking as the 19th century ended treating this extraordinarily rich concentration of people and events as the hub upon which wheeled into the 20th century

A Child Is Being Killed Serge Leclaire, 1998 The powerful thesis of this book is that in order to achieve full selfhood we must all repeatedly and endlessly kill the phantasmatic image of ourselves instilled in us by our parents We must all combat what the author calls primary narcissism a projection of the child our parents wanted This idea that each of us carries as a burden an unconscious secret of our parents a hidden desire that we are made to live out but that we must kill in order to be born touches on some of the fundamental issues of psychoanalytic theory Around it the author builds an intricate analysis of the relation between primary narcissism and the death drive Each of the book's five chapters begins with one or more case studies drawn from the author's clinical experience as a psychoanalyst In these studies he links his central concern the image of the child created by the unconscious desire of the parents to other issues such as the question of love the concept of the subject and the death drive In the penultimate chapter on transference the author challenges the commonplace understanding of the analyst's impassivity What does such impassivity imply especially in the context of a transference love between a female patient and a male analyst In replying to this question the author forcefully reassesses the relation of psychoanalysis to femininity to the question What does a woman want Serge Leclaire's overarching thesis leads to a provocative rereading of the Oedipal configuration Leclaire suggests that he is inhabited pursued haunted and debilitated by the child who should have died in order that Oedipus might have been born into life
