Satellite Sex The Media And Womens Issues In English Canada 19661971:

The Satellite Sex Barbara M. Freeman, 2001 In this provocative new book the first one to examine print and broadcast news coverage of women's issues in English Canada Barbara Freeman explores what the media were saying about women and their concerns during an important period in our history and why The Satellite Sex is both a social history and a media case study of the years 1966-1971 when the feminist movement began once more to gather support Women wanted equal treatment under the law and they wanted rights they had not gained when they won the vote many years earlier In response the Canadian government appointed a federal inquiry on the status of women and hundreds of women came forward to talk to the Commission about the injustices they experienced at school at work in public life in their homes and even in their bedrooms The Satellite Sex demonstrates that the print and broadcast media coverage of women's issues at that time were much more complex and fragmented than revealed by research in the United States on the same era This book released thirty years after the Canadian Commission presented its report also raises questions about the lack of strong feminist voices in today's news media

Beyond Bylines Barbara M. Freeman, 2012-08-01 Beyond Bylines Media Workers and Women's Rights in Canada explores the ways in which several of Canada's women journalists broadcasters and other media workers reached well beyond the glory of their personal bylines to advocate for the most controversial women's rights of their eras To do so some of them adopted conventional feminine identities while others refused to conform altogether openly and defiantly challenging the gender expectations of their day The book consists of a series of case studies of the women in question as they grappled with the concerns close to their hearts higher education for women healthy dress reforms the vote equal opportunities at work abortion lesbianism and Aboriginal women's rights Their media reflected their respective eras intellectual magazines daily and weekly newspapers radio feminist public relations alternative women's periodicals and documentary film made for television Barbara Freeman takes an interdisciplinary approach combining biography history and communication studies to demonstrate how their use of different media both enabled and limited these women in their ability to be daring advocates for gender equality She shows how a number of these women were linked through the generations by their memberships in activist women's organizations

Gender and Media in the Broadcast Age Justine Lloyd, 2020-01-01 The 20th century was a time of rapid expansion in media industries as well as of accelerating demands for equality and recognition for women While women's agency has typically been defined through the domestic sphere the introduction of media into the home destabilised firm boundaries between public and private spheres Gender and Media in the Broadcast Age demonstrates how women as media producers and audiences in three countries with public service broadcasters UK Canada and Australia have contributed to changes in our understandings of public and private Justine Lloyd offers a new way of understanding how tremendous changes in social definitions of gender roles played out in media forms worldwide during this period through the notion of intimate geographies Women's participation in media continues to be a key challenge to notions of the public sphere and the book concludes that profound changes initiated in the broadcast era are unfinished in the age of digital media Lloyd therefore provides rich and valuable evidence of the dynamic relationship between media texts producers and audiences that is relevant to contemporary debates about a growing gender apartheid in a mediated culture
