Revitalization and Internal Colonialism in Rural Japan Timo Thelen,2022-04-04 This book explores the decline of rural and peripheral areas in Japan which results from an aging population outmigration of the younger generations and the economic decline of the primary sector Based on extensive original research the book examines in detail the case of the Noto peninsula Allowing the locals to tell their stories describe their problems and come up with possible solutions the book demonstrates the serious impact of rural decline on their daily life and work and highlights the struggle to sustain rural living in the globalized age It argues that some recent innovations in global media economy technology and ideology offer scope for reversing the decline as some central government initiatives do but that these are not always noticed appreciated and made use of by local people The book also discusses the nature of the links between the peripheries and the centres regional national and global and how these often take the form of internal colonialism

Nature and Culture Sarah Pilgrim,Jules N. Pretty,2010-09-23 There is a growing recognition that the diversity of life comprises both biological and cultural diversity But this division is not universal and in many cases has been deepened by the common disciplinary divide between the natural and social sciences and our apparent need to manage and control nature This book goes beyond divisive definitions and investigates the bridges linking biological and cultural diversity The international team of authors explore the common drivers of loss and argue that policy responses should target both forms of diversity in a novel integrative approach to conservation thus reducing the gap between science policy and practice While conserving nature alongside human cultures presents unique challenges this book forcefully shows that any hope for saving biological diversity is predicated on a concomitant effort to appreciate and protect cultural diversity

Urban Forests, Trees, and Greenspace L. Anders Sandberg, Adrina Bardekjian, Sadia Butt, 2014-07-25 Urban forests trees and greenspace are critical in contemporary planning and development of the city Their study is not only a question of the growth and conservation of green spaces but also has social cultural and psychological dimensions This book brings a perspective of political ecology to the complexities of urban trees and forests through three themes human agency in urban forests and greenspace arboreal and greenspace agency in the urban landscape and actions and interventions in the urban forest Contributors include leading authorities from North America and Europe from a range of disciplines including forestry ecology geography landscape design municipal planning environmental policy and environmental history Anthropology and Nature Kirsten Hastrup, 2013-08-15 On the basis of empirical studies this book explores nature as an integral part of the social worlds conventionally studied by anthropologists The book may be read as a form of scholarly edgework resisting institutional divisions and conceptual routines in the interest of exploring new modalities of anthropological knowledge making The present interest in the natural world is partly a response to large scale natural disasters and global climate change and to a keen sense that nature matters matters to society at many levels ranging from the microbiological and genetic framing of reproduction over co species development to macro ecological changes of weather and climate Given that the human footprint is now conspicuous across the entire globe in the oceans as well as in the atmosphere it is difficult to claim that nature is what is given and permanent while people and societies are ephemeral and simply derivative features This implies that society matters to nature and some natural scientists look towards the social sciences for an understanding of how people think and how societies work The book thus opens up a space for new forms of reflection on how natures and societies are generated Territorial approaches to forest governance Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2025-04-04 Territorial approaches to forest governance reflect a shift away from plot level toward larger spatial scales in forest management and away from exclusively public sector governance to multi stakeholder governance that includes local communities regional groups national governments private companies civil society organizations and international bodies Institutions associated with these different groups and found at different spatial and administrative scales have a direct impact on the effectiveness of forest management and governance Most of the stakeholders have however difficulties in establishing effective forest governance mechanisms designed to territorial approaches It is crucial to enhance understanding of territorial approaches to forest governance to improve forest management and governance More specifically this publication aims to identify current practices positive and negative lessons and institutional options for effective forest governance at larger scales such as landscapes It provides seven guiding principles and associated recommendations building on success factors identified in the case studies overcoming challenges and reflecting on lessons learned These guiding principles focus on strengthening institutions to better tackle the multiple scales of governance inherent to territorial approaches Economics of

Lee,Byung-Sun

Ihm,A. Farina,Yowhan Son,Kim Eun-Shik,Jae C. Choe,2007-11-05 Problems of scale have exercised the minds of ecologists for many years and will continue to do so into the future This volume deals with this subject and with mathematical approaches to improve our understanding of complex ecological systems The book also concentrates on monitoring the responses of ecosystems especially to human impacts upon them The importance of spatial separation of function at both the landscape and ecosystem level forms an important theme Finally this special book focuses on large scale issues discussing in particular important applied ecological problems and how these can be managed through a variety of planning processes Many examples of major ecological problems in the mainstream ecological literature are drawn from Europe and North America In contrast many of the most pressing ecological problems are to be found elsewhere in the world This volume is composed of four parts according to scale objectives and application of modern ecological research Part I covers emerging concepts and models in the ecosystem complex and in the landscape Part II Biological responses to environmental changes pattern and process Part III Ecological networking and restoration technology theory and practice and finally a summary of 8th INTECOL Congress and possible future directions are covered in Part IV Landscape Interfaces Hannes Palang,G.
