fiction television the cinema virtual reality technology and other aspects of the culture Includes a section focusing on major figures such as H G Wells Arthur C Clarke and Ursula Le Guin Offers close readings of particular novels from Mary Shelley s Frankenstein to Margaret Atwood s The Handmaid s Tale Merriam-Webster's Encyclopedia of Literature

Merriam-Webster, Inc,1995 Describes authors works and literary terms from all eras and all parts of the world The English Novel in History, 1950 to the Present Professor Steven Connor,Steven Connor,2008-03-07 Steven Connor provides in depth analyses of the novel and its relationship with its own form with contemporary culture and with history He incorporates an extensive and varied range of writers in his discussions such as George Orwell William Golding Angela Carter Doris Lessing Timothy Mo Hanif Kureishi Marina Warner Maggie Gee Written by a foremost scholar of contemporary culture and theory The English Novel in History 1950 to the Present offers not only a survey but also a historical and cultural context to British literature produced in the second half of this century The Rhetoric of Antinuclear Fiction Patrick Mannix,1992 Given the ever present threat of world wide calamity that nuclear weapons present it is not surprising that they have fascinated fiction writers and filmmakers ever since their development Nor is it surprising that many of these artists would seek to use their work to influence mass opinion about these weapons What may be surprising is that few studies have been made of how antinuclear fiction actually attempts to persuade its audiences The Rhetoric of Antinuclear Fiction is an effort to do so Organized around the three traditional modes of rhetorical appeal the ethical the rational and the emotional the book describes and classifies the persuasive strategies of a wide range of antinuclear fiction from the period 1945 to 1989 Works examined include On the Beach Fail Safe A Canticle for Leibowitz Dr Strangelove The Day After War Day Testament Threads and Riddley Walker During the course of these studies Patrick Mannix reveals what sorts of fictional characters have been most widely used to deliver antinuclear messages and he follows the major arguments of the nuclear debate as they have been reflected in fiction He also shows which emotions are invoked most often to secure the audience s opposition to nuclear weapons and how those emotions have been generated by the creators of antinuclear fiction The range of characters that this volume examines includes the pacifistic but loyal Air Force general of Fail Safe the pious but shrewd monks of A Canticle for Leibowitz the suburban housewife of Threads and even the computer of War games which teaches humanity the folly of nuclear war We also follow fictional manifestations of the nuclear debate from veiled arguments for world government in The Day the Earth Stood Still through warnings of the dangers of Mutual Assured Destruction depicted by Fail Safe Dr Strangelove and Wargames to attacks on the concepts of limited nuclear war and the Strategic Defense Initiative in War Day This study also demonstrates the dynamic of fear in works as diverse as Ape and Essence The Day After and Them and dissects the powerful use of scorn in Dr Strangelove It also shows us the paradoxical role of hope in securing the effectiveness of antinuclear fiction While maintaining his focus on the persuasive nature of this literature Mannix does consider the aesthetic value of the fiction he studies noting that the relationship between the two elements is complex and often problematical While admitting that the aesthetic elements of some works would limit their audience and therefore reduce the scope of their rhetorical effect he demonstrates how the skillful combination of artistic and rhetorical elements raises a film like Dr Strangelove above the similarly themed Fail Safe as both a persuasive act and an aesthetic artifact

Cowart presents a study of international historical fiction since World War II with reflections on the affinities between historical and fictional narrative analysis of the basic modes of historical fiction and readings of a number of historical novels including John Barth's The Sot-Weed Factor, Marguerite Yourcenar's Memoirs of Hadrian, Russell Hoban's Riddley Walker, Margaret Atwood's The Handmaid's Tale, Giuseppe Tomasi Di Lampedusa's The Leopard, D. M. Thomas's The White Hotel, William Faulkner's Go Down Moses and Umberto Eco's The Name of the Rose. He proposes recognizing four modes of the historical novel: the past as a distant mirror of the present; fictions whose authors seek to pinpoint the precise historical moment when the modern age or some prominent feature of it came into existence; fictions whose authors aspire purely or largely to historical verisimilitude; and fictions whose authors reverse history to contemplate utopia and dystopia in the future. Thus historical fiction can be organized under the rubrics The Distant Mirror, The Turning Point, The Way It Was and The Way It Will Be. This fourfold schema and his focus on postwar novels set Cowart's work apart from previous studies which have not devoted adequate space to the contemporary historical novel. Cowart argues that postwar historical fiction merits more extensive treatment because it is the product of an age unique in the annals of history: an age in which history itself may end.

The Unresolvable Plot Elizabeth Dipple, 2019-10-01 Originally published in 1988, the last few decades had seen the appearance of some brilliant and complex new kinds of fiction. The ambitious experiments of writers such as Greene, Garcia Marquez, Borges, Nabokov, Calvino, Beckett, Eco, Spark, Hoban, Murdoch, Bellow, Ozick and Lessing among others had all proved the vitality of contemporary fiction in discovering exciting new forms and styles. Yet because of the difficulty of many of the texts, contemporary fiction as a genre had acquired an undeservedly unpopular reputation among students and other readers. In a very real way, the reader had become nervous rather than confident in the face of a literature that in fact is more aware of and generous to that reader than earlier and more apparently accessible literature ever managed to be. And the new fiction's seeming remoteness from the reader is exaggerated in a sense by the critical academic response at the time which tended to obscure the texts themselves behind the many aesthetic and cultural theories which had sprung up in the study of fictionalizing or narrativity in general. Elizabeth Dipple is anxious to dispel readers' fears about these texts. She has chosen an international list of major writers of the time and presents a detailed discussion of each. Beginning each chapter with a brief explanation of the context in which each fictionist is to be examined, she then concentrates on an analysis of key texts, aiming always to look beyond jargon and theory back to the sources themselves. Professor Dipple's purpose was to convey to the reader some of her own admiration and enthusiasm for contemporary fiction and to persuade him or her to take a fresh look at a group of writers who were producing what she felt would surely be seen by future generations as among the most sophisticated and accomplished fiction of our time.

A Shuddering Dawn Ira Chernus,Edward Tabor Linenthal,1989-01-01 Exploring the symbolic meanings of the Bomb this book excavates the depth dimension of the nuclear age Rather than adding to the many ethical commentaries asking whether or not there should be nuclear weapons the authors ask why there are nuclear weapons and a continuing arms race They also address the kinds of symbolic changes that must occur in order to reverse the build up of nuclear weapons The authors approach these questions from the perspective of academic research not from particular faith commitments asking the reader to envision different human responses to this technology human stances that can be illuminated by the creative insight of religious studies Faith in the Millennium Stanley E. Porter,Michael A. Hayes,David Tombs,2001-02-01 At the close of one millennium and the beginning of a new one this conference volume reflects on the past and looks forward to a new era in terms of the development of faith Although most of the papers in the volume address issues concerning Christian faith the volume is not confined to such a perspective since the concept of faith is treated here in an encompassing and broad manner The historical perspective reaches back several millennia addresses contemporary issues of economics and justice as they have a bearing on faith and looks to the future as a new millennium presents its own problems and potential opportunities
