Sarah Orne Jewett An American Persephone:

Sarah Orne Jewett, an American Persephone Sarah Way Sherman, 1989 The tale of Demeter and Persephone a central myth of Victorian women's culture is used to interpret the life and work of a 19th century Maine writer American Persephone Sarah Way Sherman, 1983 Sarah Orne Jewett Margaret Roman, 2017-05-16 In her book Sarah Orne Jewett: Reconstructing Gender Margaret Roman argues that one theme colors almost every short story and novel by the turn of the century American author each person regardless of sex must break free of the restrictive polar opposite norms of behavior traditionally assigned to men and women by a patriarchal society That society as seen from Jewett's perspective during the late Victorian era was one in which a competitive active man dominates a passive emotional woman Frequently referring to Jewett's own New England upbringing at the hands of an unusually progressive father Roman demonstrates how the writer through her personal quest for freedom and through the various characters she created strove to eliminate the necessity for rigid and narrowly defined male female roles and relationships With the details of Jewett's free spirited life Roman's book represents a solid work of literary scholarship which traces a gender dissolving theme throughout Jewett's writing Whereas previous critics have focused primarily on her best known works including A White Heron Deephaven A Country Doctor and The Country of the Pointed Firs Roman encompasses within her own discussion virtually all of the stories found in the nineteen volumes Jewett published during her lifetime And although much recent criticism has centered around Jewett's strong female characters Roman is the first to explore in depth Jewett's male characters and married couples The book progresses through distinct phases that roughly correspond to Jewett's psychological development as a writer In general the characters in her early works exhibit one of two modes of behavior Youngsters free as Jewett was to explore the natural world of woods and field glimpse the possibility of escape from the confining standards that society has set though some experience turbulent and confusing adolescences where those norms have become more pressing more demanding At the opposite extreme are those who have mindlessly accepted the roles in which they have been trapped since youth greedy selfish men dutiful women who tend emotionally empty houses young couples unable to communicate either between themselves or with others in short characters who are too alienated within their roles to function as whole human beings On the other hand Jewett approaches the men and women of her later works with a higher degree of optimism in that each person is free to live according to the dictates of his or her inherent personality each character is able to measure life from within rather than from without This group includes the self confident men who are not reluctant to present a nurturing side and the warm giving women who are unafraid of displaying a decided inner strength As Roman summarizes In her writings Jewett attempts to shift society's focus from a grasping power over people to the personal development of each member of society Ahead of her time in many ways Sarah Orne Jewett confronted the Victorian polarized gender system presaging the modern view that men and women should be encouraged to develop along whatever paths are most comfortable and most natural for them The Irish Stories of Sarah Orne Jewett Sarah Orne Jewett,1996 A collection of eight short stories about Irish immigrants in America by a New England writer An introduction discusses Jewett s understanding of the Irish psyche compared to the disdain for the Irish found in the work of her contemporaries and looks at her work in the context of contemporary multicultural concerns No index Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR The Problem of American Realism Michael Davitt Bell,1993-04-15 Ever since William Dean Howells declared his realism war in the 1880s literary historians have regarded the rise of realism and naturalism as the great development in American post Civil War fiction Yet there are many problems with this generalization It is virtually impossible for example to extract from the novels and manifestoes of American writers of this period any consistent definitions of realism or naturalism as modes of literary representation Rather than seek common traits in widely divergent realist and naturalist literary works Michael Davitt Bell focuses here on the role that these terms played in the social and literary discourse of the 1880s and 1890s Bell argues that in America realism and naturalism never achieved the sort of theoretical rigor that they did in European literary debate Instead the function of these ideas in America was less aesthetic than ideological promoting as reality a version of social normalcy based on radically anti literary and heavily gendered assumptions What effects Bell asks did ideas about realism and naturalism have on writers who embraced and resisted them To answer this question he devotes separate chapters to the work of Howells and Frank Norris the principal American advocates of realism and naturalism in the 1880s and 1890s Mark Twain Henry James Stephen Crane Theodore Dreiser and Sarah Orne Jewett Bell reveals that a chief function of claiming to be a realist or a naturalist was to provide assurance that one was a real man rather than an effeminate artist Since the 1880s Bell asserts all serious American fiction writers have had to contend with this problematic conception of literary realism The true story of the transformation of American fiction after the Civil War is the history of this contention a history of individual accommodations evasions holding actions and occasional triumphs Folk Roots and Mythic Wings in Sarah Orne Jewett and Toni Morrison Marilyn Sanders Mobley,1994-08-01 As women of different eras cultural backgrounds racial identities and places of origin Sarah Orne Jewett and Toni Morrison would appear to have little in common But in her study of these two seemingly dissimilar writers Marilyn Sanders Mobley finds elements that unite their fictional concerns Mobley argues that a folk aesthetic gives structure and meaning to Jewett s and Morrison s work and that a mythic impulse informs their ability to depict people and values that the dominant American culture has traditionally neglected Through close readings of Jewett s Deephaven A White Heron and The Country of Pointed Firs and of Morrison s Song of Solomon Tar Baby and Beloved she demonstrates that the fiction of both writers attempts to preserve and affirm cultural difference cultural knowledge and cultural memory Mobley s carefully argued study simultaneously offers important new insights into the works of two significant women writers and points out ways in which narrative may be used as a catalyst for cultural and social change

Fallen Forests Karen L. Kilcup,2013-05-01 In 1844 Lydia Sigourney asserted Man s warfare on the trees is terrible Like

Sigourney many American women of her day engaged with such issues as sustainability resource wars globalization voluntary simplicity Christian ecology and environmental justice Illuminating the foundations for contemporary women s environmental writing Fallen Forests shows how their nineteenth century predecessors marshaled powerful affective ethical and spiritual resources to chastise educate and motivate readers to engage in positive social change Fallen Forests contributes to scholarship in American women s writing ecofeminism ecocriticism and feminist rhetoric expanding the literary historical and theoretical grounds for some of today s most pressing environmental debates Karen L Kilcup rejects prior critical emphases on sentimentalism to show how women writers have drawn on their literary emotional intelligence to raise readers consciousness about social and environmental issues She also critiques ecocriticism s idealizing tendency which has elided women s complicity in agendas that depart from today s environmental orthodoxies Unlike previous ecocritical works Fallen Forests includes marginalized texts by African American Native American Mexican American working class and non Protestant women Kilcup also enlarges ecocriticism s genre foundations showing how Cherokee oratory travel writing slave narrative diary polemic sketches novels poetry and expos intervene in important environmental debates

Elizabeth Stoddard & the Boundaries of Bourgeois Culture Lynn Mahoney, 2004-01-15 Elizabeth Stoddard and the Boundaries of Bourgeois Culture traces Stoddard s emergence as a writer in the 1850s her conflict ridden relationships with the writers associated with the genteel tradition and her efforts to negotiate the boundaries of Victorian culture in the United States While in many ways a critic of nineteenth century bourgeois culture Stoddard remained in other ways an adherent her work was not a rejection of bourgeois culture but a reworking of it which suggests that bourgeois culture was not as monolithic as later critics believed Recovering the richness and possibility that characterized early Victorian writing this book examines the range of literary expression which had existed at mid century a period that boasts some of American literature s most iconoclastic voices

Kitchen Economics Thomas Strychacz, 2020-08-11 An analysis of how nineteenth century women regional writers represent political economic thought WINNER OF THE ELIZABETH AGEE PRIZE IN AMERICAN LITERATURE Readers of late nineteenth century female American authors are familiar with plots characters and households that make a virtue of economizing Scholars often interpret these scenarios in terms of a mythos of parsimony frequently accompanied by a sort of elegiac republicanism whereby self sufficiency and autonomy are put to the service of the greater good a counterworld to the actual economic conditions of the period In Kitchen Economics Women s Regionalist Fiction and Political Economy Thomas Strychacz takes a new approach to the question of how female regionalist fictions represent the economic by situating them within traditions of classical political economic thought Offering case studies of key works by Sarah Orne Jewett Mary Wilkins Freeman Harriet Beecher Stowe Rose Terry Cooke and Alice Dunbar Nelson this study focuses on three complex cultural fables the island commonwealth stadialism or stage theory and feeding the body politic which found formal expression in political economic thought made their way into endless public debates about the economic turmoil of the late nineteenth century and informed female authors These works represent counterparts not counterworlds to modernity and their characteristic stance is captured in the complex trope of feminaeconomica This approach ultimately leads us to reconsider what we mean by the term economic for the emphasis of contemporary neoclassical economics on economic agents given over to infinite wants and complete self interest has caused the sufficiency and common good models of female regionalist authors to be misinterpreted and misvalued These fictions are nowhere more pertinent to modernity than in their alliance with today s important alternative economic discourses

Miles of Stare Michelle Kohler, 2014-06-25

Miles of Stare explores the problem of nineteenth century American literary vision the strange conflation of visible reality and poetic language that emerges repeatedly in the metaphors and literary creations of American transcendentalists The strangeness of nineteenth century poetic vision is exemplified most famously by Emerson s transparent eyeball That disembodied omniscient seer is able to shed its body and transcend sight paradoxically in order to see not to create poetic language manifest on the American landscape In Miles of Stare Michelle Kohler explores the question of why given American transcendentalism s anti empiricism the movement s central trope becomes an eye purged of imagination And why furthermore she asks despite its insistent empiricism is this notorious eye also so decidedly not an eye What are the ethics of casting a boldly equivocal metaphor as the source of a national literature amidst a national landscape fraught with slavery genocide poverty and war Miles of Stare explores these questions first by tracing the historical emergence of the metaphor of poetic vision as the transcendentalists assimilated European precedents and wrestled with America s troubling rhetoric of manifest destiny and national identity These questions are central to the work of many nineteenth century authors writing in the wake of transcendentalism and Kohler offers examples from the writings of Douglass Hawthorne Dickinson Howells and Jewett that form a cascade of new visual metaphors that address the irreconcilable contradictions within the transcendentalist metaphor and pursue their own efforts to produce an American literature Douglass s doomed witness to slavery Hawthorne s reluctantly omniscient narrator and Dickinson s empty miles of Stare variously skewer the authority of Emerson s all seeing poetic eyeball while attributing new authority to the limitations that mark their own literary gazes

Tracing this metaphorical conflict across genres from the 1830s through the 1880s Miles of Stare illuminates the divergent contentious fates of American literary vision as nineteenth century writers wrestle with the commanding conflation of vision and language that lies at the center of American transcendentalism and at the core of American national identity Hearts of Darkness Bertram Wyatt-Brown, 2002-10-01
